GARDEN, FARM, BEES, ETC.

THE PRIVETS.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times, the Garden Correspondent says:—
Too common to talk about? Well, there are Privets and Privets, and who that has seen Ligustrum lucidum, the great Chinese Privet, as a bush in the shrubbery, unmutilated by shears, with its large shiny-green foliage and big massive spikes of Lilac-like bloom in August and September, could fail to find it well worthy of association with the best of our flowering shrubs? Then, too, what a superior thing is L. ovalifolium aureum to the ordinary golden Privet, whether as a hedge plant or as a specimen bush standing out on lawn or in shrubbery! There are, indeed, several much finer things in the Privet tribe from other climes compared with which our old native kind is but poor, and among them is L. excelsum superbum, the very name of which is a talking tribute to its excellence.

HENS FOR HATCHING.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times, the Poultry Correspondent says:—
Very few hens are available for hatching at this time, but there may be some, and if so use them by all means, as they are better in winter than any machine. An outhouse or shed for hatching is a great convenience. It should be warm and dry, and a dry run should be within easy reach for use in bad weather. There should be plenty of light and air in the shed, but the nests should be placed away from any draught. The hens should not be too long off the nests when feeding, and if the weather is cold a light flannel cloth may be placed over the eggs while they are off. See that each hen covers her eggs well, as only the number that she can well cover should be given to her. A large hen may have ten or eleven, but as a rule the ordinary sized hen can only cover nine sufficiently in winter.

DUBLIN DISTRICT COURT.

SIXPENCE WORTH OF COAL.

(BEFORE MR. CUSSEN.)

Christopher Cruice, Macken street, was charged by Guard 50 B with having stolen two stone of coal from the Grand Canal quay, the value of which was said to be sixpence.

The Guard stated that on the previous afternoon he saw the defendant with something bulky under his coat. The defendant, as he was followed, dropped a bag, which contained two stone weight of coal.

It appeared that the defendant was convicted of a similar offence some time ago.

Mr. Cussen remarked that the defendant, who was remanded until Wednesday, seemed to be suffering from "thieve's itch."

BAD LANGUAGE.

Marie McHugh (46), of no business and no fixed abode, was charged by Guard 160 A with having been drunk and using profane and obscene language in Meath street on the previous evening.

Mr. Cussen said that her record was a bad one, and that she must pay a fine of 40s. or go to Mountjoy for a month.

The Defendant—Sure the month will do me good.

Bridie Dunne (31) was charged by Guard 134 D with having used bad language in Francis street on the previous night. She was also charged with having been drunk at the same time and place.

Asked where she got the drink, the woman, with an air of pride, replied—"In the pubs for ready money."

Mr. Cussen—Pay 20s. or go to Mountjoy for fourteen days.

The Defendant—I'll go to Mountjoy, but they won't get a minute's work out of me this time. They owe me money up there for all the work I have done for them in the past." (Laughter.)

PLATE GLASS SMASHED.

Guard 129 C charged Thomas McLoughlin, a farrier (36), with an address at Jervis street, with having between 8 and 9 o'clock on Friday night maliciously broken a pane of plate glass, value £3 12s. 11d., in the motor garage of Messrs. Little and Brennan, Upper Abbey street. There was a second charge against the defendant of having assaulted Mr. Thomas J. Little, one of the partners in the firm, by kicking him on the legs when he remonstrated with him.

The Guard deposed to the arrest of the defendant.

Mr. Little, examined, stated that the defendant entered the garage shortly after 8 o'clock and said that he wanted to take a car out for hire and that he would pay anything from £5 to £10 for the use of the vehicle. Witness told him that their's was a repair garage; that all vehicles that were there were being overhauled, and that they did no hiring. He suggested to defendant that a taxi was what he wanted, and he moved him off the premises. Reaching the street, the defendant put his back against the plate-glass window and "banged" it in with his elbows.

Mr. Cussen remanded the defendant, on his own bail of £10, until Wednesday.

A CHARITY SERMON.

THE SICK AND INDIGENT ROOMKEEPERS' SOCIETY.

The annual charity sermon in aid of the Sick and Indigent Roomkeepers' Society was preached after the first Gospel of High Mass in the Pro-Cathedral, Marlborough street, Dublin, yesterday, by the Rev. Joseph Curran, C.SS.R.

Taking as his text, "A new Commandment I give unto you; love one another as I have loved you" (St. John, Chap. 13), Father Curran, in the course of his sermon, said that he was making the annual appeal on behalf of the oldest Catholic charitable institution in the city, which for well nigh a century and a half had carried on a work of mercy administering relief to the sick and deserving poor in the city. Only those who had voluntarily taken on the task of visiting those people hidden away in poor homes in back streets and the slums of the city could have any idea of the miseries and privations that were patiently and silently endured by the poor. It would be some consolation to those who had helped the Society to know that it had administered help to nearly 6,500 families, comprising almost 25,000 persons.

In addition to that, substantial and generous assistance had been given to people on whom misfortune had fallen owing to the prevailing trade depression, and to families who, through sickness, had been deprived of their breadwinner. He paid tribute to the work of the Society, and added that the members did not look for any praise for their labours, because they knew that they were doing their work for Our Lord, Whom they recognised in the person of the poor. He appealed to all to make a generous response and to contribute generously to the collection, and so repeat their magnificent generosity of previous years.

PREVENTION OF CRUELTY TO ANIMALS.

At the weekly meeting of the Committee of the Dublin Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, held at 29 South Frederick street, Mr. F. S. Roberts presided, and there were also present:—Miss Hillas, Mr. Cromie, Miss Blakeney, Mrs. Shewell, Miss Overend.

Nine cases were reported by the inspectors during the week. The following subscriptions were received:—C. Burke, Esq., 7s. 6d.; P. M. Rath, Esq., £1; Mrs. Edwards, 10s.; Miss J. Montgomery, £1; Miss E. Lucas, £1; Mrs. H. F. Rowsell, £1; Miss O'Neill-Power, 2s. 6d.; Mrs. O'Callaghan, £1; Mrs. Vincent Rice, 5s.; Mr. and Mrs. Reaks, 10s.

FUNERAL OF DETECTIVE SERGEANT W. J. DAWSON.

The funeral took place on Saturday morning from his residence, Coulson avenue, Rathgar, to Dean's Grange Cemetery, of Detective Sergeant William Joseph Dawson. The late Sergeant Dawson, who was a native of Cork, was connected with the Dublin Detective Department for the past sixteen years, during which time he figured in many important criminal prosecutions. The large cortege which followed the remains to the cemetery bore ample proof of the respect in which the deceased was held by his colleagues in the force and the general public. A guard of honour of 20 men of the F Division, under Inspector Kilbride, attended. Amongst the chief mourners were:—Albert Thomas and J. Dawson (brothers), Wm. Foster (brother-in-law), Joseph Dawson (uncle), R. Dawson, T. Dawson, Geo. Dawson, Thompson Dawson (2), J. Swan, Thos. Swan, and J. Dawson (cousins).

Amongst those present were:—Col. D. Neligan, Chief Superintendent Detective Department; Capt. P. Ennis, Superintendent, Detective Department; Superintendent McFeely, Superintendent Clarke, Superintendent Walsh, Superintendent P. O'Connor, Inspectors McGloin, J. Mooney, Riordan, Corry, Curran, Beggs; Detective Sergeants J. Hughes, J. O'Neill, C. O'Connell, P. Cullinan, J. Crimmins, J. Currivan, W. Gibney, A. O'Connor, J. Tumbleton, M. Doddy, J. Lynch, McKeon; Detective Officers O'Leary, Wyer, Fennell, Maguire, Kinehan, Berry, Madden, Quinn, O'Leary, D. J. and R. Byrne, Durkin, Doyle, Coughlan, McGillion, Gordon, Ryan, McGuire, Devoy, Cryan, Kenny, Keeshan; Band Sergeant S. S. O'Neill, Sergeant Neary, Sergeant McMahon, S. S. Sheppard, S. S. Conlon, Sergeant Reynolds, Sergeant Cass, Sergeant Stewart (Newmarket), Station Sergeant Fenton, S. S. Moore; Guards Dowd, Sharkey, Bracken, Brophy, Kelly, Tobin; Chas. Magwood, solicitor; S. Bolton, solicitor; P. Carthy, Ryder's Row; M. Clarke, M. Finn, etc., etc.

A number of floral tributes were placed on the grave.

SOME OLD-TIME FASHIONS RETURN.

The Importance of Accessories in Dress.

From Our Own Correspondent.
PARIS, Sunday.

ONLY the other day women were regretting some of the old-fashioned frivolities that even our rampantly modern hearts sometimes crave for.

Take muffs, for instance. The last person we saw wearing a muff was that old gentleman whom we used to meet in the Métro some ten years ago. And we did like muffs. They were so good for hiding cakes, for holding hands, besides really keeping your hands warm.

Well, at the very last fashion opening there appeared the little cuff muffs, materialised for our particular benefit. And the long black gloves that Yvette Guilbert made famous, we yearned for them, and on that occasion they were seen ruffling on the arms with a white satin gown.

We have been prophesying this season's colours for months and months, as you can verify by consulting back numbers. The red-brown, the green-blue and the black, talked about so much earlier in the season, are the keynotes for winter—all nice subdued dark, rich colours, and not too many of them.

There is also the negre-brown, there's a rich crimson-red, too, that shades to the palest tea-rose pink, and a scarlet-red, fading into primrose-pink. There are dark greens, and a whole multitude of grey-greens and yellow-greens. The green-blues shade through navy to raven-black one way and to turquoise-black the other. Slate-greys are either bluish or purely neutral.

These are the colours you see everywhere. Violets and clear yellows are shown by some few houses.

The Worry of Waists.

Waists have become more important than they have been for years. In fact, we have concentrated so long on "weight, and how to overcome it," that we had completely forgotten that the human anatomy included the waist, since for years the word has been synonymous with hips.

Now that we are face to face with the necessity of displaying to the world a waistline as youthful as possible, many a woman has found that life holds an additional problem for her. Is it possible that, in the not far distant future, we may actually be worrying over waist measurements?

Truly a gruesome thought. But it is, after all, only a possibility, not a probability. In the meantime, waist lines are far more exciting than they were. Not only because they are higher, but also for the reason that dressmakers often try to introduce as much interest into them as possible.

Looking Well in Sports Costume.

The desire to look one's best shows itself not only in sports in general, but in every detail of them. We are very far from the monsters clad in leather or woollen garments, their faces concealed under pre-historic helmets, or swathed in gauze veils, who used to be seen climbing mountains and sprawling on the sands, or careering along the roads and exciting sarcastic comment.

We have changed all that, thank goodness. The feminine tourist no longer looks ridiculous. On the contrary, everything she wears, including her stockings and her coiffure, serves as a pretext for cultivating prettiness and smartness.

The knitted articles now turned out by manufacturers who specialise in sports wear are exquisite in shape and delightful in colour. The chine stockings, a mixture of wool and silk, are pleasant to the eye, as well as very strong. There is a delightful variety of soft and flexible scarves that give effectual protection and make another addition to the attractions of sports costumes.

Accessories.

In picking your accessories to suit your new costumes you will doubtless like to know that the plain opera pump in leather or lizard for day, and in silver kid, coloured satin or crepe de chine for evening, is the only thing seen in the best houses.

Bobs are longer and more fluid. Hats are still cloche, but are cut up high over the forehead and worn well down over the back of the neck, like a bonnet.

Costume jewellery is more than ever with us—crystal, in changed forms; turquoise and coral. Good burnished steel and nickel are two new notes in morning jewellery.

Buckles are in favour again. They appear not only on evening, but on afternoon frocks, and may be worn at the side, holding a drapery in position, or in front, catching together a group of delicate folds, or in its original character on a belt.

Our simple graceful ultra-feminine frocks this season are trimmed with cunning arrangements of scarves, cascades of drapery and cunningly-arranged bows.

Having been more restricted as to line, the Paris dressmakers seem to have spent all their ingenuity in designing something entirely original in the way of trimming; so much so that sometimes a frock really looks as though it had a new silhouette, until one realises at a second glance that it is merely the effect of a master cut and deft draping.

The reduced triangular 'kerchief is still popular, but the latest trick is to make it of the same material as your costume.

An inch and a half is the correct width for your belts. They must be in matching leather, in self material, or in metal.

Evening frocks have exquisite details as regards jewellery, while afternoon dresses are distinctly for afternoon wear, and do not pretend to be anything else.

The complexions, too, which are seen about just now in Paris are particularly lovely, since it is usual now for the fashionable woman to make up her face to match her frock.

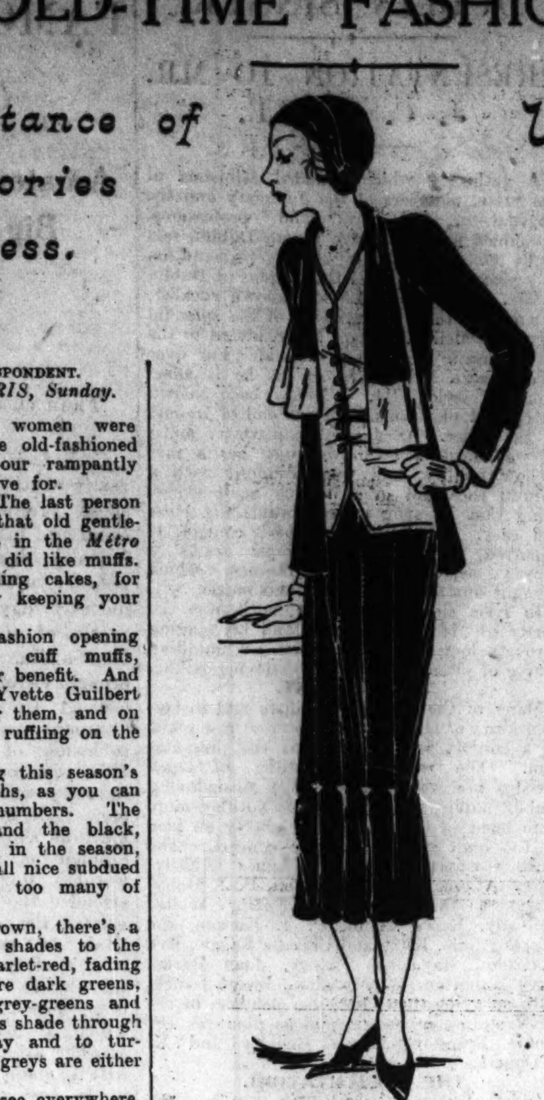
Silver-Tipped Finger Nails.

Parisiennes have started a new decoration for their delicate finger-tips. It's a new craze and rather a dangerous one.

Already blood-red nails are a little out of fashion, while coral-pink, which is rather charming when it exactly matches the colour of the lips, as it should do, has been worn for some time. But now women are beginning to paint their nails silver, and even gold.

In order to make this new tint adhere, a base of chemical must be used, but if proper care is not taken this may ruin the nails, which it gradually eats away.

So, you see, there's no silver lining to this cloud! A week is the limit in which it is safe to keep the nails covered with either a silver or gold coating.



An Autumn Fashion.

This suit of black cloth has a hip-length coat, a white crêpe-de-chine waistcoat and a skirt stitched to just above the knee. The pleats continue adding width for walking purposes. [Sketched in Paris.

Winter Gardening: A Good Planting Season.

FROM now on into December has of recent years been a good planting season, as the weather has been very mild until after Christmas, and there are so many lovely things to grow, in even the very smallest garden, that will provide blooms to decorate the home. And what delight every woman experiences when she can go out and cut her flowers in the early morning, when the dew is fresh upon them, and know that, with care, they will retain their beauty for a much longer period than could be expected of blooms which had been bought.

First of all, roses must be considered, and a few hints as to planting will not come amiss just now, as November is a good time to plant. If your garden is too wet, or you cannot manage to plant before Christmas, planting in February, March and right on into April will give very satisfactory results.

'Ware Frost.

The right weather conditions and proper preparation of the beds are of the utmost importance. Never plant during a frosty spell, or when the soil is very wet. If there is a cold wind when planting, the roots should be very carefully covered and not allowed to get dry. This should be done when planting at any time, in fact, but a cold wind will chill the roots very quickly.

The beds should be deeply dug, and if there is a heavy sub-soil near the surface it should be wheeled away and a liberal amount of manure, chopped sods and leaf mould should be dug in. If the soil is poor and light manure will help to enrich it, but great care must be taken that is is not allowed too near the roots of newly-planted rose bushes. The roots of these should be planted into the chopped grass sods.

Rambler Roses.

No garden should be without that delightful rambler Francois Juranville. The foliage perfume and exquisite pink bloom of this rose make it one of the best of all the ramblers. Emily Gray has the same glossy foliage, and the flowers are golden yellow. All ramblers are useful for cutting, and the former especially yields abundance of blooms.

IN A DUBLIN GARDEN.

The pruning of these consists in cutting away the wood which has bloomed, and if this has not been done already, no time should be lost in getting it done, and in tying in all the young wood.

There are so many beautiful dwarf roses from which to choose, and the colours are so varied that in a limited space a few only can be mentioned, but the following are indispensable where beautiful blossoms are required:—

Beautiful Blossoms.

Christine—Golden yellow.
Clarice Goodacre—Ivory white.
Dame Edith Helen—Glowing pink, and very fragrant.
George Dickson—Deep velvet crimson; delightfully scented.
Golden Emblem—Beautiful yellow; tea-scented.
Lady Dixon Hartland—A lovely pink; tea-scented.
Mabel Morse—A splendid yellow.
Lieutenant Chaure—Rich crimson; scented
Ophelia—Salmon flesh; very sweet perfume.
Shot Silk—A lovely shade of salmon pink and old rose; very sweet perfume.
The General—Rich red, with damask scent.
William F. Dreer—Soft yellow, flushed old rose.

Daffodils Too.

Again, for your vases you will find it delightful to have some clumps of daffodils and tulips in your garden. Plant these now, and be very careful not to put them into freshly manured soil. Beds or borders that have been manured last year will be the most suitable place.

The daffodils can be allowed to remain in the ground, but the tulips are better lifted when the foliage has died down. If left in the ground they are very often demolished by slugs.

Some of the best daffodils are Emperor, Empress, Sir Watkin, Madame de Graaf, Golden Spur and Lucifer.

These are all lovely varieties, but do not fail to get some of the double-flowered ones, of which Sulphur Phoenix is very dainty, and Orange Phoenix very effective.

Hints that Help.

Marks made on the pile of a carpet by heavy furniture may be raised by holding the spout of steaming kettle over them.

* * *

To remove paint or putty stains from window glass dip a wet cloth in baking soda and rub well.

* * *

Place a clothes peg bag over a coat-hanger, and slide this along the clothes line; you will find it saves the tiresome task of picking up pegs.

* * *

To "tint" curtains put a teaspoonful of yellow ochre, powdered, into a little cold water, and mix it well. Then strain through muslin. Add this to the starch, and you will find curtains take on a nice fadeless shade of cream.

* * *

To convert a worn and shabby tiled floor into a thing of beauty, scrub it well, and, after allowing it to dry thoroughly, rub over the whole surface with linseed oil. This darkens the tiles to a uniform shade, and with a weekly application of a polish mop the old floor will be kept in a perfectly hygienic condition with little labour.

* * *

To brighten gilt frames put half a pound of flowers of sulphur, together with the outer skins of several onions, in a quart of water. Let it boil down to a pint, strain, and let cool. When cold enough, brush over the gilt frames with the solution, using a fine paint brush, and they will look equal to new.

* * *

When a window frame is being painted the glass often gets splashed. To prevent this smear soap over the glass for a few inches all round the frame. When the work is finished a damp cloth will remove the soap, and the paint spots as well, in a few moments.

* * *

When your brooms and brushes wear out do not throw them away. Trim the bristles off, then cover with one or two thicknesses of old flannel or soft cloth, and you will find you have a capital mop. As it is long, it will go into the corners. Fasten on with drawing pins, then when dirty the cloth can be taken off and washed, ready for use again.

From One Girl to Another.

Dress Accessories as Presents: The Most Important Items in Modern Dress.

DEAR AILEEN,—Accessories! That's the clue to the secret of smartness in a nutshell. Have you not noticed that the whole effect of even the lovliest of 1930 dresses is in truth determined by its accessories.

Take for instance the cobweb white lace evening gown, which is so fashionable (and so awfully useful since it cleans up like new). Count the chic accessories from tip to toe.

With white, one usually chooses yellow or flame, or jade or the ever-smart black. First the earrings, then the necklace (the flowers, flat or in little bouquets), the belt buckle, the bangles, the rings, the handkerchiefs, the gloves, the stockings, the shoes, the evening bag and the inevitable little short evening coat. Had you ever realised that there were so many little additions to be considered? So little and yet so very important!

There is an old saying "clean the corners and the centre will take care of itself!" which might easily be brought up to date thus "concentrate on accessories, the dress will take care of itself!"

Most Acceptable Presents.

As presents, these accessories are a blessing. The mere male can choose his gift from hundreds displayed in any store, while the girl with clever fingers and brains can make marvellously acceptable gifts for her friends or articles for her own use.

Bags, for instance, are very easy—the pochette although still quite fashionable is to my mind a trifle usual. There is a newer kind, which is shaped round and gathered into an elastic or spring top. The prettiest I have seen was pale pink, more or less covered in gold leaves. Another, round-shaped also, was yellow, covered back and front with a pair of large water lilies. This latter cost the clever little maker exactly two shillings.

Evening bags should, if possible, match in tone or material either the wrap or the shoes. Bags which match the frock are not quite so chic; they seem to shrink into obscurity, as if they felt humiliated because people might think that they were made out of a little bit that was left over!

Gloves for Evening Wear.

Miss Quickfingers can also enliven ordinary plain kid gloves, either with embroidery or beads, so that they become quite part of her frock. By the way, black kid gloves are very popular for evening wear; they are serviceable as well as smart.

With a gold lace frock I saw black gloves from Paris, which had small gold buttons stitched at intervals of one inch all down the seam from elbow to wrist. They certainly looked very expensive—but how very easy to copy this idea!

The girl who dances every other night would be well advised to have at least two frocks to match each pair of shoes and evening wrap. A very little thought will arrange this matter when one considers that black, white, gold and silver will more or less "go" with everything.

Black is the most useful of all, but demands a heavy toll, since it usually adds on at least ten years—that is, unless the wearer is very fair or very young. In the latter case it rather subtracts.

Stockings Must Fit.

Stockings come next on the list of accessories. Even though the frock is long, ankles are seldom quite concealed, so stockings must be as beautiful as ever. Never consider cheap stockings an economy; they are most extravagant.

Buy good silk stockings, and wash them each time they are used in cold water. With normal care they will last for months and will always fit well. Be sure to buy the correct size—even half an inch too big means wrinkles, while an inch too small means crinkled toes and much discomfort. The size of a stocking is, of course, determined by the size of the shoe.

As regards jewellery, like last year it continues on novel and quite cheap lines; but, if you want your necklace to look the latest things, fasten it closely to the throat, and allow the ends to fall loose at the back.

A Vital Detail.

I have omitted to mention what is really the most important accessory of all—the unseen, but most necessary, foundation. It is of vital importance that all garments worn under these "picture" frocks should be of faultless cut and fit, and the more frilly the frock, the greater is the need of care in this matter. Even one ill-fitting "undie" is sufficient to make the whole frock look bulky, which is, of course, fatal to appearance.

Pure silk is what I advise for evening wear; it is both warm and light at the same time, and ensures the perfect line that is the ambition of every well-turned-out woman! There are, here and there, a sprinkling of shivery people who still believe that a little woolly vest is essential. Let them have their little illusion, but don't ask me to admire their "line."

All of these accessories are, however, as nothing, compared to the importance of the natural beauty of shining hair (be it long or short), bright eyes, gleaming teeth, and a perfect manicure. Space here only permits a few words about the last-named, the other three will get special attention in my next letter.

As regards manicure, old or young hands have, as you know, nothing to do with actual years. The hands of the septuagenarian are often the envy of sweet seventeen.

If you are not quite convinced of the beauty of your hands, then let a nice clean and simple manicure follow the line of your finger tips, and finish off with a light polish. It is unwise to deliberately invite the inspection of defects!—Yours,

MARY.

P.S.—The answer (published in the Irish Times last Monday) to my inquiry in this page on October 27th as to where sloes could be found in abundance in County Dublin furnished a veritable crop of ingredients for sloe wine. The hedges near Garristown are purple with sloes at the moment, and, even if the cellar does not require replenishing in this direction, the circular drive from Dublin to Balrothery and home by Garristown and the Naul is well worth doing. The road in many places is amber-lined in autumn leaves and red berries abound! M.

THE 8TH HUSSARS.

REUNION AND DINNER IN DUBLIN.

There was a good gathering at the seventh annual reunion and dinner of the Old Comrades of the 8th King's Royal Irish Hussars, held at the Dolphin Hotel, Dublin, on Saturday night. Colonel A. Curell was in the chair.

The toast of "The King" having been honoured, all present stood in silence for one minute in memory of the late General Sir Bryan Mahon.

Proposing the toast of "The Regiment," Colonel A. Curell said that during the last year they had lost the colonel of their regiment, General Sir Bryan Mahon. A great many of them had know him well. He was a fine soldier, a great Irishman, a thorough sportsman, and an absolutely trusty and true friend to all who came to him. He personally had been a great friend of his during his soldiering days. He was a typical colonel—a colonel they were proud to have served under in the regiment to which he belonged. In all his days he never swerved from what he considered his path of duty. When his soldiering days were over he devoted himself to the service of his country, despite the many difficulties and disappointments he must have had, first as a member of the Senate and then as a Steward of the Turf Club, the National Hunt, and of Punchestown. He did his best all the time, first in the government of the country, and secondly for sport generally, and particularly racing, which he wished to keep up to the old standard of clean sportsmanship.

Referring to the regiment, Colonel Curell said that this had been a great year for the old comrades. The reunion at Aldershot, when the old comrades met the serving members of the regiment, had been a great success. As a cavalry regiment the 8th Hussars had held their own against keen competition.

COMRADESHIP.

Mr. J. J. Hughes, responding, spoke of the wonderful feeling of comradeship that had always animated the members of the 8th Hussars, and which was cemented by annual reunions such as these.

The serving members of the 8th Hussars had paid a striking tribute to their old comrades when they had agreed this year, from the colonel down to the youngest recruit, to give one day's pay in aid of their old comrades in distress.

Mr. H. Byrne also responded.

Mr. R. Coughlan proposed the toast of "The Guests," and referred in appreciative terms to Major J. J. Tynan, who was one of the most responsible officers of the British Legion in Southern Ireland.

Responding, Major J. J. Tynan, D.S.O., said that he was sorry to see the reduction in cavalry regiments that was taking place; for the cavalry training was the best that any soldier could get. He deplored the action of the British Government in disbanding famous Irish regiments, which had contributed so great a share of glory to the British Empire.

Mr. G. McLoughlin proposed the toast of the ladies.

In the course of the dinner a telegram was sent to His Majesty the King conveying respectful greetings from the Old Comrades, 8th Hussars.

A further telegram of greetings was sent to the Commanding Officer of the 8th King's (Royal Irish) Hussars, Aldershot.

Mr. H. W. Pamplin, the General Honorary Secretary of the Old Comrades' Association, telegraphed from London on behalf of the President and Old Comrades in England, sending heartiest good wishes to the Irish President and Comrades.

On Saturday afternoon members of the Old Comrades' Association, to the number of thirty-five, visited St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin, where a wreath was laid on the 8th Hussars War Memorial by Colonel A. Curell, the President of the Irish Sub-Committee.

METROPOLE BALLROOM DANCE.

There was a very good attendance in the Metropole Ballroom, Dublin, on Saturday night last when the management held one of their popular Cinderella dances. The arrangements were admirably carried out, and the staff catered for the comfort and enjoyment of the guests.

Among those present were:—Mr. V. Ward, Miss M. Eager, Mr. T. Meleady, Mr. E. M. Mitchell, Captain and Mrs. Ferguson, Mr. K. F. Mullen, Mr. J. P. Murnane, Mr. G. McDonagh, Mr. R. H. McKeenan, Mr. P. O'Neill, Mr. T. O'Donell, Mr. M. Poole, Mr. D. Quin, Mr. E. C. Rowlette, Mr. Ian Robertson, Sir Thomas Robinson, Mr. Rose, Mr. Singleton, Mr. J. A. Scannell, Mr. E. C. Smith, Mr. Lionel Smith, Mr. M. F. Trench, Mr. G. Towers, Mr. T. C. Vance, Mr. G. A. Watson, Mr. J. Walker, Miss Ackeran, Mr. Arison, Mr. J. F. Brown, Mr. H. F. Beeve, Mr. D. Burney, Miss Bothwell, Major Evans, Mr. T. P. Gilmartin, Mr. G. A. Geary, Mr. Ganley, Miss Brittain, Mrs. Harsden, Mr. Hunter, Mr. R. W. Jefares, Miss Moran, Mr. S. Joyce, Mr. A. Jackson, Mr. Knott, Mr. D. Kennedy, Mr. J. W. Lane, Mrs. Lambert and Mrs. Browne.

LIBRARY ASSOCIATION DANCE.

The annual dance of the Library Association of Ireland was held in Jury's Hotel, Dublin, on Saturday night. There was a large attendance of members and friends, all of whom spent a most enjoyable night. The music was supplied by the Deesey Orchestra, under the conductorship of Mr. William Costello.

Among those who attended were:—Colonel Mitchell, Mr. P. B. Glynn, Honorary Secretary; Miss C. Keogh, Mr. P. Stephenson and party, Mr. and Miss Kenny, Mr. Ryan and party, Miss Hennessy, Mr. J. J. O'Neill, Miss Sheehan, Miss Sweeney, Miss Hackett, Miss R. Walsh, Mr. Milo McGarry, Mr. C. O'Loughlin, Miss J. McLeod, Mr. J. C. Connolly, Mr. J. E. Gaffney, Miss Dolan, Mr. Cassidy and party, Mr. M. Doyle and party, Mr. D. Gallivan, Mr. D. J. Cronin, Mr. Morrissey, Mr. B. O'Dwyer and Mr. N. Foley.

THE WOMAN AND THE TRAP.

A BORDER COMEDY.

DUNDALK, Sunday.

A comedy of the Irish Border was enacted here last night. Between seven and eight o'clock Sergeant Garrett and Guard Kaveney, of Bridge street Station, were on duty at Dowdallshill, which is the main road between Dublin and Belfast. They noticed a woman driving a pony and trap towards Dundalk; and, as it was after lighting-up time and the vehicle carried no light the Guards signalled to the woman to stop. Instead of doing this the woman whipped up the pony, turned its head for the Faughart road (which is an unapproved road to Northern Ireland) and dashed away from the Guards. The Guards had their bicycles on the roadside, and on these they gave chase. In her haste the woman was unfortunate. She had not gone far up the Faughart road when her trap came into collision with an oil lorry, which was coming towards Dundalk. The pony was knocked down, the trap overturned, and the woman was pinned underneath the vehicle.

When the Guards came up and extricated the woman from underneath the trap she was apparently injured. They carried her into a house on the roadside, and administered first aid.

CONTENTS OF TRAP.

The Guards then went to lift the fallen pony. While they were doing so the contents of the overturned trap became apparent. In the trap were 135 women's hats, 42 pairs of women's silk stockings, 35 pairs men's socks, as well as boys' coats, children's dresses and sets of underwear. These were value for more than fifty pounds, and on them a considerable amount would have to be paid if they were imported from Northern Ireland into the Free State. Seeing that the woman had come from Northern Ireland their suspicions were aroused, and the Guards, having lifted the pony, went to the house to question her.

A few minutes before she had been left in the house in a faint. When the Guards re-entered she was nowhere to be seen, and it was explained to them that directly after they had gone the woman had left the house by the front door.

The Guards searched the district for the woman, but failed to find her. They then took possession of the drapery goods, and placed the pony and trap under arrest, removing all to Bridge street barracks at Dundalk.

A force of Guards and Customs officers set out to scour the country on the Free State side of the Border, but, as yet, no trace has been found of the woman.

NOTES FROM THE "ZOO."

THE COMING CENTENARY.

BENNY AND GLADYS.

FROM OUR ZOOLOGICAL CORRESPONDENT.

A largely attended meeting of the Council of the Royal Dublin Zoological Society was held last Saturday, at which one of the principal subjects brought up for consideration was the form in which the Society ought to commemorate the hundredth anniversary of the opening of its Gardens—an event that took place on the 1st of September, 1831. The decision arrived at was that an earlier date in the summer of the coming year ought to be selected, and that an appropriate form of celebration would be to devote the Gardens for one whole day to a great garden party entertainment, to which all members of the Society should have the opportunity of contributing as hosts. It is probable that a date in June will be fixed for the holding of this centenary celebration, at which it need not be doubted that—granted tolerable weather—the many attractions of the "Zoo" will come under the notice of the public on a scale that must do much to extend the celebrity of this delightful recreation ground.

The Gardens will, indeed, be fortunate if the weather on the day of the coming celebration bears any resemblance to that which graced the November morning when the Council decided on holding it. The brilliant sunshine, in the early hours of last Saturday, produced a stimulating effect on the spirits of man and beast, and the spectacle of a number of those favourite birds, the bar-headed geese, flying in evident delight over the Gardens, actually gave rise to some uneasiness lest the migratory instinct on which these birds act so regularly in their far-off Asiatic habitat might re-assert itself in their Irish home, where they have now lived and bred contentedly since the presentation of the parent pair by Dr. T. G. Hill in 1922. Happily, these handsome geese show not the smallest wish to exert their gift of flight further than to exercise themselves over the precincts of the Gardens, where, as a general rule, they are to be observed quietly grazing in the company of a number of the somewhat larger Canada geese.

ANIMAL SPIRITS.

Although the bright weather of Saturday morning was (for the week) quite exceptional, and the week's record for visitors was undoubtedly poor—only 1,228, as compared with 1,542 in the week ending November 7th, 1929—the account given of the general health and condition of the animals was distinctly better than had been the case on the two preceding Saturdays. A most marked improvement had taken place in the two little chimpanzees—called by the popular names of Benny and Gladys—who now show scarcely any signs of the very severe colds to which one, at least, of them had been thought in serious danger of succumbing just a fortnight previously. These little animals are now among the most charming, both in appearance and manners, of the inhabitants of the Gardens. It was fortunate, indeed, that their state of health could be so satisfactorily reported on at last Saturday's Council, since among the guests who were at breakfast that morning was Dr. A. B. Monks, whose recent splendid donation of a number of West African animals derives probably the greatest part of its lustre from the presence of these two tiny "chimps."

After breakfast Benny and Gladys were, of course, visited by a large number of admiring friends, including Dr. Monks, who was warmly welcomed at sight by his two little half-year-old protégés, and examined both of them with close care. Visits were also paid to the other members of the same travelling party, who were all found prosperous.

THE CROWNED CRANES.

Particular interest was taken in the two crowned cranes, who occupy a residence next door to the large bison enclosure, and are, therefore, among the first inmates of the Gardens to catch a visitor's eye after passing the entrance gate. These very handsome birds have improved in their appearance during the four weeks that have elapsed since their arrival, as the bright red cheek patches that form so conspicuous a part of their ornamental headgear, are apt to fade away to an almost white colour during a sea voyage, but are now once more of the right degree of brilliance to give a crowned crane his proper martial outfit. They have been the subject, since their arrival, of some interesting notes on their habits, and it has been found that, though naturally ground-haunting birds, they make a practice of going to roost at night on some boards that cross the upper part of their enclosure, as though for safety against possible nocturnal marauders in the shape of hyenas or jackals. All kinds of cranes appear to be highly esteemed as food by any beast of prey that can seize and kill them; and our own "common crane"—"common" as it, perhaps, once was, but now only known through the misuse of its name, so commonly given to the heron—has been described as generally selecting for its roosting place some slightly elevated knoll, where no ambush is possible, and whence the birds can keep a good look-out on all sides.

We have here an instance how observations on creatures in wild life and in captivity may tend to supplement one another, and make Nature's ways more self-interpreting than we had been used to think them. The moral is all the more deserving of notice as it is expected that the educational value of institutions like the "Zoo" will be one of the points touched on by Canon Raven in his address on "Bird Life" at the Society's opening meeting on January 27th.

MASTER OF COMMERCE DEGREES.

Among the Degrees conferred recently at University College, Dublin, was that of Master of Commerce, obtained, with first-class honours, by Mr. P. L. Prendeville, B.A., B.Comm., and Mr. A. F. Blair, B.A., B.Comm. Mr. Prendeville, who is assistant secretary to the Dublin Chamber of Commerce, has had a brilliant University career, during which he obtained first-class honours in the Faculties of Arts and Commerce, and was a University Frizeman and Exhibitioner in Economics. He presented for the M.Comm. Degree a dissertation entitled "A History of the Dublin Chamber of Commerce, 1760-1860, with an Introduction on the Chamber of Commerce Movement." Mr. Blair, of the Irish Land Commission, is a Fellow of the Incorporated Society of Teachers, and also had a distinguished University career, being an Exhibitioner in the Faculty of Commerce. His dissertation for the Degree of M.Comm. on "The Social, Economic and Administrative Problem of the Congested Districts" contains, we understand, suggestions for a solution of the special economic ills of the congested districts and the Gaeltacht.

BIRDS ON THE WING: SHELD DUCK FLYING TOWARDS LAND. FROM THE PICTURE BY ROLAND GREEN, F.Z.S.

St. Martin's Eve.

The Eve of St. Martin was formerly a time of feasting and jollity; for it was the accepted date for completing the killing and salting down of the cattle and pigs to provide for the winter's store of beef and bacon, as well as for making tests of the season's wines and ales. For centuries it has been the occasion of a curious custom at Knightlow Hill, Warwickshire, where, "before sunrising on Martinmas Eve," the tenants assemble to pay "wroth money" to their landlord, the Duke of Buccleuch, in respect of certain charges for grazing rights, etc. The amounts paid are now merely nominal, and are more than repaid by the breakfast, with hot rum and milk, which the Duke provides for the payees.

Where We Lead.

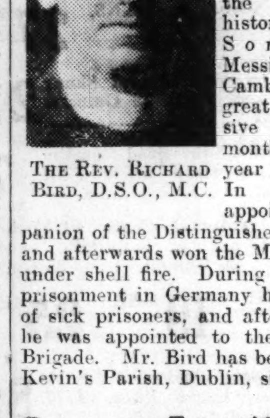
So accustomed are we to hear it said that we are "behind the times" in all things that we occasionally fail to realise that we are a long way ahead of our neighbours in many important ways.

At present, for instance, there is considerable excitement in many of the most important cities and towns in England because the Post Office Department is providing its telegraph messengers with motor-cycles. There is dissatisfaction; for in some districts the innovation will result in the dismissal of a number of postmen, and in one instance (at Bournemouth) one motor-cycle messenger will be able to do the work now done by four postmen.

In Ireland the motor-cycling telegraph messenger is now such a common sight that few people take the trouble to notice him, but his presence is one of the first things that strike a visitor to our shores as an improvement.

A Soldier Preacher.

The Rev. Richard Bird, who preached the Remembrance Day sermon at St. Patrick's Cathedral yesterday, is one of the first members of the 16th Irish Division, and as Senior Chaplain of his own denomination served with that gallant unit until, in the "21st of March Show, 1918," he was taken prisoner. He took part in all the engagements in which the Division made history—at Loos, the Somme (1916), Messines, Ypres and Cambrai, and in the great German offensive in the early months of the last year of the War. In 1917 he was appointed a Companion of the Distinguished Service Order, and afterwards won the M.C. for gallantry under shell fire. During his term of imprisonment in Germany he was in charge of sick prisoners, and after the Armistice he was appointed to the South African Brigade. Mr. Bird has been Rector of St. Kevin's Parish, Dublin, since 1919.



THE REV. RICHARD BIRD, D.S.O., M.C.

Duncannon Fort in '98.

My recent reference to King James and Duncannon has prompted a correspondent to tell me that the little fort on the rock over Duncannon village, in Waterford Harbour, was first built about 1588, and has memories of the three Irish wars. It surrendered to Ireton's Roundheads in 1650, and James II. sailed thence at one midsummer dawn of 1690, when it was again besieged. In 1798 (seven years after the antiquary, Captain Grose, visited it) Duncannon Fort was garrisoned by the 13th Somersetshire Regiment from the West Indies, with Irish Militia detachments. From the fort on May 29th that year marched four officers and sixty-six soldiers of the Royal Meath Regiment, who, while advancing under the Three Rocks or Forth Mountain at midnight, were attacked by Wexfordmen, who killed all save one officer and sixteen men. After a night march from Duncannon Colonel Maxwell and 200 soldiers of the Donegal Regiment, with a six-pounder, entered Wexford on May 29th, and on the next day, after a skirmish on Forth Mountain, were the last to retreat, with loss, to Duncannon. With them went 300 of the North Cork Regiment, and as many of the Wexford Yeomanry, most of whom arrived in confusion at Duncannon Fort on the next morning. In 1849 Duncannon fired a salute when Queen Victoria sailed past, and eight years later the last garrison left that fort. Waterford Museum, my correspondent adds, boasts an old sword-bayonet that was found in the fort.

Birds on the Wing.

The approach of winter and the first hints of hard weather seem to sow unrest among our water-fowl. Flights of duck and geese are daily coming inland in search of the more sheltered feeding-grounds of lake and fen.

The uncanny instinct that unerringly directs them on their way has undoubtedly prompted pagan peoples to regard their flight as an augury of fate. Apart from any supernatural significance, however, the autumn vagaries of birds are always interesting. This very week I was surprised to see two full-grown swans in possession of the grass plot in a cottager's garden on the outskirts of Bray. The birds had been there for fully a week, and I was told that they had made the trip across country from a lake, which must have been at least a mile distant. When I saw them they were foraging unconcernedly at the foot of a hedgerow, and were seemingly quite content with their incongruous surroundings. Even they seemed to have felt the urge to seek new quarters for the winter.

Microscopic Content.

The more I look at the average modern novel the less I like it. It is not that there is anything radically wrong with the quality of the contents—although there is generally ample room for improvement—as that I am annoyed by the invariable skimpiness. The modern novel, it seems, must be no more or no less than some 270 pages long—in large print at that. Thus it comes about that a quick reader, such as I, must pay seven and sixpence for a few hours' reading. Small wonder then that I hail a reprint of a decent work of fiction with extravagant delight—particularly an omnibus volume. When I have made my way through 300 pages of such a tome I find myself greatly satisfied with the thought that another seven hundred or so remain to be read; moreover, a book deemed worthy of reprinting is almost certain to be better than the average new book. Of course, there are honourable exceptions to the rule of microscopy, and I make them all due acknowledgments, but they are very few.

Rout of the Republicans.

The big turn-over of voters in the United States in favour of the Democratic candidates is certain to revive the traditional belief, which has been held for the last sixty years, that when a mid-term election goes against the occupant of the White House he may take it as certain that his period of residence there will not go beyond four years. The result of the mid-term elections of Senators and members of the House of Representatives for fifty years has generally indicated how the presidential election would eventuate two years later. Thus, in 1882, when the Republicans lost the majority, Grover Cleveland, the Democrat, was elected in 1887; in 1890 the Republicans were again defeated, and Cleveland got his second term of office. In 1894 the Democrats found themselves in a minority; and at the presidential election in 1896 William McKinley, the Republican, won. Roosevelt, who succeeded, held power until his Administration lost the upper-hand in Congress, and in 1908, when President Taft was at the head of the Government, the victory of the Republicans in the mid-term elections foretold that 1910 would see him vacate the White House. Similar changes in popular feelings preceded the terms of office of Wilson, the Democrat, in 1912, and Harding, the Republican, in 1920.

The Wedding March.

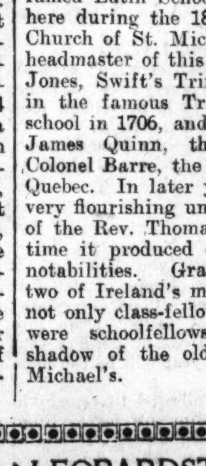
A day or so ago, on a country road not far from Dublin, I heard the sound of children's voices raised in laughter and in ironical cheers. From the gate of the school-yard there then issued a most surprising procession, headed by a small boy in a tall silk hat and frock coat, and a small girl with a white crocheted shawl draped about her, and a wreath of flowers on her head. Behind them came the wedding guests, behaving in a way that wedding guests may sometimes feel like behaving, though they restrain themselves. They were yelling and laughing and plucking at the bride's train, and altogether it was a really jolly procession, as well as being an unusual one.

As they passed me, I stopped and bowed low to the bridal couple, whereupon the bridegroom raised his silk hat, with a flourish that no gentleman of the old school could have excelled. As he did so, he bowed gracefully, and the bride curtseyed solemnly.

For some distance I pondered on the matter, especially upon the finished manner in which the small boy managed his tall hat. Then on a tree trunk I saw a poster. The children of that country school were to present a variety programme that afternoon, and I had happened on a dress rehearsal.

The Lord Mayor's Banquet.

"No party politics" is the unwritten law regarding speeches at the banquet given by London's Lord Mayor on the day of his accession to office, and Mr. Ramsay Macdonald is hardly likely to transgress as did Lord Beaconsfield in 1868, when it happened that, as now, a general election seemed imminent. It chanced that the new Lord Mayor that year, Sir Samuel Lawrence, was Liberal M.P. for a London constituency, and Beaconsfield, replying as Prime Minister to the toast of His Majesty's Government, slyly wound up his speech by turning to Lawrence and saying: "You have shown, my Lord Mayor, by your conduct of the business of this evening how competent you are to fill the great office which you hold, and I am sure you will give me credit for the heartiest sincerity when I assure you of my most earnest hope that during the next year you will be able to devote to it 'your undivided attention.'"



LORD BEACONSFIELD.

A Famous Dublin Academy.

Passing through Great Ship (Sheep) street recently, I was reminded of the famed Latin School which was conducted here during the 18th century, in the old Church of St. Michael le Pole. The first headmaster of this academy was Dr. John Jones, Swift's Trinity College accomplice in the famous Tripos. He opened the school in 1706, and among his pupils were James Quinn, the famous actor, and Colonel Barre, the companion of Wolfe at Quebec. In later years the school became very flourishing under the headmastership of the Rev. Thomas Ball, and during his time it produced quite a crop of future notabilities. Grattan and Lord Clare—two of Ireland's most brilliant sons—were not only class-fellows in Trinity, but they were schoolfellows together under the shadow of the old Round Tower of St. Michael's.

QUIDNUNC.

WELL-KNOWN DUBLIN SINGER.

PRESENTATION TO MR. J. C. DOYLE.

A gathering which included Ministers of the State, members of the Judiciary and the Legislature, the arts and professions, assembled in the Theatre Royal, Dublin, last night on the occasion of the presentation of a piece of plate from the citizens of Dublin to Mr. J. C. Doyle, the well-known vocalist, as a mark of their appreciation of the splendid services which this singer has rendered to the art of music in his native land. For over thirty years Mr. Doyle—or, as he is affectionately styled, "J. C."—has been known on concert platforms from one end of Ireland to the other. As a concert platform artist he was unsurpassed. His voice has a rare mellow quality, and was produced with a natural ease and grace, which made everything that he sang appear beautifully clear and easy. Always under superb control, it imparted to apparently simple songs a deeper meaning and significance, which brought out all their poetry and music.

In lyric singing his chief merit was the purity of his pronunciation, and his singing through long years has been an unfailing source of pleasure to the music-loving public.

THE CONCERT.

Many of the younger vocalists and instrumentalists of late years contributed last night to a concert which preceded the presentation. The respective qualities of these artistes are well-known to the music-loving Dublin public, and one need do nothing more than mention their names to convey an idea of the high standard of the concert. The artistes were: Denis Cox, Agnes O'Kelly, Terry O'Connor, Violet Pearson, P. J. Duffy, Margaret Dempsey, Jean Nolan, Walter McNally, Renee Flynn, P. J. Kirwan, the Misses Annie, Kitty and Chrissie Fagan; Eva Tomsohn, Raymond Victory, Joan Burke, Lucy Hamilton, W. Manahan, Irvine Lynch, with an orchestra comprising members of the 2RN station orchestra, and as pianistes Dr. Annie Brereton, Eileen Buckley and K. O'Doherty.

THE PRESENTATION.

Chief Justice Kennedy, in handing the presentation at the conclusion of the programme, said that to express his own feelings, and the feelings of the assembly, of admiration for and gratitude to Mr. Doyle was a big undertaking. He would not attempt to do it, but contented himself with a few simple words, spoken in all sincerity, that told Mr. Doyle that he had won a secure place in the hearts of the people of Dublin. None of those present need be told that that was so; for Mr. Doyle's career was woven into the life of the city. Mr. Doyle had used his gifts for the honour of God, of his country, and of music; he had never stooped to give them mediocre or trashy stuff. (Applause.) He had shown that sentiment could be kept in accord with the high standards of art. Mr. Doyle's personality had become part of the civic life. The presentation was a token of gratitude for the gifts of Mr. Doyle's art, and a token of esteem and affection for him personally. They all hoped that he would continue to delight them for many years to come.

Returning thanks, Mr. Doyle said that it was hard for him to express his feelings on receiving such a magnificent gift from his fellow-citizens in Dublin. It was a far greater gift than he could ever have hoped to receive. He thanked those present, the committee who organised the presentation, and his sister and brother artists who had assisted or had offered to assist. To one and all he was deeply grateful.

In response to an insistent call Mr. Doyle sang "Love Thee, Dearest," and as an encore, "She is Far from the Land." Both numbers were very warmly received.

LETTERS OF APOLOGY.

Apologies for inability to attend were received from President Cosgrave (who joined in the tribute to "an artist and a Christian gentleman"); Lord and Lady Aberdeen, Miss Agnes Treacy, and Mr. Plunket Greene.

CARL ROSA OPERA COMPANY.

TWO FINE PERFORMANCES.

The Gaiety Theatre was pleasantly crowded out at both the matinée and night performances on Saturday last by the Carl Rosa Opera Company. In the afternoon Humperdinck's charming little opera, "Hansel and Gretel," was delightfully rendered, the audience showing in no unstinted measure their appreciation both of the opera and of the "Casse Noisette Ballet" which preceded it.

At night the popular appeal of Verdi's "Il Trovatore" was manifest, the welcome notices, "House Full," being posted up outside the theatre. Those present were rewarded with a first-rate production of this vigorous old time opera. One often hears the complaint that the story of Trovatore is hard to follow, but on Saturday night there was little cause for complaint. The conductor, Mr. Hammond, achieved skilful orchestral points, and allowed the singers to deliver the words with clarity and effect.

The work of the principal vocalists was commendable. Mr. Harry Metcalfe, who has throughout the season done invaluable work, got through his opening story with fine effect. Mr. Hubert Dunkerley was a passionate and vigorous Count di Luna, who made the most of a part which is favoured by baritones. The familiar "Tempest of the Heart" was well sung—even better when repeated in response to persistent applause.

John Wright, as Manrico, did some of the best singing that has yet been heard from him. His voice was full and ringing, and generally stood well up to a very exacting test. He has a lovely pure quality, and with a little concentration on proper production should go far in his profession.

Miss Mabel Baker was the Leonora. She has a pleasing personality, and quickly won favour for her singing of the lovely aria, "Tacea la notte," and later won warm applause for her singing in the evergreen, "Miserere" duet.

It was gratifying to find the Dublin lady, Miss Monica Warner, who sang the part of Azucena, coming up to the best standards of previous seasons. She made the character of the revengeful gypsy throbbingly alive. Her acting was always impressive and her singing full of fire and colour. She received quite a number of curtains at the close of the first scene in act three.

Miss Doreen Denny as Inez and Mr. Ivor John as Ruiz carried their respective parts well.

To-night the company will present "Samson and Delilah," and during the week there will be repeated performances of "Tannhauser," "Faust," "Tosca," "The Flying Dutchman," whilst on Friday night there will be a revival of Mozart's tuneful "Don Giovanni."

CARL ROSA OPERA SOCIETY.

Quite a number of applications have been received for membership of the proposed Carl Rosa Opera Society, and that in the course of a week or two a meeting of those interested will be held in Dublin to establish a branch and local committee.

ST. KEVIN'S PARISH.

DEDICATION OF MEMORIAL.

In St. Kevin's Parish Church, Dublin, last evening, the Rev. T. C. Hammond dedicated and unveiled a war memorial to those men of the parish who served in the Great War. The memorial, a handsome brass mural tablet, has been placed in the porch of the church, and has engraved upon it eighty-nine names, thirteen of them being of men who were killed. Ex-Service men met in the parochial hall before the Service, and went from there to the church, which was unable to accommodate all who sought admission.

The Rev. T. C. Hammond, in the course of his sermon, said that the eighty-nine names inscribed on the roll of honour in that church did not represent fully those who had ventured their lives for the cause of their country from that place. A parish of that character found it difficult to get permanent records. There were those who had been nurtured in their midst there, and who had rallied to the cause of their country from Australia, from Canada, and from many other parts, but, so far as careful inquiry could carry them, they had placed on the memorial the names of those deserving of honour on that roll. It was not a bad record. He supposed he would be near the mark if he stated that the Church population of that parish, men, women and children, was round about a thousand, and eighty-nine names was a pretty high record of available men who were in that place.

At the close of the Service the Dead March was played, the réveille and the Last Post were sounded, and the congregation observed the two minutes' silence.

A SOUTHERN LETTER.

FAMOUS GERMAN CYCLE RIDER TO VISIT CORK.

Amateur Theatricals in the South : Cork Society's Big Programme : The Encouragement of Swimming : An Old Landmark to be Removed : Poppy Day.

FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

CORK, Sunday.

Cork feels that it has done something really worth while by having had a world speed "record" set up here. Other countries interested in the motor cycle industry, and with which competition for mastery in the world of speed is virtually an every-day feature, have watched the result of the attempt at Cork, which once again, after a brief interval, has brought victory to England. As Lieutenant-Colonel Crerar, of the J.A.P. Motor Company, pointed out at a function given in honour of J. S. Wright, the victor on this occasion, the British motor cycle industry would have been dealt a heavy blow if it had happened that a German machine should be shown at the show in London as the fastest machine in the world. For the happy result which attended the attempt Colonel Crerar gives most of the credit to the Cork Motor Cycle Club in making known the splendid stretch of concreted road which lies outside Cork. So far as the J.A.P. Company is concerned, the road is now the one on which, if Mr. Wright's speed is beaten, another attempt on the part of England will be made. Mr. Wright has pronounced it the best road in Europe for the kilometre distance, and this is borne out by the fact that he beat the German "record" by no less than thirteen miles an hour.

I understand that Herr Henne, the German rider, who is visiting the Motor Cycle Show at Olympia, will come over to Cork to inspect the road, and, if he is satisfied with it, he will probably make an attempt to wrest the title from England some time in the spring. The Cork Motor Club is filled with gratitude towards the Minister for Local Government for the assistance that he gave in procuring the use of the road, in spite of opposition, and the members look forward to having his help in the future if such a situation should again arise. It is only right to mention the good work of the officials of the Cork Motor Club, and particularly of the President, Mr. Ronald Russell, who has been the moving spirit in bringing about this triumph.

AMATEUR THEATRICALS.

The season for amateur theatrical performances is now in full swing here, and for the past week the Cork Operatic Society has been giving "The Gondoliers" at the Opera House with marked success. The society this year has been coached by Mr. Henry Leffler, an old Savoyard. It is Mr. Leffler's first visit to Cork, and, when speaking to him during one of the performances, he told me that he is greatly pleased with the talent that he has found here. The Society for some years has maintained a reputation for excellence of acting and singing, and this year, under his careful guidance, they have done remarkably well and deserve praise. It is gratifying to notice how well the people of Cork support local effort. In a few weeks' time the Cork Shakespearian Society takes over the Opera House to play no less than six Shakespeare plays in one week. It is probably the only society in Ireland that would undertake such a huge programme; many would blanch at the thought. The members of the Church of Ireland theatrical class are taking their last call-over before staging a very enjoyable farce in the Gregg Hall, which is certain to be well played and to have a good reception.

THE HARBOUR BOARD.

Once more there was some indulgence in personalities at the weekly meeting of the Cork Harbour Board when Mr. Richard Wallace was re-elected chairman for another term. I anticipate that the storm of invective and abuse, which, undoubtedly, has not brought credit to the boardroom, has now passed, and that the members will settle down to carry out some real constructive work and maintain the programme which has been carried out so successfully this year. Frankly, the people of Cork are bored, reading of personal antagonisms; for not only do they reflect discredit on a Board that has been creditable for so long, but they lower the good name of Cork. It is the duty of the Cork Board to set a headline to less important bodies.

SWIMMING.

The Cork City Manager, in response to requests from several swimming clubs in the city, has consented to allow the public baths to remain open two nights a week for the winter period. This illustrates the growing interest among the younger people in this form of physical exercise. The granting of the concession shows also that the City Manager, who has had several "hard knocks" since he came to Cork, is not, as he said himself at a recent meeting, "as bad as some people say that he is." The chairmen of the swimming clubs here have combined in an effort to have Cork provided with an open air baths, and it is expected that the proposal will be brought into effect early next year.

AN OLD BRIDGE.

Another landmark in Cork may soon disappear if the City Manager is permitted by the City Council to remove Parliament Bridge, which is stated to be unable to carry the increased traffic of the city. Already there has been a spirited protest by members of the Corporation, and it is possible that the Manager may not take the matter further just now. The bridge connects two of Cork's oldest areas, and the crooked arch, discoloured with age, gives this part of the city a distinctly Venetian appearance, on which many visitors have passed comment. Sentiment, however, must be swept away when one tries to cater for modern conditions of traffic.

POPPY DAY.

Reports from towns in Southern Ireland indicate that the sales of Flanders poppies will equal, if they do not exceed, those of last year. Saturday was Poppy Day in Cork City, and ladies who work for the disabled soldier, not only on this day, but on other occasions during the year, were early on the streets, where there was a brisk sale of poppies. The British Legion Club, which was utilised as a depôt, was a busy place, and it was learned there that it had been necessary to send extra supplies of poppies to the outlying towns. There is much distress and poverty among the ex-soldiers in Southern Ireland, where at this time of the year there is unemployment, and consequently depression all round. The scarcity of houses also is acute, a fact that was admitted in the White Paper laid on the table of the Dáil some months ago. No improvement has been noticed since that report was issued.

LEOPARDSTOWN RACES.

THE AUTUMN MEETING.

More delightful weather for the month of November could not have been experienced than that of Saturday last, when the Leopardstown Club held their autumn race meeting at the popular Foxrock course, and a very enjoyable afternoon was spent. The beautiful trees surrounding the paddocks and course were looking particularly picturesque, the various lights and shades of the turning leaves being further enhanced by the pleasant rays of the autumn sun, which shone throughout the afternoon. A warm air blew down from the hills, and, although most ladies came wearing fur coats, fur-trimmed cloth coats were also much in evidence. Accompanying these were worn frocks of wool mousse or light-weight tweeds, chiefly in shades of brown, with béret hats of the same material, while one or two black and white fleck tweed ensembles were deemed extremely smart.

The attendance was somewhat on the small side, but among those noticed were:—Sir Walter and Lady Nugent, Sir Anthony Weldon, the Hon. Brinsley and Mrs. Plunket, the Hon. Mrs. Dunne, the Right Hon. T. K. Laidlaw, Miss Laidlaw, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Maher, General and Mrs. Waldron, Mrs. D. More O'Ferrall, Mr. R. More O'Ferrall, Mr. F. More O'Ferrall, Captain G. A. Boyd-Rochfort, V.C., and Mrs. Boyd-Rochfort; Mrs. Blackwell, Miss McCormack, Mr. and Mrs. M. King-French, Miss O'Malley-Keyes, Dr. and Mrs. T. H. Croly, Miss P. Fitzherbert, Mr. Justice and Mrs. O'Byrne, Senator and Mrs. Barniville, Mr. Hugh Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. H. Kennedy, Mr. Maxwell Arnott, Mr. G. Purcell Gilpin, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Peard, Miss Holmes, the Belgian Consul and Madame Goor, Miss Stopford, Mr. E. Bellaney, Mr. and Mrs. David Beatty, Major and Mrs. J. Parr, Mrs. Lennon, Miss Vilia Hartigan, Miss Paula Hartigan, Mrs. C. Best, Senator J. J. Parkinson, Miss Lennon, Mr. Isidore Blake, Mr. A. D. Comyn, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Brody, Mr. J. Leonard, Mrs. Page Croft, Captain and Mrs. Gerald Martin, Mrs. Roantree, Mr. C. Odlum, Dr. L. Keegan, Miss MacLaughlin, the Misses Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. Steen, Mrs. Lingard, Mrs. Musters, Miss Knox, Major and Mrs. V. H. Farr, Miss Gubbins, Miss Norah Gregg, Mrs. Redington, Dr. and Mrs. C. O'Reilly, Mr. T. Kennan, Mrs. C. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. V. Morton Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert M. Hartigan, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Cogan, Miss Cogan, Mr. H. Ussher, Mr. J. T. Rogers.

A FILM OF THE WEEK

"MURDER" AT THE SAVOY CINEMA.

After an admittedly lean period it is gratifying to get from the British International Film producers a talking production which can be said to uphold the high standard set by "Blackmail." In the picture which is being shown at the Savoy Cinema this week under the title "Murder" there are all the ingredients necessary for the compilation of what may be styled the "thriller," and in this case they have been handled with a skill both in photographic technique and in dramatic sense that makes for success. Even to a public which is to a great extent rather blasé where crime drama is concerned there is such clever handling of the story that the speculative sense is aroused, and there is engendered a lively desire to solve the knotty problem surrounding the murder in an out-of-the-way English town of a woman member of a travelling company of actors.

The whole story is a strong commentary on the weight of circumstantial evidence. Beside the body of the mrudered woman is found another member of the company, Diana Baring, dazed and stupid as with drink, beside her a poker, and on her clothes splashes of blood. She is known to have been on unfriendly terms with the murdered woman, and in the absence of other evidence, the case is built up around the young actress, and by sheer weight of circumstantial evidence she is found guilty and sentenced to death. Then comes the startling development of the story when a famous actor who has been empanelled and has served on the jury feels dissatisfied with the verdict which he in common with eleven other citizens has passed. A flitting thought directs his activities along certain channels, and after the most interesting experiences his activities lead him to the solution of the crime. In this case apparently insignificant details really provided the clues.

The film is brimful of interest throughout, and some of the situations are presented with wonderful skill. There is, for instance, the entertaining discussion on the psychology of criminals which takes place in the jury room when the twelve good men and true retire to consider their verdict. As those who have had to do with juries will see, it is most realistically handled. In this scene, and, indeed, throughout, the acting is fresh, with that natural ease which makes for good acting. The dialogue is clever and to the point, and the fact that all the players are British adds to the enjoyment. Some of the speaking voices are delightful to hear, especially that of Herbert Marshall in the part of Sir John, the actor.

Generally the setting is good and the lighting effects—often a weak spot with English productions—excellent.

It is a picture worth seeing.

CHRIST CHURCH CATHEDRAL.

A special Service will be held in Christ Church Cathedral, Dublin, to-morow at 10.45 a.m., beginning with a shortened Litany. The two minutes' silence will be observed at 11 o'clock, followed by a short address by the Dean and the celebration of the Holy Communion. The offerings will be divided between Earl Haig's Appeal Fund and Sir Frederick Milner's Fund for mentally disabled ex-Service men, administered through the Ex-Services Welfare Society.

ARMISTICE DAY SERVICES.

A ten minutes' Service will be held in the College Chapel at 11 o'clock on Armistice Day. All graduates and under-graduates who wish to attend are requested to be in their places before the hour. The usual two minutes' silence will be observed throughout the College. The Hall of Honour will be open from 9 to 4 o'clock.

ST. STEPHEN'S.—10.45, Service of Remembrance, with reading of Roll of Honour and observance of two minutes' silence, followed by Holy Communion.

COUNTY DUBLIN GIRL GUIDES.

AN INTERESTING PROGRAMME

There was a large attendance at the Theatre Royal, Dublin, on Saturday afternoon, on the occasion of the annual entertainment in aid of the County Dublin Girl Guides.

An interesting programme was gone through, and very creditable performances were given by all the girls concerned. Special praise is due to those who organised the entertainment in such an excellent manner.

The programme opened with a pretty piece, entitled "Brownie Land," in which six Brownies from each pack in the county took part.

An exhibition of skipping was given by the Guides from Adelaide road, Alexandra School, Harcourt street and St. Stephen's Companies. A shadow play by the Guiders and Guides of the North Division was well done. The little sketch, "Ug-Ug, the Ogre," was enjoyed by the audience, particularly the younger portion of it. The display of physical exercises by the Guides from the Brighton road, Harold's Cross, and Rathfarnham Companies, and the Guides and Rangers from Rathgar, Sandford, Zion and Leeson Park Companies, was most creditable. An exhibition of Greek dancing was given by the Guides from the Brighton road, Harold's Cross, Leeson Park, Pembroke, Rathgar, Rathfarnham, St. Bartholomew's, Sandford and Zion Companies.

The Guiders and Guides of the City Division showed up very well in the playlet, "Waiting for the 'Bus."

The Guides and Rangers of the North Division again produced good form in their display of figure marching.

For "The Camp Fire," the Guides and Rangers from Glengara Park, Monkstown, and Kilternan Companies received applause. The programme concluded with the grouping of the colours.

SUPPER DANCE AT THE PLAZA.

A thoroughly enjoyable supper dance was held last Saturday night in the Plaza, Dublin. This was one of a series of dances which will be held throughout the coming season. A special attraction during the evening was the cabaret which Miss Eveline Burchill presented, when the "Two Sylvans" and "Audrey" gave a finished display of attractive speciality dances.

There were present:—Sir Ralph Coote, Mr. McWeeney, Mr. H. J. McGowan, Mrs. Murray, Mr. J. L. McGrath, Mr. O. C. Fry, Mr. D. V. Cooke, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Malcomson, Mr. Shaw Smith, Major O'Rourke, Mr. J. Picknell, Mr. F. Chambers, Colonel Caufield, Mrs. Goulding, Mr. Donagh O'Brien, Miss V. Jackson, Dr. Garrett, Mr. Bathurst, and Mr. Maynard.

Doris Davis (15), a servant, employed at Jerningham road, New Cross, London, was found dead in a bath at the house early yesterday. The body, lying face upwards, was partly covered with water.

and Circumstance March (Elgar), the congregation joining in singing "Land of Hope and Glory."

THE SERMON.

The preacher was the Rev. R. Bird, M.A., D.S.O., Rector of St. Kevin's, Dublin, who was Chaplain to the Forces during the War.

He took as his text, Genesis, chapter xi., verse 1: "And the whole earth was of one language and one speech, and they said one to another: go to, let us make bricks and burn them truly; and they had brick for stone, and slime had they for mortar; and they said: let us build us a city and a tower whose top may reach unto heaven, and let us make us a name, lest we be scattered abroad on the face of the whole earth; and the Lord God came down to see the city of the tower which the children of men built."

They were assembled, he said, to remember with gratitude the valiant men who went out, not as conscripts, but as volunteers, to serve the cause which they believed was for God, for King and country. While others might have forgotten, they had not forgotten. When they thought of the wonderful heroism and the unselfish spirit which manifested itself in the lives of so many for that cause, and when they looked out on the world to-day—a world which they were told would be made fit for heroes to dwell in—they saw a world of confusion, a world of sorrow, a world that was full of dissatisfaction. They were asking themselves: why was this so? Might not the answer be that that same spirit of heroism, that same spirit of self-sacrifice and self-abasement was lacking to-day in political and social matters, as well as in religious matters; and so the world was a world of confusion?

One of the things that impressed him most, he said, was a gravestone on the Western front, with an inscription on an unknown soldier's grave: "Known to God." Could not those who had lost loved ones find some comfort in the thought that Jesus Christ, Who came from God's right hand, told them that even the little sparrow that fell to the ground in death was known to God? There was nothing too small for God to take into His purview, and it was because God was not brought into the small things of life as well as into the big things that confusion was theirs to-day.

THE NECESSARY SPIRIT.

The whole of mens' lives had to be lived in the definite presence of God. There was no line of demarcation between the secular and the religious life. His dwelling-place was not in temples made with hands, but in the hearts of those who had yielded their lives to Him. If they could only bring into life to-day the same spirit that was manifested in the war, they would do wonders for God, wonders for their fellow-men, and no longer would sadness be so deep and intense as it is.

He remembered an incident at the battle of the Somme, in 1916. He was passing beside a wood which was being shelled. The leaves of the trees were hanging down, and the limbs were broken and torn, and that beautiful wood seemed to become human, and to say to him, "God made me beautiful, but man made me thus." He felt that if men had only put one-tenth of the energy into life that they put into the war, to build a better world, they would have reached a better world to-day.

God was the great architect, and the plan that was best for them was God's plan. If they allowed themselves to be built by God their character would stand, not only for time, but for eternity.

THE ATTENDANCE.

Among the congregation were:—Senator Barrington, Senator Sir John F. Griffith, Mr. Justice Fitzgibbon, Mrs. Fitzgibbon, Deputy John Good, D.L., J.P.; Captain Lionel Jameson, Mrs. Jameson, Lady Arnott, D.B.E.; Lady de Freyne, Captain Arnott, Sir William Taylor, Lady Taylor, Sir William Smyly, Miss Smyly, Mrs. Smyly, Mr. J. The members of the St. John Ambulance Brigade were under the direction of Superintendent Horne and Mrs. Thompson, Lady Superintendent.

At the Morning Service in St. Patrick's Cathedral the preacher was the Rev. H. C. Lyster, B.D., Prebendary of St. Audoen's. The anthem sung was "Blessed are they that mourn" (Brahms), and the hymn was "The Son of God goes forth to War."

CHRIST CHURCH CATHEDRAL.

"LEST WE FORGET."

Special Remembrance Day Services in Christchurch Cathedral, Dublin, yesterday, were attended by very large congregations, many of those present wearing poppies. In the morning the anthem was "How lovely is Thy dwelling place" (Brahms), and the anthems in the evening were "Souls of the Righteous" (Noble), and "Hallelujah" (Handel). The offerings were in aid of the Earl Haig and Sir E. Milner Funds. The National Anthem was sung at the conclusion of both Services.

Canon Strong, who preached at Morning Service, took for his text the words: "Thou shalt remember all the way which the Lord thy God led thee" (Deut viii., 2). He said that Remembrance Sunday was appointed to be observed to keep clear before their minds, and the minds of their children, the memory of great events, not in any vain-glorious or vindictive spirit, but with humbleness and gratitude. They commemorated that day a great deliverance. How great a deliverance it was many of them hardly realised yet. Few of them were aware at the time how narrowly they escaped disaster, especially in the early days of the war. But God was not on the side of the big battalions. It was He Who, blessing and using the splendid devotion and courage of the men who fought for them, averted peril. "Do not let us ever forget that," he said. "Let us thankfully remember it as long as we live. Let us teach it to our children, that they may teach it to the generations that come after."

THE SENSE OF OBLIGATION.

"Remembrance Sunday is intended to revive and keep fresh our sense of indebtedness to the men who risked so much and sacrificed so much for our sakes during those terrible years. The full tale of their patience and endurance, their devotion and heroism amid indescribable sufferings in that welter of blood and horror has never been told, and never can be told. To-day, again, we pay our tribute of gratitude and reverence and honour both to those who have survived and to the memory of those who have made the supreme sacrifice."

"Many hundreds of thousands, as we all know, alas! came home as wrecks, shattered in mind, in body, in fortune; insane, blind, deaf, disfigured, helpless. Many of them have since passed away, but a vast number of them still survive. I will not trouble you with figures now. Enough to say that there are still hundreds of thousands of these helpless and dependent ex-Service men, and widows and orphans, for whom provision of some kind has to be made. To help these people to meet this vast need as far as possible, the late Field-Marshal Earl Haig's British Legion Appeal Fund, to which we are asked to contribute to-day, exists. How say you, brethren? Do we owe anything to these men, these widows, these orphans? Remember, that what we ask you for to-day is not charity, but the payment of a debt—a payment to which honour and gratitude and justice urge us.

POST-WAR LITERATURE.

Canon Crozier preached at Evening Service from the text: "I thank my God upon every remembrance of you" (Philippians i., 3). This day, he said, was Remembrance Sunday, and it was well that they, elder people, should remind themselves of, and help the younger generation who were not old enough at the time of the war to understand, some of the facts of the war which had been glossed over or misrepresented. To-day, even, in post-war literature and in films they saw were depreciated and even vilified soldiers who had fought in the Great War. These men had been represented as brutal, bestial creatures, drunken, sodden, and irreligious.

He would like to join his protest against these sordid and wholly distorted pictures of the British soldier in the war. He could tell them from his own experience of scores of communicants, kneeling in the snow, in the wet, or on hard stones to receive the Sacrament of the Body and Blood of their Lord. He could tell them of Services held in all sorts of places, attended by soldiers during the Great War.

SERVICE AND SACRIFICE.

Of course, all the men were not saints, any more than were those at home. There were moral failures; but he must say that in his experience, thank God, these were exceptions, and not the rule, and let them not forget, but thank God for the wonderful spirit of service and sacrifice displayed by men and women in the Great War. In spite of what any so-called war books might say, they must never forget the heroism and devotion to duty, even if it led to death, of those men, on behalf of those at home—the women and children of our land. Those men fulfilled in an astonishing degree the conditions which Our Lord laid down as essential for admission into His Kingdom.

They had to thank God that out of the Great War had come the League of Nations, whose chief object was to abolish war and have disputes between nations determined by conciliation and arbitration. It had been said that Christianity was not practicable in international affairs. Surely Christianity was the one thing that was practicable; but it had not been tried, except through the inspiration of the League of Nations. Surely the creation of the League of Nations was a sign that Christianity was the only thing that would establish permanent peace.

THE PRO-CATHEDRAL.

MASS AND SERMON.

About 1,500 ex-Service men attended a Memorial Service held in the Pro-Cathedral, Marlborough street, Dublin, at 11 o'clock yesterday forenoon. In addition to the large number of ex-soldiers present there was a big attendance of relatives of deceased soldiers and sailors. All the men wore their decorations, and many women wore the medals of their deceased husbands and sons.

Shortly after 10 o'clock the various contingents assembled at Eden quay and Beresford place, and, with each section in charge of officers, marched to the Pro-Cathedral. The parade was headed by the band of the Dublin Central Branch of the British Legion and the group standards. The officers of the several headquarters were next in the procession, and they in turn were followed by members of the Dublin Central Branch of the British Legion. Other sections in the parade were the North Dublin, Rathmines and Inchicore branches of the British Legion, the Women's Section of the Legion, the Dublin Fusiliers' Old Comrades, the 8th Hussars' Old Comrades, including several members from England, and the Old Contemptibles' Association.

At the Cathedral the centre portion of the building was reserved for ex-Servivce men.

The Mass was celebrated by the Rev. T. Farrell, C.C., and the sermon was preached by the Rev. P. O'Flynn, C.C.

The officers in charge of the parade included Mr. A. P. Connolly, Major Tynan, Captain P. J. Lyne, Captain J. H. Hartigan, Captain Beard, Mr. Cavanagh, Lieutenant A. T. Ashman, Mr. C. T. Benson, Mrs. Fitzpatrick, Women's Section, British Legion; Sir Robert Tate and Dr. Ashe.

At the conclusion of the Mass the ex-Service men on leaving the church re-formed the parade, and, headed by the band, marched through the city via Sackville street, Westmoreland street and Grafton street to St. Stephen's Green, where they dispersed.

ABBEY PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

"CHRISTIAN PATRIOTISM."

"Armistice Sunday" was observed in the Abbey Church, Rutland square, Dublin, yesterday, when a large congregation assembled. Wreaths were placed on the War Memorial, the music and praise were appropriate to the occasion, and the National Anthem was sung. The collection was on behalf of Earl Haig's Fund.

The Service was conducted by the Rev. J. C. Breakey, B.A., who took as his subject "Christian Patriotism," and spoke on Psalm 137. He said:—The literature of nations contains many passages of passionate patriotism, and every land has its National Anthem, in which its people sing of their love for their native land. But the highest note ever struck on that subject is this note struck by this Jewish patriot of long ago. Though the beauty of it is more than half lost by its translation into our tongue—for no one can ever translate poetry—yet in their English dress these pulsations of the Hebrew Soul revibrate in ours. We can see the flashing eye of the poet and hear the ringing tones of his voice. No palace so memorable as the cottage where he lived in Canaan, no Tigris so notable as the little Jordan, on whose banks he played as a boy.

"EMINENTLY CHRISTIAN."

This passionate love of native land is eminently Christian. Christ had it in his day, for once he burst into tears over Jerusalem. And we in our day should not be ashamed of a deep and abiding love for this island we call our home. Unfortunately, there is sometimes a tendency, especially among us Protestants, to regard ourselves as aliens, and to act the part of colonists rather than of countrymen. There is a tendency to repudiate the name of Irishmen and to put as wide a gulf as possible between ourselves and our fellow-countrymen. We think that a sad mistake. True, many events during the last ten years have caused bitter memories. But ten years are only a page in a nation's history, and because of one blotted page we should not discard the book. We have much to be proud of as Irishmen, and we believe that as Christians we will do most for peace and good-will by cherishing the honour of our land.

Of course, there is false patriotism as well as a true, and we find it in this psalm. There is nothing Christian after the sixth verse. Unfortunately, there are many in our country who confuse false patriotism and true, who imagine that to be patriots we must jeer and gibe at other nations. Is it not time to apply the ideals of Our Lord, not only to the life and conduct of the individual, but also to the State? If we use every ounce of our influence to make the ideals of our Master the ideals of our national life, then, indeed, we shall not be altogether unworthy of those brave men and true who laid down their lives in the Great War that we might live.

CORK.

PARADE AND SERVICES.

FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

CORK, Sunday.

Remembrance Sunday was observed here with the usual impressive ceremonial. Many citizens wore their Flanders poppy. The Services in both cathedrals were attended by large congregations, and the ex-Service men present wore their medals and decorations. About 2,000 men took part in the parade, among the officers being:—Brigadier-General E. L. Sullivan, C.B., C.M.G.; General Sir R. Marshall, G.C.M.G., K.C.B., K.C.S.I.; Lieutenant-Colonel W. C. W. Hawkes, D.S.O.; Major Lindsay, Major Parry, Lieutenant-Colonel Walker, C.B.E.; the Rev. Mr. Weatherall, chairman, Relief Committee; Captain Brewitt, M.C.; Captain Gibbons, Captain M. E. Buckley and Captain Stokes.

The parade was formed in the South Mall, and at the Cenotaph the men stood to attention, and placed a wreath of poppies. Thence they passed through the main streets to the two cathedrals, the Protestants going into St. Finbar's and the Roman Catholics into the North Cathedral.

ST. FINBAR'S.

At St. Finbar's Cathedral the Bishop of Cork received a wreath and placed it on the Hero's Column. The two minutes' silence was observed, and a special anthem was sung.

The Bishop of Cork (Dr. Dowse) in his sermon spoke of those who wished to see Remembrance Day abandoned, and said he hoped that that attitude would never gain any favour. He considered that it was a splendid thing to have people of all creeds and classes gather together on one day of the year to offer up a prayer for thos who had died that others might live in peace. The parades and services should be maintained to show to the rising generation the evils of war. Brave men had laid down their lives—had left all behind them to fight for victory. But in a few short years feelings of hatred between contending nations had died away, and only the soldier and his dependents suffered. For that reason he made a special appeal for help towards the Earl Haig Fund, which was helping along the living victims of the war. In the South of Ireland and elsewhere distress was being relieved through this valuable medium, and enough help should be given to enable the good work to be carried on.

NORTH CATHEDRAL.

Preaching at the North Cathedral, the Rev. T. Noonan, C.C., referred to the celebration on the previous Sunday of the Feast of All Saints, and drew an analogy between the communion of saints and the splendid spirit of comradeship that actuated those who took part in the remembrance celebration. He said that the medals displayed on the breasts of those he saw about him told an eloquent story of that comradeship, joined under the most trying conditions imaginable, and existing now when such times were but a poignant memory. He knew that they did not forget their dead comrades, and he advised all to keep alive the noble motives that inspired such commemoration.

When the church Services had concluded both sections joined and marched again to the South Mall, where they dispersed.

BELFAST AND DISTRICT.

JOINT COMMEMORATION SERVICE.

Special Remembrance Day Services were held in various churches in Belfast and its neighbourhood yesterday, and drew crowded congregations. The Prime Minister, Viscount Craigavon, with members of the Cabinet, the Lord Mayor of Belfast, Sir William Coates, and members of the City Council, attended a joint Commemoration Service in the Assembly Hall. The building was crowded to its utmost capacity, prominent among the congregation being ex-Service men, detachments of the British Legion, V.A.D.'s and Red Cross nurses. The Service was most impressive.

The Moderator of the General Assembly (the Right Rev. Dr. Edward Clarke) was unable to be present owing to sudden indisposition. The Rev. Robert Kelso, Honorary Chaplain to the Forces, was the preacher. Buglers of the Royal Inniskilling Fusiliers sounded "The Last Post" and the Réveille.

The Bishop of Killaloe was the preacher at the Service in Belfast Cathedral, where the Queen's Island Band assisted in the music. In his sermon he said that there were ten thousand wounded men still in hospital, and, although it was twelve years since the war had ended, many of them were there for the rest of their lives, and they represented a solemn lesson to the Christian world.

What really gripped the ordinary man in the street was this: that whatever shattered men and made them invalids was too awful to contemplate, and the civilised world was crying out, "This dreadful thing must never be again." Invalid chairs and sightless eyes made a stronger appeal than all the programmes and protocols of statesmen. He prayed that they might never forget the debt they owed to these men.

The Governor of Northern Ireland (the Duke of Abercorn) was present at the opening of the Ballyclare (Co. Antrim) War Memorial Park, and unveiled the Cenotaph that has been erected there.

At the Glencraig (Craigavad) Service a memorial Celtic cross was dedicated in the church grounds, a commemorative tablet in the church, and also the standard of the Craigavad branch of the British Legion. The Bishop of Down, Connor and Dromore officiated at the Service.

IN THE PROVINCES.

KILKENNY.—A large contingent of ex Service men assembled on the Parade, near Kilkenny Castle, whence, headed by St. Patrick's Brass and Reed Band, they marched to the Black Abbey, the Dominican Church, where they attended 12 o'clock Mass.

Among those in the procession were:—The Earl of Ossory, Colonel Benson, C.B.; Major Lindsay Knox, Major Dermot McCalmont, M.C.; Sir Otway Wheeler Cuffe, Colonel Fowler, the Rev. Dr. MacLaughlin, Dr. R. E. Griffin, Dr. C. E. Drennan.

Preaching in St. Canice's Cathedral, the Very Rev. Dean Phair made a strong appeal on behalf of Earl Haig's Fund.

Speaking to the ex-Service men in the Black Abbey, the Rev. A. Coleman, O.P., said that it was a good thing to have a Remembrance Day, and in remembering they should endeavour to see that peace, and not war, should be the law of Christian people. Only those who passed through the great war could fully appreciate what it was—those who stayed at home could have no idea of the terrible sufferings and hardships experienced in the war.

DROGHEDA.—The 10 o'clock Mass in the Franciscan Church was offered for the repose of the souls of the men of Drogheda and district who fell in the Great War, and there was a very large congregation present. After Mass the ex-Service men, wearing their decorations, formed up in St. Laurence street, and, headed by the Drogheda Brass Band, and accompanied by hundreds of townspeople, marched to the Memorial Cross at Dublin Gate. The ex-Service men participating numbered about 150, and were in charge of Captain Boylan, D.S.O. The Legion banner was carried in front, and behind the men came women, relatives of the fallen, bearing floral tributes, and these were followed by the boys of the Drogheda Grammar School, in charge of the Rev. Mr. Ferguson, headmaster, and the Rev. W. B. Allman, Rector of St. Peter's.

When the procession reached the memorial, the ex-Service men formed a square about the cross, and the Last Post was sounded. After the two minutes' silence was observed, the Reveillé was sounded. Wreaths and floral crosses were then placed around the cenotaph, and the parade, forming up, again marched back to the West Gate square, where they dispersed.

Other officers taking part in the parade were:—Colonel Cecil Thornhill, Captain J. Stanley Mathews, Captain J. Duff Mathews, Captain Tarret.

BALBRIGGAN.—Members of the Legion, wearing their decorations, attended the 11.30 o'clock Mass in St. Peter and Paul's Church, which was offered for the repose of the souls of the fallen. After Mass the ex-Service men, to the number of about forty, headed by the Legion Band, marched round the town, and to the Legion Hall, where they dispersed. Hundreds of the townspeople accompanied them through the town.

NAAS.—Headed by the local band, about three hundred ex-Service men paraded to and from the last Mass. The men were under the command of Mr. Barry Brown. After observing the two minutes' silence, the Rev. W. Murphy, late Senior Chaplain of the 10th Irish Division, delivered an address.

SLIGO.—The local ex-Service men, augmented by contingents from Ballyshannon, Manorhamilton, Dromahair, Tubbercurry, Ballymote, Collooney and Ballisodare, to the number of about five hundred, formed up at the British Legion Club and, headed by the Sligo town band, marched to the War Memorial at Edenhill on the outskirts of the town. The Sligo Boy Scouts and Stars Band also took part in the parade. At the Memorial, Captain R. S. Gorman, President of the Sligo Branch of the Legion, introduced the Rev. Canon M'Clean, who served with the 10th Division during the war. Canon M'Clean said that Sligo men during the Great War had nobly upheld the traditional bravery and courage of the Irish race.

Major Myles, T.D., Ballyshannon, said that the Ballyshannon men were glad to come to Sligo to honour the Sligo dead, and at the same time their own dead.

He referred to the loss sustained by the Sligo Branch of the Legion by the death of Major Bryan Cooper, and he asked that the organisers of the parade convey to Mrs. Cooper their deepest sympathy.

Captain Gordon McCormick, Chairman of the Sligo Branch of the British Legion, proposed a vote of thanks to the Rev. Canon McClean and Major Myles for attending.

The two minutes' silence was observed, and the Reveille sounded, after which the parade marched through the town and back to the Legion club.

A large number of wreaths was placed on the war memorial.

WATERFORD.—Members of the Waterford Branch of the British Legion, headed by the Barrack street Brass Band, marched to eleven o'clock Mass, which was celebrated at the Cathedral, for the repose of the souls of those who fell in the Great War. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon a public procession formed up outside the Legion premises. The units taking part included members of the Waterford Branch British Legion, dependents of ex-Service men, women's section, Tramore and Portlaw contingents. The four city bands attended, and, headed by the Legion pipers, the procession paraded the principal streets of the city, and returned to Ballybricken Hill, where a memorial cross was erected. A square was formed there, and the Last Post and Reveille sounded by the Legion buglers.

Lady Susan Dawnay led the women's section of the procession, while marching at the head of the men's section were Sir Edward Garraway, K.C.M.G., President of the Waterford Branch of the Legion; Captain W. A. Redmond, T.D., D.S.O.; Major Carew, Captain James Conway, Captain J. Flanagan, Mr. D. J. Clancy, Chairman, and the officials of the Waterford Legion Branch.

LIMERICK.—Nearly a thousand ex-Service men, headed by Captain W. Maloney, M.C., took part in the celebrations. There was a crowded congregation in St. Mary's Cathedral at the Morning Service. Wreaths were laid at the Thomond War Memorial in the Cathedral, and during the earlier part of the Service the Last Post was sounded, followed by the two minutes' silence and then the Reveille. The sermon was preached by Colonel the Rev T. Ormsby, D.S.O. The Bishop of Limerick (Dr. White) pronounced the Benediction at the close, after which "God Save the King" was sung.

Colonel the Rev. T. Ormsby also preached at the afternoon Service, and the collections at both were in aid of Earl Haig's Fund.

There was a crowded congregation in St. John's Cathedral, where Memorial Mass was celebrated by the Rev. T. J. M'Namara, who preached after the First Gospel. He said that a divine of another church had stated that the time had come for a cessation of the Armistice celebrations, but with that he disagreed. They should remember their dead, and the way of doing so was in the holy Service of the Mass.

At the conclusion of the Mass the ex-Service men, who wore their war decorations, formed up, and, headed by the Sarsfield Fife and Drum Band, marched to the Cross of Sacrifice in Percy street. Here wreaths were placed at the base of the column, and the two minutes' silence was observed. Then followed the Last Post and the Reveille, after which the ex-Service men proceeded to the Legion Club, where they were dismissed.

CAHIR.—A memorial cross of Celtic design was unveiled in the centre of the town to the memory of eighty-eight men of Cahir and district who gave their lives in the Great War. About 150 ex-Service men, wearing medals and poppies, under the command of Captain Culm Seymour, marched from the Legion Club to Castle street, when they formed a square in front of the memorial. About a dozen war widows and a boy, Michael Riordan, son of a soldier killed in the war, and wearing his father's medals, were in the procession. There were also present:—Major-General Franks, K.C.B.; General Kellett, Colonel Charteris, Major Murdock, Count Moore, Major Nolan, Major Hutchinson, Mr. Brennan, Secretary of the Cahir Branch of the Legion, etc.; the Rev. W. B. O'Donnell, P.P., Cahir.

Major-General Franks said that he considered it one of the greatest honours they could pay an Irish soldier to be asked to unveil that memorial to the men of Cahir who died in the Great War.

The Rev. Canon Deane, Rector, Cahir, conducted a short Service. The Last Post was then sounded.

Colonel Charteris and others laid wreaths at the foot of the memorial.

ARMAGH.—A contingent of ex-Service men assembled at the War Memorial, and, headed by the Boys' Brigade Band, Church Lads' Brigade Band, and Boy Scouts, marched to the head of the Mall. Services were held in the different churches.

DERRY.—Services were held in the several Protestant churches. Wreaths were placed on the War Memorial. The 1st Battalion of the York and Lancaster Regiment, headed by their band, marched to the Cathedral. The band accompanied the singing of the hymns. Colonel Beauman, D.S.O., placed a wreath on the Cathedral War Memorial.

NATIONAL TEACHERS' GRIEVANCES.

DEMANDS OF KERRY MEETING.

Mr. P. J. Fleming, Killarney, presided at a meeting of teachers from all parts of Kerry, which was held in Tralee last Saturday. Let them insist, he said, on larger salaries for their teachers, and then they could be sure of getting the best talent for the education of their children. They should never forget that the national school was the university for more than 90 per cent. of the youth of the country.

On the motion of Mr. Nunan, Ardfert, seconded by Mr. Creighton, Tralee, the following resolutions were adopted:—

"That the delay of the Government in fulfilling its statutory obligations re national teachers' pensions, notwithstanding the unanimous demand of the country, we look on as unjust and unreasonable, and we can only urge on it the necessity for immediate attention.

"That we call on the responsible authorities to take immediate steps to remedy the deplorable condition of a great many schools buildings, which are utterly unsuitable and unfit for the housing of human beings, and that we request the city medical officer of health to furnish a report on sanitary buildings.

"That, as a considerable number of assistants and junior assistant mistresses, particularly in the Gaeltacht, have recently lost their positions owing to a decline in 'average,' we believe that the time has arrived when the Government should accept the position that, having called teachers into being, they should retain those teachers in any position to which they have been appointed, even though the 'average' does not warrant their retention, until they provide them with alternative employment."

Mr. Lenihan, speaking to the resolutions, paid a tribute to the officials of the Kerry organisation for the efficient manner in which they had been doing their work.

Senator Cummins also stressed the urgent need for improving school buildings.

Mr. T. J. O'Connell, T.D., found fault with the present scholarship system, and urged that the pupils of national schools should be afforded opportunities for secondary education.

Miss Breen, Mr. Heaslip and Mr. Liam McSweeney also spoke.

CORK HARBOUR COMMISSIONERS.

CHAIRMAN'S CHALLENGE.

Mr. Richard Wallace, Chairman of the Cork Harbour Commissioners, has written a letter to Mr. Hugo Flinn, a Harbour Commissioner, in which he invites him to repeat certain statements made at last Wednesday's meeting, "over your name in the public Press, when I shall promptly give you an opportunity of proving your statements before a jury of your fellow-countrymen."

DUBLIN SKETCHING CLUB.

WORKS OF MANY ARTISTS.

The annual exhibition of water-colours, paintings, and portraits of the Dublin Sketching Club opens in the Mills Hall, Merrion Row, Dublin, to-day. Although the exhibits are not quite so numerous as in previous years, they form a collection numbering close on two hundred, embracing works by many artists familiar to the public. There are of necessity many works not particularly good—the efforts of aspiring newcomers, but, taken all round, the standard is as good as in previous shows. One of the most appealing exhibitors is Mr. Henry W. Moss, whose work always commands attention. In this exhibition he has some first-rate paintings in both water-colours and oils. "Down Wexford Way" (No. 43) is a lovely study in water-colours, the ripe, rich colouring of the fields and vegetation, the natural hue of the river, and the workmanlike appearance of the old sailing craft, combine to make a restful and artistic picture. A vivid contrast is the same artist's painting in oils, "The Golden Evening Brightens the West" (No. 94), in which there has been caught a glorious golden glow over the landscape. Mr. A. McGoogan is another painter whose brush has the gift of artistry. A more delightfully natural scene cannot be imagined than that which formed the subject of his painting, "Near Loughlinstown" (No. 96). Here the painter has caught nature in her golden glory. His study of "Spring, Near Loughlinstown" (No. 137) also shows fine workmanship.

The President of the Academy, Mr. Dermod O'Brien, has on view some of those landscapes which make his work always so easily recognised—a distinctive touch and glow imparting a restful atmosphere, such as one feels when looking at, say, "The Road Through the Moor" (No. 37) or "A Dream of Peace" (No. 53).

The Hon. Secretary of the Sketching Club (Mr. J. L. Martin) is another of the old school well represented in a couple of little studies "On the Clare Coast" (No. 44) and "The Road to the Mountain" (No. 54). Mr. Alex. Williams, R.H.A., so long associated with the Club, is represented by a few of his characteristic paintings. There is a lovely charm about his panel "Atlantic Drive" (No. 21). Close by this is a clever composite study by a promising young artiste, Miss Kathleen Ennis, "A Corner of the Studio" (No. 22). This same painter has some good still-life studies on view.

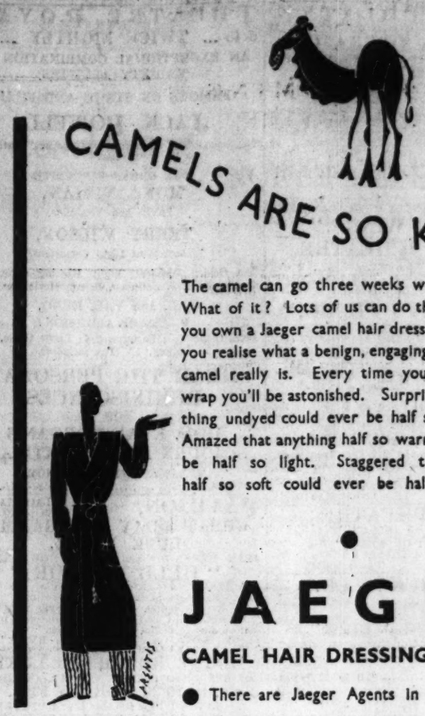
"China and Begonias" (No. 11) is a typical sample of the work of Mrs. Kathleen Marescaux, whose effects are always strikingly achieved. Her "Jar of Begonias" (No. 62) is also a lovely work.

Miss Helen Yates shows versatility in her works, which in this case include a rock and sea study on the Clare coast (No. 48), a Boy Reading (No. 90), and a study in still-life, Dandelions (No. 85), but they are, frankly, not up to her best standard.

"Reflected Lights" (No. 77) is typical of those misty suggestive studies which H. C. Tisdall, R.H.A., likes to evolve. Agatha Ilalahan has done some strong character painting in her portrait study of "Mr. Mitchell" (No. 17), and has also contributed some artistic flower studies. "Autumn Day" (No. 2), by Miss Constance Rochfort, is an artistic piece of brushwork, the lay-out being well arranged and treated. Miss Gladys Wynne has caught a world of mystery into her painting of "The Reeks" (No. 47), half-concealed in a purple mist. Mrs. Eva Shannon shows some clever studies, the most appealing of which will probably be that under the title "Beauty Hideth Everywhere" (No. 127), though the portrait, "I Know Why Sam Loves Sue" (No. 171), is very attractive. Samples of the work of such painters as Howard Knee, W. F. Cooper, G. F. Verschoyle, The MacEgan and Kathleen Boyd also catch the eye in a show which is worth a visit.

THE THRIFT MOVEMENT.

The Right Rev. Monsignor Doyle, P.P., V.G., who presided at a public meeting in THOMASTOWN last Friday night to form a Savings Committee and branch of the thrift movement, read a letter from the Most Rev. Dr. Collier, Roman Catholic Bishop of Ossory, stating that this movement had his wholehearted support and signifying his consent to become a patron. The Most Rev. Dr. Day, Bishop of Ossory, wrote in similar terms. The meeting was addressed by Mr. T. P. Gill, Chairman, Central Savings Committee; Mr. P. J. Quinn, past President, Irish National Teachers' Organisation; and Mr. H. A. Mullett, Secretary, Central Savings Committee. A representative committee was formed.



CAMELS ARE SO KIND

The camel can go three weeks without water. What of it? Lots of us can do that. Not till you own a Jaeger camel hair dressing gown will you realise what a benign, engaging creature the camel really is. Every time you put on this wrap you'll be astonished. Surprised that anything undyed could ever be half so handsome. Amazed that anything half so warm could ever be half so light. Staggered that anything half so soft could ever be half so lasting.

EGYPTIAN STUDENT RIOTS.

POLICE STONED FROM A ROOF.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

ALEXANDRIA, Sunday.

The students at the Arts and Crafts School here went on strike yesterday and attacked the police from the roof, pelting them with stones. Several police officers were hit. A number of students were arrested.

CAIRO, Sunday.

The students of the Technical School at Toukh, in Lower Egypt, came out on strike to-day and attempted to wreck the school premises. Further sabotage occurred to-day, a number of telephone lines being cut in Lower Egypt.

CHARGE AGAINST BOOKMAKER.

In the NEWBRIDGE District Court a man named Harold Simpson was charged with, while making bets at the Curragh races, absconding and having failed to pay Miss Manning, of Laragh House, Maynooth, in connection with bets made on the Curragh course. Superintendent Boyle said that the defendant was present at the Derby meeting at the Curragh and took between £100 and £103. He had not completed inquiries, and asked for a remand. Defendant said that the amount made out by the Superintendent was absolutely wrong. Some of the people owed him money. It was nothing like the amounted stated. Superintendent Boyle said that the amount was £103. Justice Reddin remanded the accused man on bail in £50 and two solvent sureties.

The Irish Times.

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1930.

NEWS SUMMARY

IRELAND.

Remembrance Sunday Services held in the principal churches in Dublin and throughout Ireland yesterday were attended by large congregations.—(Page 7.)

During the twelve months ended September last the Free State adverse balance of trade showed a fall of over £4,000,000.—(Page 7.)

GREAT BRITAIN.

The Empire delegates visited the high-power wireless telegraph station at Dorchester on Saturday. Mr. Thomas spoke to two persons in Canada.—(Page 7.)

The Motor Cycle Show will be opened in London to-day. There are many novel features.—(Page 7.)

ABROAD.

Three of the horses owned by Mr. John Warwick, of Belfast, scored further successes at the National Horse Show in New York.—(Page 7.)

The Australian Premier, Mr. Scullin, in a statement on Saturday, stated that the public need have no doubts of the Government's determination to meet its obligations. Nothing would induce them to adopt a policy of deliberately deferring payment of maturing loans.—(Page 7.)

SPORTING.

At Leopardstown on Saturday Bray Beau won the Sandyford Handicap, Chedabucto the Glencairn Plate, Beaudelaire the Autumn Plate, Yes or No the Killiney Handicap, Faithful Tag the Bray Handicap, and Kyleclare the Stand Plate.—(Page 10.)

At Liverpool Heronslea won the Grosvenor Cup.—(Page 10.)

At Windsor Flange won the Glamis Handicap Plate.—(Page 10.)

FINANCIAL.

In Lombard street advances till Monday ruled at 1½ per cent. down to 1¼ per cent. Discount rates were firm. The Bank sold £403,880 in bar gold to France and £17,000 in sovereigns was exported.—(Page 12.)

The closing was heavy on the New York Stock Exchange last Saturday.—(Page 8.)

The Imperial Conference.

The Imperial Conference, after nearly six weeks of detailed discussion, is nearing the end of its labours. Virtually all the constitutional issues, with the exception of the problem of Privy Council appeals, have been arranged, and the way is almost clear for the final consideration of the economic problem. Canada's Premier, at the beginning of the Conference, made a definite offer to Great Britain, and was supported in that offer by all the other Dominion representatives. He advanced a specific case for purposes of bargaining, but the gist of his proposal was that the Dominions were ready to increase their preferences in favour of British manufactures in return for enhanced advantages for their primary products in the home markets. In short, Mr. Bennett called for closer co-operation between the several units of the Empire—an ideal which, for its fulfilment, demands the imposition of food taxes by the British Government. Canada wishes to sell her large surplus of wheat; Australia has fruit and wool in abundance; South Africa is anxious to increase her sale of tobacco, wines and the like; New Zealand and the Irish Free State are interested mainly in the profitable disposal of dairy produce. All these Dominions are prepared to extend their purchases of Britain's manufactures, but they will do nothing to help Great Britain unless she is prepared to help them.

The present Government of England is bound hand and foot to the principles of free trade. British Labour is obsessed by Cobdenite inhibitions, and the Chancellor of the Exchequer, who is the ablest and most forceful personality in the Cabinet, will not hear of any proposal to tax food or raw materials. We may assume, therefore, that Mr. Bennett's original plan—the adoption of a tariff by Britain against foreign produce—has no chance of success during the lifetime of Mr. Macdonald's Government. Mr. Stanley Baldwin, on the other hand, has pledged the Conservative Party to acceptance of the proposal in principle, and, as all the portents indicate that the Socialists will be defeated at the next general election, the Bennett plan, either as it stands or in a modified form, may become a matter of practical politics during the next few years. In the meanwhile, Mr. Macdonald's Cabinet realises that the failure of the Imperial Conference to meet the Dominions' wishes in any way would be a disaster; and, in spite of Mr. Snowden, it is making earnest efforts to find an alternative to the Bennett scheme. Can the sale of Dominion produce in the United Kingdom be increased without the imposition of tariffs? Britain's economic experts have been occupied busily in the examination of this problem, and an answer may have been found in the shape of the quota.

Although the reports of the Graham Committee have not yet been approved by the heads of delegations, it is probable that the principle of a quota for wheat has been recommended. The idea is that Britain's imports of wheat shall contain a certain minimum percentage of supplies from imperial sources. Under this scheme prices would be governed by world conditions, and no attempt would be made to apportion the quota among the wheat-growing Dominions. If the plan is adopted, Canada and Australia will have a guaranteed market for a certain quantity of their grain, and, while they will not derive the benefits that they had expected from the Bennett plan, their economic position will be improved. If Canada and Australia obtain this concession, the other Dominions cannot be ignored. South Africa desires preference for her canned and fresh fruits; New Zealand and the Irish Free State are concerned with the sale of their agricultural produce. It is possible, therefore, that some form of quota system may emerge from the Imperial Conference, giving something to every Dominion, but really satisfying none. Of course, everything will depend on the measure of reciprocity which the Dominions are prepared to concede to Great Britain. What would the Free State offer in return for a butter quota? How would Britain be compensated by South Africa for a quota on canned fruits? These and many other questions must be answered to the satisfaction of the British people before any real progress can be made towards the consolidation of the Empire's economic interests. Once the broad principle has been approved, however, the rest will be a matter for the experts.

Australia's Choice.

Next month the Commonwealth of Australia will be faced with the necessity to find money for three purposes. In the first place, the New South Wales Government owes £2,000,000 on bills backed by the Commonwealth Bank, which must be met. We ignore a further amount of £3,500,000, which can be re-discounted. Secondly, the Commonwealth must pay £5,000,000 of interest on loan; and the third test of its solvency will be the floating of Mr. Lyons's Conversion Loan to repay £27,000,000 of short-term debts that fall due in December. Viewed in the most favourable light, Mr. Lyons's plan is only a borrowing from Peter to repay Paul, but, since the money is obtainable from no other source, the scheme must be adopted. The Labour Caucus, however, inflamed by the refusal of the Commonwealth Bank Board to underwrite the maturing loans, has developed a very different attitude. Mr. Anstey and Mr. Beasley, both members of Mr. Scullin's Cabinet, have shepherded a resolution past their colleagues to the effect that legislation be introduced to compel the bondholders to wait another year for their money; in other words, the Australian Cabinet has sanctioned a temporary repudiation of debt. Australia has been educated by her various Governments for years to live on borrowed money. Now the time of reckoning has come, and the wilder elements of the Labour Party are seeking to hide their responsibility under a cloud of invective. Mr. Anstey's resolution probably will come up again for consideration on Thursday, and it is not too much to say that its uncertain fate will make or mar Australian credit for a generation. The extremists, notably Mr. Graves, the leader of the New South Wales Labour Party, in their anxiety to secure its passage, wish to take disciplinary action against any of their members in the Cabinet who may vote against it. On the other side, Mr. Scullin, Mr. Lyons and others are determined that Australian credit shall not become a thing of scorn. Some three months ago the Australian Premiers accepted Sir Otto Niemeyer's prescription for the Commonwealth's fiscal disease, and agreed that State budgets must be balanced. Much backsliding has occurred—conspicuously in New South Wales, where Mr. Lang, the new Prime Minister, is a very uncertain quantity—but, generally, the Premiers' agreement is recognised as a desideratum, even if the efforts to achieve it are trifling. "The public need have no doubt," said Mr. Scullin yesterday, "of the Government's determination to meet its obligations." No one doubts that the issue, if it rested with Mr. Scullin, would have a reputable ending. It is Mr. Scullin's power, reinforced by Mr. Lyons and Mr. Fenton, to carry the day which may be questioned. A view exists that the problem may be deferred till Mr. Scullin's return, but Australia's condition scarcely admits of such delay.

Rugby in France.

Irish sportsmen will view the crisis which has arisen in French Rugby football circles with mixed feelings. Recalling the gallant display that France made in last season's international matches, they will lament that dissension bids fair to undo the progress achieved through years of dogged persistence; but they will rejoice that a definite effort is being made to purge French Rugby of the abuses from which it is by no means free. The situation is complicated, but in essentials it is as follows:—A powerful body of clubs—most of which are from the southern departments of France—has broken away from the parent Fédération Française de Rugby, and intends to carry through a tournament of its own. The seceders' action is the result of long dissatisfaction with the conduct of Rugby football in France. They resent the inordinately complicated system of competition for the national championship, to which they attribute a number of incidental abuses—in particular, the brutality that has characterised the game on many French fields. Last year a scheme of reform was submitted to the Fédération, and, on its rejection, six clubs withdrew from the competition; later, six more clubs joined them, and an independent Tournoi des Douze was founded. Although the Fédération authorised the step, it seems to have put many difficulties in the way of the twelve, who now have determined on complete independence of the parent body. The immediate result is that none of the seceding clubs will be able to meet British teams; and, in all probability, their members will not be offered international caps, although they include many of France's finest players, who have appeared more than once at Lansdowne road and Ravenhill. Dissension in sport generally is deplorable, and we hope that the schism will not endure. The Fédération ought to realise that the seceding clubs have acted in the best interests of French Rugby, and ought to give belated consideration to their bill of wrongs.

Obedience.

France may be misguided on occasions, but she is never indefinite. The national character is like the national language—clear, precise and direct. Both alike recognise that there is a time and a place for double entendre and compromise, but where plain speech or a definite attitude is needed, their intent is unmistakable. While other races split juristic hairs over naval categories or the marriage vow, France proclaims her decision openly and without fear of error; if she sees reason to change it, she changes it without excuse or delay. We anticipate, therefore, that the struggle which has arisen over Article 213 of the Civil Code, dealing with the relations of husband and wife, will be short and decisive. The article says: "A husband must give protection to his wife and the wife must give obedience to him"; and its presence in the Code, according to the Paris Correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, is ascribed to the direct influence of Napoleon, who had strong feelings in regard to woman's place in the home. The duty of wifely obedience, as he is reported to have said, "has been laid down in marriage ceremonies for ages, but has been read in Latin; in future it must be said clearly in French." Now French feminists complain that the brides of their country are at a disadvantage in comparison with those whose legislatures and synods have erased the offending obligation, and have left madame free to obey or refuse to obey as she pleases. The question obtrudes itself: Would the remission of the promise make the slightest difference? What, after all, has been its effect in any country where the experiment has been tried?

EARL JELLICOE'S APPEAL.

UNEMPLOYMENT AMONG EX-SERVICE MEN.

An appeal on behalf of ex-Service men and their families was broadcast last night by Admiral of the Fleet Earl Jellicoe, who is President of the British Legion. The Prince of Wales will broadcast an appeal to-night.

"The most serious problem of the day," said Lord Jellicoe, "was unemployment. Ex-Service officers and men undoubtedly were the principal sufferers, largely on account of their service during the War. Many of the older men could not take up the positions they held before the War, while many of the younger ones lost their chance of apprenticeship and training because they were serving in the War."

IN SOUTHERN IRELAND

MANY MEN IN SEMI-STARVATION.

An appeal, signed by the Duke of Portland, President; the Marquis of Salisbury, Chairman; Colonel John Gretton, M.P., Vice-Chairman; the Marchioness of Dufferin and Ava, Chairman Ladies' Committee; Lady Somerset, Lord Methuen, Lord Carson and Lord Danesfort, has been issued on behalf of the Southern Irish loyalists and ex-Service men and their families, which states that it is computed that there are in Southern Ireland to-day some sixty thousand ex-Service men bordering on semi-starvation, and the British public are asked to realise their obligations to these men.

As conscription was not enforced in Ireland, those who were not already serving joined up voluntarily and went out to the Great War, under special promises made by the British Government with regard to their future welfare. These promises have remained largely unfulfilled; there is no likelihood of their being redeemed in the future; and the present poverty and distress of the ex-Service men are really deplorable.

The special appeal is made to enable the Association to deal with the numerous applications received daily, which do not come within the scope of the work carried out by the British Legion and other charitable organisations. "At this time, when our thoughts are turned to Armistice Day, we cannot but think that if the true condition of these men could be realised by the people of this country, they would at once respond and give liberally to relieve the distress. We feel sure we shall not appeal in vain.

"We have been promised from one generous friend a special gift of £250 in memory of the late Duke of Northumberland, if three other similar amounts are forthcoming as the result of this appeal."

All cheques should be made payable to the Chairman of the Association, the Marquis of Salisbury, K.G., and sent to him at 12 Palmer street, Westminster, S.W. 1.

WEATHER FORECAST.

General Inference.—A large anticyclone centred off our south-west coasts is spreading slightly north-eastwards, and weather will be mainly fair and mild, though showers will occur locally in the North.

Ireland, North-West.—Westerly wind, fresh or strong at times; variable sky; some showers; rather mild.

Ireland, North-East, South-East and South-West.—Moderate or fresh westerly wind; mainly fair; mild.

Irish Sea and St. George's Channel.—Moderate westerly wind; fair; visibility moderate to good; sea slight or moderate.

The King, who was accompanied by the Queen, received the delegates from India to the Indian Round Table Conference and the advisers and Secretariat, with their wives, in the Throne Room of Buckingham Palace on Saturday. The delegates were severally presented to Their Majesties by the Right Hon. William Wedgwood Benn, M.P., Secretary of State for India.

Thieves broke into Sundridge Park Station, Southern Railway, during Friday night, cut a heavy safe from the wall, and bodily removed it from the premises. It contained about twenty pounds.

The death is announced of Mr. R. L. Outhwaite, M.P. from 1912 to 1918 for Hanley division of the Potteries.

The Dean of St. Davids, the very Rev. William Williams, died on Saturday at the Deanery, St. Davids, in his 83rd year. He was ordained in 1873, having thus served the Church for fifty-seven years.

COURT AND PERSONAL.

The King and Queen received the Indian delegates to the Round Table Conference last Saturday at Buckingham Palace. To-morrow, if weather permits, His Majesty will attend the Armistice Day Service at the Cenotaph; and on Wednesday he will open the Indian Round Table Conference in the House of Lords. On next Saturday the Court will leave London for Sandringham, but their Majesties will return to Buckingham Palace for a short stay before they go to Norfolk for the Christmas recess.

Princess Victoria has sent a letter of congratulation on the success of Alexandra Day to the Duchess of Portland, who, as chairman of the executive committee, contributed largely to the result. Over £5,000 is being devoted to the charities in which Her Royal Highness is especially interested, and £40,815 will be divided between numerous hospitals and charities for the sick poor.

Princess Helena Victoria visited Muswell Hill last Saturday afternoon, and opened the Woodside Hospital for nerve patients.

The Infanta Beatrice, who went to Spain to assist King Alfonso in entertaining Prince and Princess Takamatsu of Japan at the Palacio Real, has now returned to London, and has rejoined Queen Victoria Eugénie and the Infanta Maria Cristina at Kensington Palace.

The Duke and Duchess of Buccleuch, who spent the past three months at Drumlaurig Castle, have returned to London. The Earl of Dalhousie and his mother, the Countess of Dalhousie, have left Brechin Castle, and are now in residence at 82 Eaton square, S.W. Earl and Countess Jellicoe have arrived in London from St. Lawrence Hall, Isle of Wight. The Earl and Countess of Bessborough will leave Stansted Park, Emsworth, this week for London. Lady Winefride Elwes will be in residence at 20 Ennismore Gardens, S.W., till Christmas.

The Marchioness Curzon of Kedleston has been laid up for some time with a severe attack of influenza, but is now making satisfactory progress towards recovery. Lord Glenarthur is doing well, and his early convalescence is expected. The Hon. Thomas Mitford, only son of Lord Redesdale, is being treated in Burford Hospital for concussion which he sustained in his recent flying accident.

The Earl of Coventry has accepted the Mastership of the Hawkstone Otter Hounds; Mr. Arthur Jones, who had been Master since 1924, resigned recently. The Earl of Yarborough enters on his fifty-first season as Master of the Brocklesby Hunt this month.

A marriage has been arranged, and will take place early in December, between Major David Adye Buchan, D.S.O., R.A., son of the late W. A. Buchan, Esq., M.B., of Plymouth, and Phyllis Eileen, eldest daughter of Colonel Henry Bourke Jordan, D.L., of Thornhill, Kiltimagh, Co. Mayo, and Bashley, Shandon, Dumbartonshire.

Dr. Sheridan has left 15 St. Stephen's Green until the 27th November.

Dr. Teresa Jones has returned to 29 Upper Fitzwilliam street.

COLLEGE HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

LORD CARSON'S TRIBUTE.

At the Committee's request, Lord Glenavy, President of the College Historical Society, invited Lord Carson to speak at the recent opening meeting of the Society. Lord Glenavy received the following reply, which, "coming from one of the foremost Irishmen of his generation and a Vice-President of the Society, is characteristic of the man not alone for his tribute to its President, but also for his appreciation of the Society itself."

(COPY.)

5 Eaton place, London, S.W.
October 29th, 1930.

MY DEAR JAMES,—It is with very much regret that I have to decline the invitation of the Auditor and Committee of the College Historical Society to be present at the opening meeting on Wednesday, 5th November. I need hardly say nothing would give me greater pleasure than to renew once more my association with the old Society, where you and I were both members so many years ago. Indeed, the receipt of your letter of invitation brings back to me so many memories of the Society and my numerous friends that, if it were at all possible, I would be present.

I notice that this is the opening meeting of the 161st session, and I can most sincerely express my great pride in being one of the Vice-Presidents for so many years, and my continued interest in its welfare and prosperity. Added to this there is the memory of our own close friendship, which has never varied during all these years and is a very highly valued treasure to me.

Will you please tell the Auditor how much I wish him every success upon the occasion, and with what interest I will read his inaugural address when it is sent to me in due course?

I remain, with affection,
Yours ever,
EDWARD CARSON.

LONDON LETTER

RUMOURS AND DENIALS.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON
SUNDAY NIGHT.

The Prime Minister and Mr. Snowden both saw the need to deny the reports that they were divided by grave differences, and that Mr. Snowden was resigning his post as Chancellor of the Exchequer. Few people attached any importance to the latter story; for, if Mr. Snowden decided to resign, in all probability his action would mean the downfall of the Government, and no Labour Minister is anxious to bring about such a result. That there are difficulties attendant on the question of free trade has been apparent for weeks past, but the suggestion that they have grown suddenly so tremendous as to cause a Cabinet crisis in a day or so is not regarded in political circles as a reasonable supposition. Resignations are not to the taste of Labour Ministers generally, and much greater importance may be attached to the statement made by Mr. J. H. Thomas yesterday, when, speaking to a Canadian Minister over the telephone, he remarked that he would be in office for a long time to come, since the other parties could not put him out.

Omens.

Mr. Philip Snowden's position, however, is not what it was; for there can be no question that a great change of opinion is taking place among the rank and file of the Labour Party which directly threatens the continuance of his political creed. During the past week Shipley has provided an object lesson which cannot be without its effect on other manufacturing districts, and the distinct possibility of a change causes no small perturbation among Labour members holding seats in such neighbourhoods. Safeguarding has been such an outstanding success in the motor world that the news has spread throughout industry, and may conduce to further gains if opportunity serves. Shipley may be only a tiny wave of a flowing tide, but it heralds far greater movement in the future. That Mr. Snowden will remain in office, to be swept away by such a tide, is scarcely possible; but there is a chance that he may give way to circumstances, and consent to occupy another office.

Electoral Reform.

The Prime Minister will be asked during the question hour in the House of Commons to-morrow whether any decision has been taken about the date when the measure of electoral reform will be submitted to the House, and whether the reform will embrace proportional representation or the alternative vote. It is unlikely that Mr. Ramsay Macdonald will be able to give Sir George Penny, the questioner, a definite reply, because he himself has not been able to come to a conclusion in regard to this measure, which was promised in the Speech from the Throne. It is still the subject of negotiation with the Liberals, though the conversations are somewhat tenuous and erratic. The Liberals are by no means hopeful that any measure of electoral reform will be passed during the present Parliament, unless there is a very great change in the situation.

Armistice Day.

During the past few days, almost as if in answer to the suggestion that Armistice Day is being worn a little threadbare, I have noticed a steady increase in the number of floral trophies placed at the base of the Cenotaph, and to-day the wreaths were numerous and beautiful, making a pile several feet high. In a number of suburban districts Armistice Day was anticipated this morning by open-air Services, and it is reported that the attendance appeared to be even larger than it had been on past occasions. The inference safely may be drawn that the greatest of all celebrations on Tuesday—that at the Cenotaph—will be as impressive as it usually is, and, perhaps, more so, though much must depend upon the weather. The news that the King will be present, unless the weather is very bad, is appreciated greatly. The Queen, the Queen of Spain and the Royal Princesses will occupy windows in the buildings of the Colonial Office, while the Indian Princes, with the Dominion Prime Ministers, will be placed near the person of the Sovereign.

A Lifeboat for Howth.

The motor lifeboat Lady Kylsant, built by the Royal National Lifeboat Institution last year, and presented by the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company and the Union Castle Mail Steamship Company in response to the Prince of Wales's appeal to shipping companies, left Weymouth yesterday for Ireland. She now has been replaced at Weymouth by a larger motor lifeboat, and will be stationed at Howth, manned by a local crew under the command of Lieutenant-Commander J. M. Upton, R.N.R., Inspector of Lifeboats for Ireland. On her way she will call at Brixham, Penzance, Padstow, Angle and Rosslare. The Lady Kylsant is a Watson lifeboat, 40 feet 6 inches long, with six water-tight compartments and 160 air cases. Driven by a fifty horse-power engine, which gives a speed of seven and three-quarter knots, she can travel 114 miles at full speed without refuelling, has a searchlight and line-throwing gun, and can take fifty people on board in rough weather. The Howth Station was established in 1862, and has a record of ninety-six lives rescued from shipwreck and eight medals awarded for gallantry. Up to the present it has had a pulling and sailing lifeboat. Ireland has now twelve motor lifeboats in its fleet of twenty-three boats. The Howth pulling and sailing lifeboat will be transferred to New Brighton, on the Mersey, as soon as the Lady Kylsant arrives.

The New Year.

The International Fixed Calendar League has been formed to secure the general adoption of a thirteen-month year in 1934, and a conference called by the League of Nations will meet next October to consider the scheme. According to the proposal, every month would consist of twenty-eight days, but there would be an additional day between June and July, which would be an international day of rest; and the last day of the year would be observed in a similar fashion. Christmas Day always would fall on a Monday, but what the superstitious would consider an unfavourable arrangement is that every thirteenth day of the month falls on a Friday.

Spanish Art Treasures.

In accordance with the example of Italy, arrangements are being made in Spain for a vast national inventory which may include every valuable picture, sacred vessel or work of art, of whatsoever kind, in the country, whether owned by the State, the Church or private individuals. It is hoped thus to achieve the maximum effect of a royal decree regulating the export of Spanish art treasures to foreign countries.

LORD THOMSON'S WILL.

Lord Thomson, the Air Minister, who lost his life in the R 101 disaster, left £1,737, with net personality £1,646.

The will, dated October 3rd this year, made on a sheet of Air Ministry paper, read:—

"In the event of my death during the flight of R 101 to and from India, or as a result thereof, I bequeath everything of which I die possessed, cash, chattels and papers, to my brother, Colonel Roger Gordon Thomson, C.M.G., D.S.C., of Spring Hill, Widdington, near Newport, Essex."

Probate is granted to his brother.

OBLIGATIONS MUST BE HONOURED.

AUSTRALIAN PREMIER'S REPLY TO THE CAUCUS.

PRESERVING COUNTRY'S GOOD NAME.

LABOUR PLAN WOULD INJURE WORKING CLASSES.

MR. SCULLIN, Prime Minister of Australia, stated in London yesterday:—"The public need have no doubts of the Government's determination to meet its obligations. Nothing would induce us to adopt a policy of deliberately deferring payment of maturing loans."

While admitting that the sufferings of the people in Australia were acute, he declared that they would become more acute and more widespread if confidence in the Government's honesty were shaken. The course proposed by the Labour caucus, he said, would delay for years the restoration of Australia's economic prosperity.

The rival policies regarding the £27,000,000 worth of loans which mature for repayment next month are as follows:—

LABOUR CAUCUS.
That bondholders should be compelled by legislation to hold their bonds for a further period of twelve months.

GOVERNMENT.
That the conversion should be carried out by means of long-term bonds at five per cent. and short-term bonds at six per cent.

Mr. Fenton, the acting Prime Minister, who is in constant communication with Mr. Scullin by wireless telephone and cable, announced on Saturday that the Cabinet overwhelmingly favoured the Government proposal as outlined above.

Mr. Lyons, the acting Federal Treasurer, has stated, according to a Reuter message from Sydney, that a minority of the Government wished to defer meeting the loan, but that the majority realised the folly of such a scheme and its impossibility under existing circumstances.

MR. SCULLIN'S FIRM STAND.

CAUCUS SCHEME WOULD BE "DISASTROUS."

The Prime Minister of Australia, Mr. J. H. Scullin, M.P., made the following statement to the Press in London yesterday:—

"The fundamental principles adopted by the Commonwealth Government and confirmed by Ministerial supporters were, firstly, that we felt that the preservation of our good name and fame depended upon a scrupulous observance of our financial obligations, and, secondly, that any departure from the principle would react disastrously on the people as a whole, and particularly on the wage-earners.

"That declaration has been made again and again by responsible Ministers and others. Nobody realises more clearly than the Government how severely existing economic conditions are bearing on the working classes, nor is the Government blind to the anxieties and trials of the members of the Federal Parliamentary Labour Party, who are in close touch with the people, who are the greatest sufferers from the acute financial stringency. There is only the question of what is the right thing, and what in the long run is the best thing, to be done.

LOANS MUST BE MET PROMPTLY.

"The public need have no doubts of the Government's determination to meet its obligations. Nothing would induce us to adopt a policy of deliberately deferring payment of maturing loans. They must be met on the due date. Any other course would be disastrous to our credit and would delay for years the restoration of economic prosperity.

"The sufferings of the people are acute. They would become more acute and more widespread if confidence in the Government's honesty were shaken.

"This Government will honour its obligations, and I am confident that any Australian Government that failed to do so would lose the support of the Australian people."

CABINET MAJORITY BEHIND PREMIER.

"MILITANTS MUST CLIMB DOWN."

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
CANBERRA, Saturday.

The Federal Government has rejected the instruction of the Labour caucus concerning the £27,000,000 loan that matures next month.

Mr. Fenton, the Acting Prime Minister, announced to-day that the Cabinet "overwhelmingly favoured" the plans of Mr. Lyons, the Acting Federal Treasurer, and were proceeding with the conversion of the loan on his terms.

"The Cabinet is overwhelmingly in favour of proceeding with the conversion on the reasonable terms outlined," said Mr. Fenton. "It is expected that the prospectus will be issued after the Loan Council on Tuesday."

Mr. Fenton also announced that some of the bondholders had signified their intention of allowing twenty-five per cent. of their bonds to be cancelled when they fell due on December 15th as a gift to the Commonwealth, and he appealed to the patriotism of the people to support the Loan.

He also declared: "The Government, Parliament and the people will never repudiate their just liabilities at home and abroad."

MODERATES STRENGTHENED.

The Acting Premier's announcement followed the receipt of a cable from Mr. Scullin refusing definitely to agree to the plan of the party caucus. This represents an initial success for a section which is endeavouring to retain Mr. Lyons in the Cabinet, and to oust Mr. Anstey, Minister for Health, and Mr. Beasley, Assistant Minister for Industry.

"The bold action of this section," said Mr. Fenton, "has strengthened the position of moderates in the party. The militants must climb down or precipitate a party smash."

He also stated emphatically that no decision by the caucus could force the Government to resign. The only method of accomplishing this would be on the floor of the House, where, nevertheless, the Moderates with the Opposition held a majority.

Mr. Anstey, the Minister for Health who proposed the resolution to defer payment, which was carried by twenty-two votes to sixteen at the meeting of the Labour caucus), when interviewed in his office working in his shirt sleeves, was in a philosophical mood. "Boy," he said, "I'm not worrying about success or [illegible]"

MILITANTS' SECOND THOUGHTS.

RESOLUTION MAY BE RESCINDED.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
CANBERRA, Sunday.

Mr. Fenton states that he is unaware of any basis for the rumour that Mr. Scullin had demanded the resignation of Mr. Anstey, the Minister of Health.

The Labour caucus resolution proposed by Mr. Anstey, having been re-committed for discussion next Thursday, it is expected that Parliament will now deal with the question of taxes only, and will adjourn until the return of Mr. Scullin.

Apparently dismayed by the consequences of their action, several members of the inflationist caucus majority are explaining that their intention was merely to ask the Government to invite bondholders to grant an extension of time for loan payments, and did not realise that the text of Mr. Anstey's motion was committing them to repudiation.

The attitude of these members, and also the fact that seventeen Labour members did not attend the caucus makes it probable that the caucus at its next meeting on Thursday will recommit the resolution, in which case it will almost certainly be defeated and a party split averted.

MUTINOUS MINISTERS' POSITION.

FEDERAL TREASURER ON "KEEPING FAITH."

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
SYDNEY, Sunday.

The Herald expects that the resolution favouring the postponement of loan redemption will be re-submitted to the Federal Labour caucus next Thursday, when ten members who were previously absent will attend.

As a majority of the members of the Cabinet favour Mr. Lyons's policy (that the £27,000,000 of short term debt that falls due next month should be met by a conversion loan to be raised in Australia), Mr. Anstey, who proposed the motion for compelling bondholders of the £27,000,000 bonds to hold them for another year, and Mr. Beasley, who supported the motion, may either have to withdraw their opposition to the Government or give up their portfolios.

Mr. Lyons has stated that a minority of the Government wished to defer meeting the loan, but the majority realised the folly of such a scheme and its impossibility under existing conditions.

"The only way," said Mr. Lyons, "is the traditional way of keeping faith with the lenders, and giving them back their money when it is due according to the letter of the bond."

NEW SOUTH WALES LABOUR PARTY.

An informal conference of the New South Wales Labour Party Executive, after hearing Mr. Beasley's report regarding the Caucus proceedings, approved his stand, and promised, if possible, to secure for him the support of the New South Wales section, and it is understood that disciplinary measures will be taken in respect of four New South Wales members who voted against the majority last Thursday.

Mr. Graves, the President of the party, said that the question was plainly whether the directors of the Commonwealth Bank or the people should govern. The party Executive did not desire equivocation on such a financial issue.

IRISH HOSPITALS' SWEEPSTAKE.

ATTITUDE OF THE BRITISH POST OFFICE.

Questioned regarding a statement that the postal authorities in Great Britain had declined to forward letters addressed to the Irish Hospitals' Trust, Limited, applying for sweepstake tickets, Mr. Joseph McGrath, director of the Trust, stated last night:—

"We know nothing of any such action on the part of the British postal authorities. As a matter of fact, only this morning we opened about three thousand letters, registered and unregistered, from persons in Great Britain who wished to obtain tickets."

The Daily Herald says that Mr. Lees-Smith, the Postmaster-General, refused to confirm or deny that letters connected with the Irish Hospitals' Sweepstakes were being refused transmission through the post. Mr. Clynes, the Home Secretary, would make no statement last night.

BELFAST HORSES IN NEW YORK.

MORE SUCCESSES AT FAMOUS SHOW.

MR. JOHN WARWICK ON HIS VISIT.

SPECIAL TELEGRAM.
NEW YORK, Saturday.

Danny Shea, who came over with the Irish Free State team in 1925, came in second in the handy hunter class contest at the National Horse Show at Madison Square Garden last night. He was riding Popover, a horse owned by an American, for whom Shea is stable manager.

Miss Ruth Cowan, of Montreal, won permanent possession of the Townsend Challenge Cup, one of the most-prized trophies in the show, riding her famous horse, Red Tape. It was the bay gelding's third appearance in the day. He also gained one blue rosette and one red.

Mr. Warwick, of Belfast, again scored last evening in the trios for jumpers, his Margot, Activity and Roxana handily taking the blue ribbon over the United States' Army's team, Miss America, Suzanne, and Dick Waring. The third place was won by the United States' Army's team, Huron Girl, Geraldine and Harrisburger, and the Canadian team, with Pericles' Mother, Bertha and Bucephalus, came in fourth.

The most exclusive society people in New York were present at last night's show, many giving dinners in connection with the evening. Mrs. Thomas Logan gave a dinner at the Ritz-Carlton to foreign officers competing in the show, and Mr. and Mrs. H. Edward Manville gave another dinner, at which Count and Countess Folke Bernadotte were among the guests.

MR. WARWICK INTERVIEWED.
NEW YORK, Sunday.

Lady Luck did not smile on Erin's horsemen last night at the National Horse Show at Madison Square Garden. The Irish team only took part in one event—the Brooks Bright Foundation Challenge Cup—and after an excellent showing over extremely difficult jumps, failed to come into the first four. Mr. Pierre Lorillard, junior's, Buckaroo took first place, and the other places were secured by Mr. Hollon Crowell's entries.

Mr. John Warwick did not take part in last night's show. Interviewed at Madison Square Garden, he declared that he was enjoying himself to the utmost in America, and was getting "a good square deal everywhere."

He felt, he said, that he had made a good showing in his début as an exhibitor at New York and Boston, considering that he had to cross the Atlantic and compete under general conditions which were very different to those in Ireland or England.

With a twinkle in his eye Mr. Warwick added: "Whatever cups I win here I think I will leave in America, so that Lipton can bring the whole bunch back together with the America's Cup in 1932."

OVER WIRELESS TELEPHONE.

MR. THOMAS SPEAKS TO MONTREAL.

ANSWERS HEARD BY EMPIRE DELEGATES.

The marvels of the trans-Atlantic wireless telephone were demonstrated to members of the Imperial Conference when they paid a visit with Mr. J. H. Thomas, Dominions Secretary, to the Imperial Wireless Beam Stations at Dorchester and Bridgwater on Saturday.

From an armchair in a large marquee in the grounds of the Bridgwater Station Mr. Thomas had a long conversation with Mr. Beatty, of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who was speaking at his desk in Montreal. By the side of Mr. Thomas was the Marchese Marconi, who watched with interest the latest practical application of his life's work.

Mr. Thomas and Mr. Beatty discussed the work of the Imperial Conference, and Mr. Beatty's replies were heard by the audience on loud speakers.

Mr. Thomas insisted that the Conference was not going to break up without some practical results being achieved. He asked Mr. Beatty when he was coming to this country, and Mr. Beatty replied: "In the spring."

Mr. Thomas exclaimed: "I will still be a Cabinet Minister then. They cannot turn us out." He referred to Empire economic relations, and said it would be a good thing if economic conferences were held in the Dominions as well as in London, so as to avoid any suggestion that the Dominions were having things imposed upon them from London.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas later had a private conversation with their son in Montreal.

At a luncheon at Weymouth Mr. Thomas said he was satisfied that when the results of the Conference emerged in a few days' time those who were genuinely anxious for the prosperity and development of the Empire would have no reason to regret the 1930 Conference.

Mr. and Mrs. Scullin and other members of the Australian delegation left hurriedly for London after visiting the Dorchester Station.

THE NEW BRAZILIAN GOVERNMENT.

REPORTED RECOGNITION BY GREAT BRITAIN.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
NEW YORK, Sunday.

Great Britain has recognised the Provisional Government of Brazil, according to an Associated Press despatch from Rio de Janeiro.

The new régime also has been recognised by Argentina, Paraguay, Sweden and Ecuador.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
WASHINGTON, Saturday.

The United States has recognised the new Government of Brazil. The announcement was made with dramatic suddenness by Mr. Stimson yesterday morning following a prolonged conference with President Hoover, at which a detailed report on the political situation in Brazil, received from the United States Ambassador in Rio de Janeiro, was considered.

Determined to do all in its power to eradicate the memory of a previous diplomatic blunder, when it refused to allow American firms to ship arms to the revolutionaries, thereby antagonising the present Brazilian Government, the State Department acted this time with more than usual promptness. Valuable foreign markets of great potential value are at stake in Brazil, and the United States has shown a keen appreciation of this fact in the speed with which it has recognised the new Government ahead of its principal rival in those markets, Great Britain.

An amnesty was proclaimed to-day for all civilians and soldiers involved in the recent revolutionary disturbances.

FREE STATE'S TRADE.

ADVERSE BALANCE STILL FALLING.

OVER £4,000,000 DOWN IN A YEAR.

With an adverse trade balance of £482,039 for the month of September last the Irish Free State showed a reduction in its total adverse trade balance for the twelve months ending 30th September last of £4,238,046, the actual debit balance for that period being £10,158,452.

Free State imports from all sources during the month of September last totalled £4,813,303, while exports, plus re-exports, were valued at £4,331,264, bringing the total trading to £9,144,567.

The bulk of the trade was done with Great Britain, from which the Free State imported goods to the value of £3,347,909, a reduction of £314,221 as compared with September of last year. Exports, plus re-exports, to the same country, totalled £3,703,238, as against £3,746,084 in September, 1929. Imports amounting to £1,003,597 came from "other countries," while exports to "other countries" amounted to £172,991. Northern Ireland accounted for imports to the value of £461,797, while Free State exports to Northern Ireland were worth £435,684.

TWELVE-MONTH PERIODS.

Taking the trade of the Irish Free State for twelve-month periods, ended September of every year from 1925, we get the following:—

Period.	Total Trade. £	Adverse. Balance. £
Oct., '24, to Sept., '25	110,393,033	18,074,613
„ 1925 „ 1926	103,976,596	18,823,428
„ 1926 „ 1927	105,549,378	17,812,264
„ 1927 „ 1928	105,754,086	13,708,894
„ 1928 „ 1929	108,483,674	14,396,498

DISTRIBUTION OF TRADE.

For the nine months January to September of 1929-1930, the distribution of trade was as follow:—

IMPORTS.

Country.	Jan.-Sept., 1929.	Jan.-Sept., 1930.
Great Britain	£31,123,338	£30,181,728
Northern Ireland	4,737,075	4,482,861
Other Countries	10,386,001	8,736,398
	£46,246,414	£43,400,987

EXPORTS.

Country.	Jan.-Sept., 1929.	Jan.-Sept., 1930.
Great Britain	£27,063,323	£26,454,796
Northern Ireland	3,654,153	3,540,912
Other Countries	2,162,405	3,077,878

RE-EXPORTS.

Country.	Jan.-Sept., 1929.	Jan.-Sept., 1930.
Great Britain	£399,998	£385,852
Northern Ireland	146,349	130,299

NINE MONTHS' TRADE WITH OTHER COUNTRIES.

	Imports. Jan.-Sept., 1930.	Exports. Jan.-Sept., 1930.

Newfoundland	19	29,390
Turkey	862	49,583
Roumania	271,549	10,340

SOME SATISFACTORY FIGURES.

Looking at the trade with the principal other countries outside the British Isles for the nine months January to September last, we find a decline in imports from the United States of £638,488, the value of the imports being £3,021,843. Exports, on the other hand, rose from £624,767 in 1929 to £1,092,438.

Imports from Argentina fell by a million pounds, while exports increased from £18,152 to £122,520. Imports from Canada remained almost stationary at round about the half a million mark, but exports to that country advanced from £68,715 to £121,934.

Trade with Germony during the nine months was not so satisfactory. Imports at £1,022,200 were £192,845 under the same period for last year, while Free State exports to Germany totalled only £205,488, or £42,842 under the same period of 1929.

Imports from Russia increased in value from £18,608 to £29,776, while exports to that country increased from £121,251 to £361,343.

The only other remarkable figure is that for Rumania. Imports from that country advanced from £14,946 to £271,549, and exports to it from £554 to £10,340.

IMPORTS ANALYSED.

While there was a reduction during the nine month period in the imports of chilled or frozen beef and mutton, there was an increase in the quantity of bacon and hams imported from £1,225,541 to £1,317,552. The Free State also imported a greater quantity of fish, but imports of eggs in shell dropped from £17,140 in 1929 to £4,964 this year.

Imports of wheat were worth £1,740,035, barley £105,849, and oats £35,283. The latter shows an increase of £3,000 over last year's figure, but wheat and barley display a considerable shrinkage. Maize imports were worth £1,715,875 or £790,119 under the figure for 1929, due, no doubt, to the increasing use of home-grown produce for stock feeding.

Tea to the value of £1,524,860 was imported, as compared with £1,601,683 in 1929.

There was an increase in imports of unmanufactured tobacco, stemmed being valued at £164,316 against £133,522 during the January-September period last year. Unstemmed tobacco imports were worth £853,885, against £255,575 last year. Imports of manufactured tobacco on the other hand fell from £25,928 to £23,764.

Imports of wearing apparel, including boots and shoes, to which further reference is made here, were valued at £4,270,640, or £258,477 less than for the nine month period 1929.

COAL IMPORTS MAINTAINED.

Despite the advent of the Shannon scheme, the coal trade appears to be holding its own, imports for the nine months being as follows:—Household coal, £1,678,892; steam, £433,640; other sorts, £240,889. These figures are similar to those for the corresponding period of last year.

Imported motor tractor parts for the nine months were valued at £815,080, as against £554,374 in 1929, while commercial vehicles were worth £157,847, or about £2,500 more than in 1929.

MORE BOOTS AND SHOES.

Notwithstanding the tariff, imports of boots and shoes increased, the quantity imported during the nine months period being 352,114 dozen pairs, as against 316,843 dozen pairs in 1929. This year's lot was valued at £1,325,895 and last year's £1,311,991.

THE EXPORT TRADE.

Cattle exports for the nine months January-September were worth £9,864,363, as against £8,724,242 in 1929, while other animals brought the live-stock export

THE MOTOR CYCLE SHOW.

FEWER LIGHT-WEIGHTS.

NEW FOUR-CYLINDER MACHINES.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.
LONDON, Sunday.

The exhibits at the Motor Cycle Show, which opens at Olympia to-morrow, range from small two-stroke machines to large motor cycles with luxurious side-cars attached, and three-wheeled vehicles, which really are motor cars, except that, having but three wheels, they are ineligible for exhibition at the Motor Show, and, therefore, are included among the motor cycles.

For licensing purposes, too, they are motor cycles, though several of them are fitted with quite capacious bodies.

Machines of the ultra-light type are not so numerous as in other years, and there is a tendency for public preference to turn towards a rather heavier mount than the extremely light machines which achieved considerable popularity a few years ago. The explanation for this change is to be found in the recent alteration in the British regulations relating to the taxaton of motor cycles. Formerly the limit for the lower scale of tax was 200lb., but now that it is increased to 224lb. makers are taking advantage of the concession. The machines of rather higher power and heavier weight are so greatly improved that it is not surprising to find them displacing the ultra light two-strokes, the scope for improvement being greater where manufacturers are not tied down to a weight that restricts them to a very fine margin.

INSTRUMENT BOARDS.

The 1931 machines present a cleaner outline than their predecessors, inasmuch as components are grouped instead of being distributed over the whole area of the framework as in former years. This particularly is noticeable with regard to the handlebars, which now present a clean and clear appearance owing to the fittings being grouped, and only levers which it is essential should be placed in the most accessible position are now there. In some cases instrument boards resembling those in use upon cars are fitted above the tank, and the result is a most pleasing appearance. The instrument panels contain such fittings as clock, speedometer, ammeter, main switch and lighting switches.

Silencers have received more than casual attention. A real attempt has been made to reduce the noise, and it has been a successful attempt. One machine has no fewer than three silencers, all of an efficient type. Working parts have been enclosed in compartments, which deaden noise, and have the additional advantage of protecting the mechanism from dust and mud. The cover plates are easily removed for any necessary adjustment by unscrewing one or two wing nuts so that accessibility of the portions needing attention has not been interfered with.

FOUR SPEEDS.

Engines with four cylinders make a great show. Several of them are quite new machines, and, not only do they follow orthodox car practice with regard to the number of cylinders, but they follow it in having detachable cylinder heads. They are a great advance upon the four-cylinder machines of a few years ago, and on account of their freedom from vibration and silence in action, it is safe to predict a successful year for them. Gear boxes are similar to those on motor cars on a smaller scale and in some cases provide four speeds.

The outstanding feature of the show is provided by the four-cylinder four-speed machines. As in the case of motor cars, there is a tendency towards the revival of coil ignition, but it is not quite so pronounced as in the case of the four-wheeled vehicles, as the magneto fits snugly into the framework of a motor cycle and can occupy a convenient place either in front of or behind the engine. On this account it has advantages, as the means of ignition on motor cycles, and in most cases it is retained on machines of medium power and weight, though coil ignition is fitted to several of the larger combinations. In the case of single and twin-engined machines an inclined position for the power unit is more popular, and there is a general improvement in the oiling system on most machines by the adoption of mechanical lubrication. Brakes are of larger diameter, and in many cases means have been taken to facilitate the removal of the wheels. Apart from mechanical features appearance has been enhanced by the adoption of chromium untarnishable plating and colour schemes of two shades.

The three-wheeled cars include several with room for two or three passengers, and there is a full four-seater complete with self-starter, electric lighting, reverse gear and all-weather equipment. This is driven by the single rear wheel, but in another case a three-wheeled machine has the two front wheels driven.

Side-car design appears to have become more or less standardised. There are no freak shapes and except for one or two sporting bodies the aim has been to secure as great a degree of comfort for the passenger as is possible with the space available. To this end the bodies are weatherproof and fitted with pneumatic upholstery, while, in at least one instance, there is a luggage compartment at the rear in order that baggage may be completely protected.

figure up to £14,714,119, as compared with £13,347,402 for the same period in 1929.

While imports of bacon and hams show an advance, Free State exports of these commodities are down, the value for this year's exports to the end of September being £1,418,737, compared with £2,004,334 in 1929. A decline is also recorded in Free State fresh pork exports. For the first three quarters of 1930 their value is given as £751,551, as compared with £817,108 in 1929.

Exports of dead poultry have improved, those shipped this year so far being worth £221,778, as against £220,414 last year.

Biscuits to the value of £327,090 were exported during the nine months period, and "porter, beer and ale" to the value of £3,915,210, as compared with £2,495,091 last year. Spirit exports totalled £87,093, as against £96,833, while other beverages were worth £12,810, as against £13,841 in 1929.

THE EXPORT OF TRACTORS.

During last September 617 tractors were exported, as against 972 in September, 1929. These were worth £101,198 and £63,937 respectively. During the nine months period in 1929 the number of tractors shipped was 2,948 and in 1930 15,133. Last year's lot were valued at £308,070 and this year at £1,575,928.

Tractor parts exported in September last were worth £44,347 and in 1929 £62,704, while for the nine months period the figures were: 1929, £630,102; 1930, £832,314.

Re-exports from the Irish Free State were worth £1,006,671, as compared with £772,908 during the corresponding period of 1929. Of this year's re-exports, machines and machinery account for £338,992, against £162,729 last year. Vehicles and parts were worth £172,665, while mines and quarry products re-exported were worth £104,301.

LATE NEWS.

BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH "THE TIMES."

THE CONFERENCE.

EMPIRE AND FOREIGN POLICY.

In a leading article The Times to-day remarks:—In the deliberations of the Imperial Conference, which may be said to enter its last lap to-day, foreign affairs have hitherto had no great place. A few useful decisions have been taken for increasing the facilities of diplomatic communication between Dominions and foreign countries, and some doubtful conclusions have been reached on the subject of arbitration and the proposed amendment of the Covenant of the League; but foreign policy itself has not been discussed, nor has any date been set for its discussion. The two previous Conferences heard respectively from Lord Curzon and from Sir Austen Chamberlain exhaustive expositions of British relations with foreign Powers, which were followed by confidential discussions, and the present is no time to depart from this excellent precedent.

Nothing can ever quite take the place of a face-to-face discussion, and the presence of the Prime Ministers from overseas offers a rare and invaluable opportunity of considering, not merely particular problems which are definitely foreseeable, but especially, and above all, the extent to which the British Government should commit itself to European affairs and the part which it can properly play in the solution of any crisis which may suddenly arise. Few who know the state of Europe to-day can be confident that no such crisis will occur before the next gathering of imperial statesmen, and, even though individual Ministers may change, it should now and here be possible to take general decisions which may clear the way for diplomatic action by Great Britain, and make all the difference when the time comes as to whether that intervention will be effective or ineffective, decisive or halting.

THE TREATIES OF PEACE.

The problems that are as certain as anything in human calculation to come up for consideration within the next four years are, adds The Times, those connected with the revision of the treaties of peace, which has become part of the deliberate policy of Germany, and akin to them there is also the question of disarmament, to which some attention has already been paid by the Conference. But the implications of this problem are at least as important and as difficult as the problem itself, and they are themselves closely bound up with the dominant question of revision. "Revision of the treaties" means many different things to different countries, but to Germany and to France it means primarily a revision of the disarmament clauses, which keep the armed forces of the Reich down to the low level imposed at Versailles.

Participation in the affairs of Europe being inevitable, the immediate problem is to co-ordinate imperial interests with effective action in a sphere which may not equally concern the different units of our Commonwealth. The principle laid down in the last Conference, that no Government could commit another of His Majesty's Governments without its consent, has been reaffirmed during the present meeting, and it is also agreed that the negotiating Government should keep itself as fully informed as possible of the views of the others.

THE EXAMPLE OF LOCARNO.

That is, no doubt, the most satisfactory basis on which imperial negotiations can at present be conducted, and the example of Locarno, to which the Dominions are not committed, indicates the lines on which independent action in Europe may be effective and wholesome. But Locarno was the result of very prolonged negotiations, during which there was plenty of time for consultation with the distant Dominions, and it is possible that in the future, as many times in the past, swift decision and immediate action may be the best instruments for the maintenance of peace. Mere violent action suddenly improvised at the eleventh hour will not prevent war, as the Prince of Wales wisely observed in his speech to the League of Nations Union a short while ago.

Constant vigilance, the diffusion of information and a clear understanding as to responsibility within the Commonwealth are the necessary means, if British foreign policy is to attain its ends.

BISHOP LANGLEY.

DEATH IN MELBOURNE.

The death is announced from Melbourne of the Right Rev. John Douse Langley, who was Bishop of Bendigo from 1907 to 1920. He was in his ninety-fifth year. Before entering the Church he had served for many years with the Bank of Australasia.

Dr. Langley, says The Times, was born at Ballyduff (Co. Waterford), the eldest son of Henry Langley. He was educated first at Trinity College, Dublin, and on arrival with his parents in Australia in 1853 at Moore College, New South Wales. Until the age of 37 he was engaged in business, resigning his position at the Newcastle branch of the Bank of Australasia on his ordination in 1873. For the next two years he was Rector of Berrima, New South Wales, then in turn Rector of St. David's, Sydney, Organising Secretary of the Church Society, Rector of St. Philip's, Sydney, and chaplain to the Archbishop of Sydney. He was made Archdeacon of Cumberland, New South Wales, in 1895, and for five years before his appointment as Bishop of Bendigo in 1907, was Canon of St. Andrew's Cathedral, Sydney. He married in 1866, Louisa Carruthers, daughter of Mr. J. H. Keys, of Muswellbrook, New South Wales, and leaves three sons and three daughters.

Dr. Langley is said to have been the oldest Anglican bishop in the world.

CABINET RUMOURS.

MR. A. V. ALEXANDER'S RETORT.

Mr. A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty, speaking at Warsop to-night, briefly referred to newspaper reports regarding a "supposed Cabinet crisis."

"I am accused," he said, "of being one of the Ministers responsible for this trouble. It is true that there was an attempt which was not at all a new dodge to create dissension in the Cabinet."

They would probably have seen that the Prime Minister himself had repudiated the statement referred to, and he—Mr. Alexander—desired to warn Labour supporters that that was only the beginning of what would be a series of attempts to create dissension and division in Labour ranks.

THE HON. MERIAL LYTTELTON.

The condition of the Hon. Meriel Lyttelton, the twenty years' old daughter of Lord Cobham, who is lying seriously ill at Hagley Hall, Stourbridge, Worcestershire, with tubercular meningitis, was yesterday stated to be about the same. Miss Lyttelton, who had a blood transfusion on Friday, had a slightly better night.

Miss Lyttelton had another blood transfusion last night.

REMEMBRANCE SUNDAY.

SPECIAL SERVICES.

NORTH AND SOUTH WEAR POPPY.

THE DAY IN DUBLIN.

REMEMBRANCE Sunday was observed in Dublin and throughout Ireland with becoming reverence. Many wore the Flanders poppy. In every town of note ex-Service men paraded and marched to the churches, where the special Services were attended by large congregations.

Dublin's ex-Service men attended special Services in St. Patrick's Cathedral, where the preacher in the afternoon was the Rev. R. Bird, D.S.O.; in Christ Church Cathedral, and in the Pro-Cathedral, Marlborough street, where the Rev. T. Farrell, C.C., celebrated Mass, and the preacher was the Rev. P. O'Flynn, C.C.

In Cork there were special Services in the Protestant and Roman Catholic Cathedrals; the men marched in a body to both Services, and afterwards re-formed and returned to the dismissal point together.

The Prime Minister of Northern Ireland (Viscount Craigavon), members of the Cabinet, and the Lord Mayor of Belfast and members of the City Council attended a joint commemoration Service in the Assembly Hall, where the Rev. Robert Kelso was the preacher. The Bishop of Killaloe preached at the special Service in the Cathedral.

SAINT PATRICK'S CATHEDRAL.

IMPRESSIVE SERVICE.

Over a thousand ex-Service men, including about 150 of the "Old Contemptibles," assembled in St. Stephen's Green, Dublin, at 2 o'clock and marched to St. Patrick's Cathedral for the Remembrance Day Service. The men wore their medals and other decorations, and carried the Legion flag. Seats had been reserved in the Cathedral for the ex-Service men and for representatives of public bodies, the universities and the learned professions.

The congregation numbered upwards of three thousand, and many members of it had to stand in the aisles and other portions of the building.

The Governor-General of the Irish Free State was represented by Senator the Right Hon. Andrew Jameson, who was accompanied by Mrs. Jameson; they were escorted to their seats by the Dean of St. Patrick's.

THE PROCESSION.

To the singing of the hymn, "Ten thousand times ten thousand," the procession moved up the centre aisle in the following order:—Choir boys, gentlemen of the choir.

Captain W. M. Caldwell, M.C., Hon. Secretary, Remembrance Service Committee; Mr. R. F. Lowe; Mr. Walter Baird, Vice-Chairman, Dublin Port and Docks Board; Mr. R. Bell, President of Incorporated Acountants; Dr. James S. Ashe, representing the Chairman of the Remembrance Service Committee; Mr. H. J. Miller, President of the Institute of Bankers.

Sir Thomas Myles, representing the Companions of St. Patrick; Mr. J. C. M. Eason, B.A., O.B.E., representing the President of the Association of Chambers of Commerce of the Irish Free State; Mr. J. Chaloner Smith, Vice-President of the Institute of Civil Engineers of Ireland; Mr. J. H. S. Russell, President of the Bar Council.

Mr. A. Farrington, Resident Secretary of the Royal Irish Academy, and Mr. T. P. Le Fanu, Vice-President, preceded by mace-bearer.

Mr. R. A. Stoney, President and Mr. Alfred Miller, O.B.E., Registrar, Royal College of Surgeons, in their robes, preceded by the mace-bearer; Dr. T. Percy Kirkpatrick, Registrar, Royal College of Physicians; Professor T. Gillman Moorhead, President; Dr. H. Fitzgibbon, Censor, and Dr. W. G. Harvey, Censor, in their robes, preceded by mace-bearer.

The Rev. W. R. Westropp Roberts, D.D., Vice-Provost of Trinity College, and Mr. Gilbart Smyly, F., T.C.D., Pro-Vice-Chancellor, Trinity College, in their robes, headed by the mace-bearer.

Alderman D. Benson and Alderman J. Hubbard Clark, J.P., in their robes of office.

Commendatore Toni, Italian representative; M. Goor, Belgian Consul-General; Mons. Alphand, French Consul-General.

Vice-Admiral Craig-Waller, Major Sir Robert Tate, Mr. H. Rooke, Registrar, St. Patrick's Cathedral.

The Rev. J. J. Macauley, Presbyterian minister; the Rev. Frank Bennett, Methodist minister; the Chapter of St. Patrick's Cathedral, as follows:—The Rev. C. J. Burrows (Succentor), the Rev. J. L. Atkinson (Dean's Vicar), the Rev. J. Purser Shortt (Chancellor's Vicar), the Ven. Archdeacon Healy, the Rev. Canon Lyster, the Rev. Canon Oulton, the Rev. Canon Drury, the Rev. Canon Wilson, the Rev. Dr. Newport J. D. White, the Very Rev. the Dean (Dr. H. J. Lawlor), and the Most Rev. Dr. Gregg, Archbishop of Dublin, who afterwards occupied his seat on the throne.

THE SERVICE.

The first Lesson was read by the Rev. J. J. Macauley, and the second Lesson by the Rev. Frank Bennett.

The first anthem was "Crossing the Bar" (Tennyson), to the setting of Dr. George H. P. Hewson, who was at the organ, and the second anthem was "Hallelujah, for the Lord God Omnipotent Reigneth" (Handel). The hymn, "All people that on earth do dwell," was sung to Dr. E. C. Bairstow's York Minster setting for trumpets, drums and organ. The recessional hymn was "O God, our help in ages past," and after the Benediction, which was pronounced by the Archbishop, "God Save the King" was sung.

Over seventy ex-Service men took up the collection, which was in aid of Earl Haig's Appeal Fund.

The concluding voluntary was the Pomp

THE LIBRARY ASSOCIATION.

AN INCREASE IN MEMBERSHIP.

The secon dannual meetin gof the Library Association of Ireland was held in Jury's Hotel, Dublin, last evening, Colonel J. Mitchell, vice-president, presided, in the absence of the president of the Association, Dr. R. L. Praeger.

The secretary, Mr. P. B. Glynn, in his annual report, stated that there were at present 95 members in the Association, which was an increase of 24 over last year's figures. Referring to the recommendation to library authorities in the Irish Free State not to enter into any agreement under the conditions of the Net Books Library Agreement arrived at between the Publishers' and Booksellers' Associations and the (British) Library Association, pending an announcement by the Executive Board, he outlined the efforts made by the latter body to secure better conditions. The Library Association of Ireland and the Dublin Booksellers' Association reached an agreement on the matter, by which it is proposed to form an advisory committee representing the Library Association of Ireland, booksellers and publishers in the Irish Free State, to whom applications for licences in the Free State should be submitted, and the recommendation of the newly-formed body should be communicated to the Publishers' Association of Great Britain and Ireland.

Under the heading Professional Education the Secretary stated that the committee appointed by the Executive Board, with instructions to report on the question of the provision of courses in library training under the auspices of the Association, had recommended the institution of correspondence courses in library training, to be carried out under the auspices of the Association. They further recommended the establishment of an examining board, under the Association, to conduct examinations and to grant certificates of proficiency to successful students.

A CORRESPONDENCE COURSE.

When the Secretary's report came up for consideration, Mr. S. J. Maguire took exception to the recommendation from the Executive Committee to institute correspondence courses in library training. He could not understand why the Association should require an examining board when there were already in existence two bodies carrying on that work, one of these being the National University of Ireland. He moved that that portion of the report be deleted.

Mr. T. Gay, Chairman of the Executive Committee, said that the recommendation was made at the request of members of the Association to have something done for members in the country who were unable to attend a university course.

The Rev. S. Browne, S.J., seconded the deletion of the clause.

Mr. Clarke said that the reason that the recommendation was brought forward was to give librarians in Dublin and the country who were unable to attend a university course an opportunity of obtaining a certificate of proficiency.

Mr. J. Roy said that the Association had not time to conduct a correspondence course, and he doubted whether they had material for doing it in Ireland.

The Rev. S. Browne, S.J., said that the upshot of this suggestion would be to supercede the present library classes in University College, Dublin. That would be a pity, as these classes had been established for nearly three years, and gradually the standard was being raised, although they had not reached the high standard they desired in librarianship. They had a very fine collection of books.

It was suggested by a member that the correspondence course be conducted in conjunction with and under the direction of the National University, but it was pointed out by Mr. J. J. O'Neill that this was impossible under the constitution of the University.

Further consideration of the matter was deferred.

The remaining portions of the report were adopted

The Chairman paid tribute to the work done by the Hon. Secretary, Mr. J. B. Glynn.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

During the election of officers for the year 1930-31, the Chairman said that he had learned with regret that Dr. Praeger was not willing to continue as President of the Association, nor to allow his name to go forward.

A resolution of thanks to Dr. Praeger for the services he had rendered as President was passed unanimously.

Professor Howley, M.A., D.Litt., University College, Galway, was unanimously elected President, and Colonel Mitchell and Mr. J. J. O'Neill were elected Vice-Presidents.

Miss R. Walsh and Messrs. Maguire, Roy, and O'Neill were elected to fill vacancies on the Executive Board.

The other elections resulted as follows:—Council—Mrs. Cosgrave, Colonel J. M. Mitchell, Colonel Costello, J. F. Gray, Dr. J. Howley, J. H. Hutchinson, B.A.; C. Mac Fionnlaoich MacGiolla Bride, B. MacGiolla Padraig, M.A.; and Dr. R. L. Praeger.

ROAD ACCIDENTS.

THREE MOTOR CYCLISTS DEAD.

Following a collision between motor cyclists on the Doncaster road, Conisbrough, late on Saturday night two men died in Doncaster Infirmary yesterday and a third is in a critical condition.

The men who were fatally injured were Robert Longden (17), shop assistant, of Far lane, Rotheram, and Leonard Bullivant (27), of Willoughby street, Sheffield, a fitter. The injured man is John Rhodes Watson (18), of East Dene, Rotheram, an electrician.

Bullivant was riding his motor cycle towards Doncaster and Watson was proceeding in the opposite direction, with Longden as pillion passenger, when a head-on collision occurred, and the three men were thrown into the roadway, and all received fractured skulls.

Ronald Elvish (22), of Lois Weedon, Northamptonshire, died in Towcester Infirmary yesterday from injuries received in a midnight collision on the Watling street cross-roads, near Towcester.

Elvish's motor cycle collided with a motor lorry proceeding to Manchester, and he was dragged underneath the vehicle for twenty yards.

FATAL ACCIDENT IN PORTADOWN.

John Rogers (47), a weaver, died shortly after admission to Lurgan (County Armagh) Infirmary last night from injuries received in a collision with a motor car in Portadown.

CHRISTIAN CHURCHES.

RESOLUTIONS PASSED IN BELFAST.

At a meeting of the United Council of Christian Churches and Religious Communions in Ireland, held in Belfast on last Friday, the Bishop of Down, Connor and Dromore presiding, the following resolutions were adopted:—

"That as the British Government and that of the Irish Free State have solemnly bound themselves by the Covenant of the League of Nations and the Kellogg Pact to settle international disputes by pacific means, the United Council of Christian Churches and Religious Communions in Ireland appeal to their constituent Churches to declare that they will not countenance any war in regard to which their Governments are not willing to submit the matter in dispute to arbitration or conciliation when the nation with whom the dispute has arisen is ready for such arbitration."

"That the Council of Christian Churches and Religious Communions in Ireland approve of the campaign initiated in Dungannon to promote legislation against the coursing of captive hares."

BANK OF IRELAND EX-SERVICE MEN.

RE-UNION DINNER.

The annual re-union dinner of the Bank of Ireland ex-Service men was held last Saturday evening in the Royal Hibernian Hotel, Dawson street, Dublin.

Senator Sir John Keane, D.S.O., presided.

Greetings were sent to the King, and during the evening the following reply was received:—

"The President, Bank of Ireland ex-Service men's dinner. The King commands me to thank the Bank of Ireland ex-Service men for their loyal message of greeting. His Majesty feels sure that all present are enjoying their annual re-union.—Signed, Equerry."

The toast of "The King," "The glorious memory of our fallen comrades," "The Chairman," and "Our Guests" were duly honoured.

Vice-Admiral Craig-Waller, C.B., D.L., and Major-General Sir George McK. Franks, K.C.B., replied on behalf of the guests.

A very pleasant musical programme was provided by the hotel orchestra, and musical items were rendered by Captain H. J. Franklin, Dr. J. Beckett, E. V. Carrette, Sir John Keane, J. M. J. Martin, B. D. H. Fleming, and Mr. Victor Jackson played the accompaniments.

Towards the close of the evening Major W. N. Foster, D.S.O., general manager of the Bank of Ireland, on behalf of the ex-Service men, presented their honoraory secretary, Mr. Gilbert J. Cole, with silver ware. He referred to the fine war service of Mr. Cole, who had served with the Royal Field Artillery, and to the trouble he had taken in arranging their annual reunion dinner for the past number of years.

Mr. Cole, replying, thanked Major Foster and his fellow ex-Service men for the presentation that they had made to him. It was hardly necessary for him to say that he would always regard it as a token of their kind feelings towards him.

The company of seventy included:—Captain C. Bailey, M.C.; J. W. Elvery, Captain S. V. Butler, G. P. G. Crawford, H. J. Mellon, Captain T. Houston, J. Beckett, M.D.; A. J. E. McClean, W. F. Harkness, F. H. Pim, Captain W. P. Hinton, Major D. L. J. Babington, A. H. Davidson, M.D.; J. M. J. Martin, B. D. H. Fleming, Victor Jackson, Captain H. J. Franklin, Captain E. R. Barrett, M.C.; P. LONDON WEDDING.

MR. HECTOR STEWART AND LADY U. CHETWYND-TALBOT.

London's smallest church, that of St. Ethelburga-the-Virgin, in Bishopsgate, was the scene of the wedding on Saturday of Lady Ursula Chetwynd-Talbot, daughter of the late Viscount Ingestre, M.V.O., and of Lady Winifred Pennoyer, of 115 Eaton Square, S.W., and Mr. Hector Stewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Stewart, of Lady Mede, Kimble, Buckinghamshire.

Guests were asked to bring their invitation cards with them, as seating space in this old church is very limited. The Vicar, Dr. Geikie-Cobb, officiated, assisted by the Rev. and Hon. S. G. W. Maitland, Rector of Ingestre, Stafford, and the Rev. R. Hack, Rector of Kimble. There were great banks of yellow and bronze chrysanthemums, with russet leaves, at the chancel gates.

There is a women's choir at this church, and they sang while the bride stood with her brother, the sixteen-year-old Earl of Shrewsbury, who had escorted her, and who gave her away. The Earl, who succeeded in 1921 to the title, owns Ingestre Hall, Stafford. He is a Premier Earl of Ireland, being also Lord High Stewart of Ireland (Hereditary), one of his titles being Earl of Waterford. He was a gallant escort for his slim, attractive sister, and helped to arrange the voluminous veil of fine white chiffon tulle, which fell from a narrow circlet of orange blossoms on her head. This dainty veil fell over a sleeveless dress of ivory satin, which fell in flares to her ankles. She wore a scarf of old family lace round her shoulders, and a great spray of crimson roses was fastened to the left shoulder; she did not carry a bouquet, however.

Master Richard ("Kim") Pennoyer, the young step-brother of the bride, held the long train-veil. His Romney suit was of velvet, of the colour of the bride's rose spray, crimson; this young boy has acted in this capacity on several occasions, and, therefore, carried out his duties well.

Mr. Alastair Stewart, brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man. Among the ushers were Lord Herbert and his cousin, Lord Victor Paget; Mr. Michael Stewart, cousin of the bridegroom; Mr. C. L. Birkin, and Mr. Michael Renshaw.

There were several children at the wedding, including the young family of the Marquis and Marchioness of Anglesey.

Mr. and Lady Winifred Pennoyer held a reception at 115 Eaton square afterwards, and during the afternoon the bride and bridegroom left for Paris, from where they will go on to Spain. The bride travelled in a brown dress and hat, with a brown fur coat, which was the gift of her aunt, the Countess of Pembroke.

Among those present at the ceremony and reception were:—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stewart, Mr. and Lady Winifred Pennoyer, the Marquis and Marchioness of Anglesey, with the little Earl of Uxbridge; Ladies Elizabth, Rose and Katherine Paget; the Countess of Pembroke, Viscount and Viscounte...ss Hambleden, Miss Helen Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. T. Cuthbert Stewart, the Countess of Ilchester.

Lady Audrey Chetwynd-Talbot in green, and Lady Joan Chetwynd-Talbot in blue velvet, the Earl and Countess of Drogheda, Miss Peggy Paget, Miss Bridget and Miss Kathleen Talbot, the Hon. Lady Talbot, Lady Gwendoline Little, Mrs. Arthur Talbot, Miss Ann Talbot, Mr. J. Talbot, the Hon. Mrs. Maitland, Mr. H. Hartman, Mrs. J. Blew, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Glover.

Mrs. John McCormack, Mr. C. McCormack, Mrs. Rusher, Mrs. Arthur Crichton, Miss Scott, Miss Mary Scott, Mr. Ian Scott, Mrs. Snell, Miss Jane Pike, Master David Pike, Captain and Mrs. R. Maitland Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Montagu Johnstone, Mrs. G. Garnett, Mr. and Mrs. John Gilliat, Miss V. Gilliat, Mr. and the Hon. Mrs. Tatton Bower, Sir Archibald Ritchie, Captain and Mrs. Robert Hartman, Mrs. R. Hack, Mr. and Mrs. Towers Mynors, Dr. and Mrs. Lennox Wainwright, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Pearson, Miss H. and Miss E. Pearson, Mr. and Mrs. Burra.

Viscount and Viscountess Hood, Captain and Mrs. James Doyle, General and Mrs. Carpenter, Mr. and Mrs. P. Hardy, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Scott, Mrs. Ernest Coats, Mrs. Andrew Guthrie, the Rev. T. Harvey Raeburn, Admiral and Mrs. Stapleton Cotton, Mrs. Seymour Corkran, Mr. and Mrs. Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. Alec. Waddy, Mrs. John Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Moore, Miss Chetwode, Mrs. C. Nicholl, Miss B. Nicholl, Mrs. J. Barrow, Mr. and Mrs. Rex Hartley and Miss Edith Olivia.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

ARMISTICE DAY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—I fought in the British Army in the 1914-18 War. Had Ireland possessed her independence in 1914, she might well have remained neutral. Circumstanced as she was, it was, I think, "up to" Irishmen of military age to "do their bit" for her on one side or the other, and I believe that those with me chose aright. Be that as it may, I have no quarrel with those who thought and acted differently. We who, whatever our motives, did go to France found ourselves under a common discipline with many noble and useful traditions—since no army can afford a discipline which does not inculcate a healthy and virile point of view—and had a common set of experiences very different to those of civil life, and almost incomprehensible by those who have not undergone them. It was not that they were terrible—war is at least not all hell—and, if a close shell-burst did make one crouch instinctively and give one a very bad moment, as one listened to the splinters and gave one's self up for lost, there was the warm glow of satisfaction at finding one's hide intact and the somewhat ludicrously elated feeling of personal achievement at having cheated the Boche of his prey. Yet they were different, and these common experiences and common discipline bred a sense of solidarity among us which incidentally accounts for much of the seeming callousness of the soldier.

So much did chance, and so little did skill, enter into the game of life and death that a casualty seemed just to bring our own turn closer; and so strong was the sense of solidarity—I mean oneness, not comradeship—that a two per cent. casualty list in one's unit was almost as if each had suffered a two per cent. personal loss. A soldier does not weep over his own wounds; so we did not weep over these losses that seemed to be our own, but rather cracked jokes—against ourselves.

Therefore, now, though I am an Irishman and a Republican, and though I would gladly be one of the doomed storming party if a full freedom could be won like the invisible city of Coolanoole, there is something within me, and it, I think, not ignoble, that re-acts to the roll of the drum. On Armistice Day I shall salute, not only the memory of fallen comrades, but also the memories of some of the most vivid years of my life, and parts of myself that I seem to have left behind with them. In token of this, too, I shall wear the poppy, somewhat self-consciously perhaps, like a "lance" with his first stripe.

I shall not be deterred by the fact that a small group of us will be led by a still smaller group into giving it a political appearance, but it is, indeed, bitter that they should be actually aided in this by the "hostile activities" of a league, some merely mischief-makers, but others sincere Republicans, who so behave from a lack of sympathetic understanding. This will give us a seeming defiance which many of us very much regret, but, conscious that we love Ireland as truly and devotedly as any of those who on this day make themselves our opponents, we will not be denied the opportunity of commemorating the most active, and in many cases the only, services which we have been privileged to offer to our own country.—Yours, etc.,

"ROSNA."

Co. Dublin, November 8th, 1930.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—From time to time there are rumours and statements that spurious poppies are imported for sale in the streets at Armisticetide to the detriment of Haig's Fund. The appeal department of the British Legion have made every inquiry possible, and, while finding no definite confirmation of the rumours, feel it necessary to again issue a most urgent warning to the public, to beg them to make absolutely certain that the poppy they buy either on Remembrance Day in the streets, or in wreaths for remembrance, have the special black metal centre, bearing the words "Haig's Fund" in the larger poppies and the letters "H.F." in the smaller ones. These poppies are the work of badly disabled ex-Service men. There are 270 of them employed at the British Legion factory at Richmond, and in preparation for Remembrance Day 40,000,000 poppies have been made in addition to upwards of 25,000 wreaths. The wreaths made by the disabled ex-Service men form a pleasing token of remembrance, and the public are asked to look particularly for the metal centre in poppies used in the make-up of the wreaths they purchase. The metal centre embossed "Haig's Fund" or "H.F." in a poppy is a registered design and is easily distinguished.

Every precaution is taken to safeguard the public, and provision is made that only duly authorised persons sell the registered poppies on Remembrance Day. The seller on behalf of Haig's Fund has an official badge and collecting box. The badge and the labels on the collecting boxes are of a different colour every year, and this colour is not made known until two days before Remembrance Day. The colour this year is red and black printing on a white ground. Every collecting box bears the signature of the Organising Secretary, with a serial number; this number a dépôt organiser records when a box is issued or returned. The official badge also bears a number and other particulars which are also recorded when issued.

The funds collected as a result of the sale of Haig Fund poppies and poppy wreaths benefit ex-Service men in distress, their families and dependents, and are administered by the British Legion. Very full audited accounts are published every year, showing how the money is spent, and reference to these has already appeared in your columns. £596,000 was collected on Remembrance Day, 1929, when 37,000,000 poppies were disposed of. The need is greater to-day, and, with a larger amount subscribed, much more can be done for those who served and now suffer. Donations will be gratefully received and duly acknowledged; they may be sent to local Poppy Day committees or direct to me.—Yours, etc.,

W. G. WILLCOX, Captain, Organising Secretary.

PRIVY COUNCIL APPEALS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—The letter of the Primate and the Archbishop of Dublin, conveying to you the protest of the Church of Ireland against the action of the Free State Government in the matter of appeals to the Privy Council from decisions of the Irish Supreme Court, deals with a grave matter of policy about which there is bound to be difference of opinion. Any statement and protest set forth by Churchmen of such distinction, representing an influential and historic communion, necessarily claim our most serious and respectful consideration.

My object, however, in writing to you just now is not to express any opinion on the position taken by the Primate and Archbishop in the comments they make on the policy of the Free State Government. What I ask your permission to do, in view of your editorial assumption that the Archbishops in their letter were "speaking for all the Protestant Churches," is to state simply, and without any disrespect, that this matter of the action of our Government in regard to the appeal to the Privy Council has not been under consideration by the Government Committee of the Presbyterian Church.—Yours, etc.,

DANGEROUS ROADS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—The tarred roads of this country are absurdly over-cambered; water will run off them, be the camber ever so small. The conditions are quite different to the old dry-binding days, when considerable camber was essential to proper drainage—a fact apparently entirely overlooked by our road experts. If main roads were made as flat as is practical, three-quarters at least of their danger to horse traffic would be removed. It is the side-slip, not the fore-and-aft slip, that brings the horse down.—Yours, etc.,

LORD SOUTHAMPTON'S HUNTING MISHAP.

Lord Southampton, who is lying in Sheffield Royal Infirmary with leg and shoulder injuries, received when hunting with the Grove Hounds at Rampton, on Friday last, was stated to have passed a fairly comfortable day. His condition remains much the same.

The death occurred last Friday evening of the Very Rev. Patrick Canon Godfrey, P.P., CAPPAMORE. Canon Godfrey, who was in his eighty-first year, was a native of Greenane, Tipperary. His brother, the Rev. Thomas Godfrey, P.P., Loughmore, died some months ago.

HISPANO-GERMAN "INCIDENT."

GIANT JUNKER 'PLANE RELEASED.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
MADRID, Sunday.

The German Ambassador here had an interview this morning with the Minister of Foreign Affairs in regard to the publication in the Madrid newspaper, Heraldo, of a friendly letter from the chief engineer of the giant German aeroplane, G 38, to Major Franco, the Spanish airman, who is undergoing two months' imprisonment on a charge of subversive activities.

The publication of this letter had caused considerable excitement in Spain, and General Berenguer, the Prime Minister, considered it a very serious matter. It is believed, however, that the matter has now been settled in a satisfactory manner, and it was announced in the Press this afternoon that the G 38 had been given permission to leave the Getafe aerodrome at four o'clock, though it had decided, on account of the lateness of the hour, to wait until to-morrow.

The letter in question said that Major Franco's opinion on the machine would have been welcomed, as it was understood that his views of aerial warfare were shared by the Junker's designers.

THE FLIGHT OF THE DO. X.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
AMSTERDAM, Sunday.

Owing to fog over the North Sea the officials of the giant seaplane Do. X decided not to start for Calshot to-day. The flight probably will be made to-morrow morning, weather permitting, and the passengers have been warned to be on board before 9 a.m.

It is learned that the Do. X will not proceed from Calshot to Havre, but will go to Bordeaux, as the conditions there are considered to be more suitable.

The vessel was visited to-day by the Dutch Minister of Defence and the French and Yugoslav Consuls-General.

It is stated that a Yugoslav and an Italian flying officer will take part in the flight to England, as their Governments are contemplating the purchase of machines of the Dornier type.

COUNTY DUBLIN BY-ELECTION.

FIANNA FAIL CAMPAIGN OPENED.

Fianna Fail opened its campaign in the County Dublin by-election last Saturday night. The vacancy was caused by the death of the late Major Bryan Cooper. A meeting was addressed in Balbriggan by Messrs. Sean Lemass, T.D., and Sean McEntee, T.D. Mr. J. C. Reynolds presided.

Mr. Lemass said that in a very short time the electors of County Dublin would be given an opportunity of recording by their votes their attitude towards the policy of the present Government, and their wishes concerning the direction in which the nation should move, in order that the existing social and political evils should be diminished. Fianna Fail intended to contest the coming by-election, because it believed it was in the national interest that Cumann na nGaedheal should be opposed all along the line.

Recently they might have read in the Press that certain economists at Geneva and politicians attending the Imperial Conference in London had been astonished at the prosperity that existed in this country, as related to them by the Free State Ministers. The illusion of prosperity had been largely created by the suppression of the essential information, which were the statistics relating to unemployment, ascertained by the census of 1926, but not yet published.

When the electors of County Dublin came, within the next four weeks, to record their votes, they must ask themselves the question—were they satisfied with the results of the policy of the present Government?

The basic error in the policy of Cumann na nGaedheal was that it attached undue importance to their external trade.

The issue in this election would be protection versus free trade, and if the farmers of Co. Dublin realised what was best for their own interests there was no doubt the Fianna Fail candidate would be returned.

IRISH EMIGRATION.

TECHNICAL STUDENTS' DEBATE.

There was a large attendance at a meeting of the Technical Students' Literary and Debating Society, held at the Technical Schools, Parnell square, Dublin, on Saturday night last, when the motion, "That Irish emigration is to be deplored and combated," was discussed. Mr. H. E. Clancy presided.

Mr. Peadar T. Sheridan said that emigration was largely an economic problem, and if talk and promises could solve our economic problems there would be no emigration to-day. Of all the evils this country suffers from, emigration is, perhaps, the most pressing at the moment, and the most calculated to bring about the extinction of the nation. Emigration casts a gloom over a country, lessens energy, and kills enthusiasm, which are essential to a nation's welfare.

Moving the negative, Miss Freda Nairn said that emigration was very necessary from Ireland because of the very large number of people unable to find employment at home. Emigration, skilfully applied, will always relieve such pressure as industrial causes produce.

Mr. John Nolan said that emigration from Ireland was decreasing because of the strict immigration laws applied by other countries.

Mr. Dan Hampson declared that emigration is a great safety valve. It relieves unemployment at home and helps to lessen the burden of taxation on industry.

Mr. O'Gorman said that emigration from Ireland would eventually mean the death of the Irish nation. If home products could be substituted for imports the gross value of our output would be greatly increased, and the consequent prosperity would react favourably upon every individual citizen of the State.

Other speakers included:—Messrs. Hubert E. O'Toole, Frank Healy, J. Adams, H. O'Farrell, J. Scully, T. W. Connolly, F.C.R.A.; Miss A. Browner, B.A., B.Sc.; Miss P. A. Carr and Miss C. MacAsey.

BARONET'S GRATITUDE TO SERVANT AND FRIEND.

Over fifteen years ago the late Sir Charles W. E. Hartopp befriended a little page boy in White's Club, St. James's street, London, W. Yesterday, as a result of that friendship, the one-time "buttons" has been left a fortune of nearly £20,000. The page boy, Granville Owen Sampson, is now superintendent waiter at the Conservative Club in St. James's street.

Sir Charles, who was First Secretary of the British Legation in Persia, left £116,403. In his will he bequeathed £1,500 to his mother, and one-sixth of the remainder, amounting to nearly £20,000, to Mr. Sampson. For about six years Mr. Sampson served as Sir Charles's valet and accompanied him to Bucharest, Athens and Cairo. Sir Charles was seriously ill in Cairo, and with devoted care his valet nursed him back to health. Sir Charles was referring to this when he said in his will: "He has rendered me a service I can never repay."

Mrs. Sampson, the mother of the lucky waiter, described how the news of the legacy first came to their home in Lewisham. "We knew nothing of the will till I read of it in the newspapers, though some of Sir Charles's personal property had been sent to us," she said. "I told Dennis, my little grandson, to run upstairs and tell his mother they had come into a fortune. When Lilian, my daughter-in-law, telephoned to Granville at the Club he did not get excited, but simply said: 'Yes, I have seen it in the newspapers. We must make our plans when I get home.'"

NEWS FROM ALL IRELAND.

PRESENTATION TO CIVIC GUARD.

At DONEGAL District Court, Justice O'Hanrahan, on behalf of the Dublin Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, presented Guard P. J. Tierney, Mountcharles, with a medal and certificate.

THE FIRST MEETING.

The first meeting of the South Tipperary Vocational Educational Committee was held in the County Buildings, CLONMEL. The Right Rev. Dean Ryan, P.P., V.G., Cashel, was elected Chairman, and the Right Rev. Dean Walsh, P.P., V.G., Clonmel, Vice-Chairman.

WESTMEATH FARMERS.

A public meeting, representative of the farmers of WESTMEATH, was held in the County Council Buildings, Mullingar, yesterday for the purpose of calling attention to the grievances of the farming community and demanding measures of relief. Captain A. E. Gargan, Culleen House, Mullingar, presided. A resolution was adopted demanding that the Government should remit the next half-yearly land instalment, in view of the present depression in agriculture, and take steps to have the land annuities reduced in future by at least one-third, in view of the fall in land stock.

COUNTY LIMERICK DRAINAGE SCHEMES.

At the meeting of the LIMERICK County Council Finance Committee a letter was read from the Board of Works stating that the Department was proceeding as expeditiously as possible with the drainage schemes for the Mulkear and Cappamore areas in the county. The Department was fully aware of the conditions which prevailed in the districts, and the urgent necessity for drainage works, but doubted if any useful purpose could be served by receiving a deputation from the Council until they had the reports of their engineer and valuer. It was decided to defer the visit of the deputation.

VOCATIONAL EDUCATION COMMITTEE.

The first meeting of the County Clare Vocational Education Committee was held last Saturday in ENNIS, the Chief Executive Officer (Mr. Michael O'Dea) presiding at the outset. The Rev. P. J. Vaughan proposed that the Very Rev. Dean McInerney, P.P., V.G., Kilrush, be appointed Chairman. He said that the Dean, who is now in his 85th year, was one of their most eminent churchmen, and for over half a century had been closely identified with education in the Diocese of Killaloe. Mr. Patrick Burke seconded. Mr. Seamus Malone proposed that Mr. Frank Barrett, Chairman of the Clare County Council, be appointed to the position. On a poll eight voted for Dean McInerney and six for Mr. Barrett. The Dean did not vote.

COUNTY COUNCIL AND DOG LICENCES.

At a meeting of the Finance Committee of the LIMERICK County Council last Saturday a letter was read from the Free State Ministry of Justice stating that they could not comply with the Council's resolution to have the amount payable for dog licences paid over to the county for the relief of the rates. Since January, 1926, it was pointe dout, the amount paid in dog licences had been transferred to Excise revenue. Mr. Quinlan—This is confiscation, and not the only confiscation, by officialdom of the people's property, and we should strongly pointed out, the amount paid in dog licences protest against it. The Chairman said that dog-licences had yielded £850 annually to the county. The Council had to maintain court-houses and got no Government aid. He suggested that the resolution passed regarding dog licences be forwarded to the County Councils' General Council, asking that body to take action. This course was unanimously agreed to.

TWO KILLED IN MOTOR ACCIDENT.

The Coroner for Mid-Armagh on Saturday held an inquest in ARMAGH County Infirmary on the bodies of Edward Smith, of Colligan street, Belfast, and John Brady, Cavendish street, Belfast, who sustained fatal injuries in a motor accident at Hockley Corner, between Armagh and Portadown, last Friday night. Evidence was given that the men were returning from a coursing meeting at Armagh with two others when the car mounted the footpath and collided with a wall. Dr. F. J. Deane, of Belfast, stated that he was following the car when the crash occurred, and when he arrived at the spot there was already a patrolman of the A.A. on the scene. The car while he had followed it was driven carefully. He gave what aid he could to the injured men, and he smelt no drink and saw no bottles. Dr. Douglas Henningway, of Richhill, who also arrived on the scene, said that he was driving from Armagh to Richhill, and as he approached Hockley Corner he noticed that the position of the wall where the impact took place might easily have been taken for part of the road, owing to the lighting effect and a gap in a tree. There was no sign of drink on the men. John G. Barry, the A.A. scout, who corroborated previous witnesses generally, gave it as his opinion that the reflection on the wall would prevent it from being mistaken for part of the road. The jury returned a verdict of "accidental death," and recommended that a sign be erected at the corner and the attention of the County Council be called to the matter.

EXCITING INCIDENT IN TRALEE BAY.

STEAMER'S CREW RESCUED

Great excitement prevailed in Tralee on Friday evening when, at about six o'clock, the alarming news was circulated that the s.s. Co-operator had been sunk in the channel, midway between the Spa and Blennerville, with her crew of three—John Sullivan (captain), Patrick Foley (engineman), and Jerome Sullivan.

The Co-operator left Fenit with a cargo of corn for Tralee merchants. All went well until the boat had reached a point opposite the Cockle Shell road, midway between the Spa and Blennerville, when a storm arose and a big wave washed over the deck, the water penetrating into the engine-room and causing the boiler to explode.

The boat immediately began to sink, and the crew clung to the mast. Their perilous position was observed by onlookers on the shore, and Mr. Nolan and his son, who have distinguished themselves in life-saving in the Bay on other occasions, put out to the rescue in their row-boat and took off the distressed crew, bringing them to the shore at the Spa, where they were found to be in a state of exhaustion.

They were brought by motor car to Tralee later, much to the relief of their anxious families and friends.

The Co-operator drifted later on the high tide towards Frogmore, where it has been beached.

OBITUARY.

CAPTAIN JAMES HILL POE.

The death took place on Saturday evening of Captain James Hill Poë, of Riverston, Nenagh, at the age of eighty-five years. He was a member of a very old and respected Nenagh family, served as a captain in the late 94th Regiment, and was a Deputy Lieutenant and Justice of the Peace for the County Tipperary for a number of years. He was a regular attendant as a Justice of the Peace at the Nenagh Petty Sessions under the old regime. He was a large landowner and a good employer.

MR. HUGH McKIBBIN, BELFAST.

Mr. Hugh McKibbin, J.P., Councillor for the Woodvale Ward in the Belfast Corporation, died at his residence, Balmoral, Belfast, last Saturday. He was managing director of Messrs. H. and J. McKibbin, builders and contractors, and had taken a very active part in local government affairs, not only in Belfast, but also in Lisburn and neighbourhood. He was for many years a member of the Lisburn Board of Guardians, and of the Rural Council, Chairman of the Finaghy Ratepayers' Association, and he served on the Belfast and Lisburn Regional Education Committees. An active Presbyterian, he was an Elder and member of the Session of Townsend street Church, and an enthusiastic worker in the Boys' Brigade. He had held high office in the ranks of the Freemasons, and also was a member of the Orange Order. He is survived by his wife, two sons and a daughter. A brother, Mr. Fred McKibbin, J.P., also is a member of the Belfast Corporation.

DAME MARY SCHARLIEB.

The condition of Dame Mary Dacomb Scharlieb, the well-known woman doctor, who is lying seriously ill at her home in York terrace, Regent's Park, was last night stated to be "very, very grave." Dame Mary, who is 85 years of age, was one of the first women to become a doctor.

U.S. MARKETS.

STOCKS CLOSE HEAVY.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.)
NEW YORK, Saturday.

Fairly active trading, which followed the stubborn shrinkage of quoted values, slackened, but did not halt virtually. All prominent shares were depressed to new low levels for the movement, but week-end short covering induced partial rallies here and there. Rails and Utilities were notably under pressure, while Radio Corporation was heavy, on the publication of a poor third quarter report, but the market showed better resistance than some quarters expected. Some brokers, however, pointed out that many traders had probably been given until after the week-end to answer margin calls sent out yesterday evening. An unsettling development was an announcement of the cancellation of the price schedule by the Export Petroleum Association, which Wall street interpreted as leaving the way open for a renewal of vigorous competition between leading interests in foreign markets. The closing was heavy. North American and Norfolk and Western declined 5 points, and New York Consolidated Gas, Atchison and Topeka, New York Central and Pennsylvania Railroad lost from 2 to 3 points. Government Bonds steady. Railroad Bonds irregular. The day's sales totalled 2,065,000 shares.

WINNIPEG GRAINS.

WHEAT opened steady, 1/8c. down to 1/8c. up. A sharp decrease in export demand, coupled with easiness on cash markets and a decline at Buenos Aires, adversely affected values early. The market continued to weaken on reports stating that no important damage had resulted from rust in Argentina, despite rains in the Northern belt. A bearish estimate indicating that the Southern hemisphere export surplus now amounts to 200,000,000 bushels was a further depressing factor. Subsequent covering brought a partial rally, but the closing was barely steady, with prices 1/2c. to 7/8c. lower. Opening options—Dec., 68 5/8; May, 74 1/2; July, 76 3/8. THE BURNING CAR MYSTERY.

OWNER CHARGED WITH MURDER.

The Northamptonshire Police last night issued an appeal to come forward to a lorry-driver who is believed to have picked up a hatless man and to have taken him in the direction of London on the night of the finding of a charred body in a blazing car near Hardingstone.

Though investigations have been going on ceaselessly to establish the identity of the man whose body was found in the car the mystery has not yet been solved. A small piece of brown or lavender-coloured ribbed cloth, which was apparently a piece of a pair of trousers, and a practically perfect set of teeth found in the head of the dead man are the only clues that the police have to work upon

A CHARGE OF MURDER.

Mr. Arthur Alfred Rouse, the North Finchley commercial traveller, who owned the car, will appear again before the magistrates on a charge of murder of some person, at present unknown, at the Northampton County Police Court at three o'clock to-day. Only evidence of the two men, Messrs. Bailey and Brown, who first saw the car in flames, and Superintendent Brumby will be given. The police will then ask for a remand for a week.

When Rouse appeared before a special Court on Saturday, he said "I am innocent."

DUBLIN'S THEATRES AND CINEMAS.

THIS WEEK'S PROGRAMMES.

The Carl Rosa Opera Company enters on its last week at the Gaiety Theatre. To-night's performance of "Samson and Delilah" will be under the patronage of Mrs. MacNeill, who has signified her intention to be present.

Brinsley Macnamara's three-act comedy, "Look at the Heffernans!" will be played this week at the Abbey Theatre. This is probably the most popular of all Mr. Macnamara's plays, and its revival will be welcomed.

This evening, at 8 o'clock, Mr. T. C. Murray's much-discussed three-act comedy, "A Flutter of Wings," will be staged at the Gate Theatre for the first time. The play has been in rehearsal for some time, with a very carefully selected caste, under the direction of Mr. Hilton Edwards. The principal parts will be in the hands of Gearoid O Lochlain, Betty Chancellor, William Denis, Coralie Carmichael, Meriel Moore, William Van Craen and William Sherwood.

"Muldoon's Picnic," a musical farce, starring Mike Nono, Dick Forbes, J. C. Browner, Christine Manning, and the Clare Colleens, is being presented at the Olympia.

"Murder," at the Savoy, is the screen version of the mystery "thriller," "Enter Sir John." Herbert Marshall, in the lead, is supported by a strong cast.

At the Theatre Royal Jack Powell, Terry Wilson, Mona Vivian and Al. and Val. Reno figure in a strong variety bill.

The all-talking features at the Capitol are "The Busybody" and "A Royal Romance." On the stage the Capitolians and Master J. Doyle, the boy soprano, contribute to the programme.

Betty Compson stars in "The Street Girl" at the Sackville.

"Spring is Here" and "A Notorious Affair" are the feature films at the Metropole.

The showing of "All Quiet on the Western Front" continues at the Grafton.

Two all talking features, "Cheer Up and Smile" and "Nix on Dames," are on the Corinthian bill.

At the Grand Central the principal picture is "The Second Floor Mystery."

At the Pavilion "Hell Harbour" is an all-talking melodrama of the South Seas.

PUMICE CONCRETE.

Pumice concrete is simply concrete in which pumice is used as aggregate. It is more expensive than clinker concrete, because the pumice has to be shipped to this country from the Continent, chiefly Germany and Italy, where deposits are found. The material is generally found and worked in the same way as an ordinary gravel pit. In some quarries the maximum size of the pieces is half an inch or less, while in others it is in larger pieces and has to be crushed to a suitable size. Pumice is a cellular material, and thus has natural insulating properties which are materially enhanced when it is made up as concrete without "fines," and thus forms part of a mass containing a considerable proportion of voids. A mix of one part of pumice to six parts of Portland cement is usual. The resulting material is lighter in colour than clinker, it is light in weight, and its resistance to moisture, sound and heat and cold is greater than that of clinker concrete. There is no risk of the presence of sulphur or combustible material, because pumice is of volcanic origin. Pre-cast pumice slabs may be used for all purposes for which clinker slabs are generally used, and due to the complete absence of sulphur and unburnt matter pumice concrete would probably be quite satisfactory as a covering for steel, providing it is graded and placed so as to be waterproof.

SAWDUST CONCRETE.

Concrete in which sawdust is used as aggregate has been marketed in England for some years, chiefly in the form of pre-cast units, such as blocks, slabs, tiles, quarries, etc. The problem in the use of sawdust as a concrete aggregate is to overcome the expansion of the material when it is wetted and shrinkage when it dries out, which would inevitably cause the concrete to crack as its volume was reduced during the curing and drying period. Another difficulty is the inflammable nature of sawdust. In the case of the proprietary articles referred to the methods of overcoming these difficulties are covered by patents. Some recent experimental work, however, has shown that satisfactory results are obtained if calcium chloride is mixed with the gauging water. The sawdust (ordinary sawmill dust from deals) was first dried and mixed with Portland cement in the proportion by weight of three parts of cement to one of sawdust. Water was added until a very plastic, or "mushy," mix was obtained: approximately 9½ gallons of water were used to each cubic foot of cement content, after adding to the water 1lb. of calcium chloride per gallon of water. Sawdust concrete building units made in this way show no tendency to crack. The material weighs about 70lb. per cubic foot (or about half as much as gravel concrete), and may be reinforced if desired.

CELLULAR CONCRETE.

The term cellular has become particularly connected with cement that is "expanded" by the use of chemicals. The idea is to mix with the cement, at the time it is used, a chemical that causes it to "bubble" or become honeycombed with air pockets. The processes are patented, but it is known that finely-ground metallic aluminium and zinc are among the materials used. These materials react with the lime in the cement, and form hydrogen. The gas causes the cement to expand to several times its own bulk, the increased volume being represented by voids containing hydrogen. The increase in volume can be controlled, and concrete produced weighing as little as 16lb. per cubic foot. This material may be pre-cast in slabs or placed between shuttering. It has been used for partition walls and floors and for casing steelwork, but it seems to have made greatest progress in the insulation of heat and cold, such as covering hot-water pipes and refrigerating chambers. By the use of this material to cover the underground mains it has been possible to supply hot water from an electricity works in Denmark to heat public buildings and municipal housing schemes several miles away.

REMEMBRANCE SUNDAY CEREMONIES IN DUBLIN.

Thousands of men and women who served in H.M. Forces during the Great War took part in yesterday's Remembrance ceremonies in Dublin. FIRE AT DUNSHAUGHLIN.

Over one hundred tons of hay were destroyed in a fire that broke out on the farm of Mr. Thomas Delaney, Dunshaughlin, Co. Meath, on Saturday afternoon.

The Dublin Fire Brigade, under Captain Connolly, attended, and worked on the fire to prevent it extending to the extensive outbuildings up to a late hour on Saturday night.

The fire was first discovered by one of Mr. Delaney's sons, who was passing through the yard about two o'clock in the afternoon and saw smoke issuing from one side of the great hay barn.

He immediately told his father, who sent him to notify the Civic Guards in Dunshaughlin. The Civic Guards rang up the Dublin Fire Brigade, and one section turned out and made the journey in fine time. While waiting for the Brigade to arrive, Sergeant McDonald, of the Civic Guards, organised a bucket squad of farm labourers and other willing helpers, who came from all quarters when the word of the fire was sent out.

The Fire Brigade, on arrival, proceeded to pump water from a quarry over a quarter of a mile away, but after about an hour's work the weeds from the quarry got into the pump and put it out of action. A second pumping engine was requisitioned from Dublin, while the first engine proceeded to a small reservoir close to the fire and maintained a limited supply of water from this source.

The fire, however, had gained a strong hold and spread rapidly. Dense clouds of smoke overspread everything, and the intense heat made things very difficult for the fire-workers.

Strenuous endeavours were made to prevent the fire extending to other ricks of hay and straw and to the out-houses. Mr. Delaney's farm adjoins the main Dublin-Navan road, and the fire attracted considerable attention. All through the day and late into the night a long line of motor cars was parked outside on the road, while the drivers and passengers got out to watch the fire and the efforts of the firemen.

The hay, which was insured, was almost wholly destroyed.

At times so great was the traffic hold up on the main road outside the farm that the Automobile Association patrolman had to remain on duty all day at this point to regulate the traffic. All the passing motor buses pulled up for a few minutes, so that their passengers could get a view of the fire.

After having pumped water on the hay for over twenty-six hours, the firemen returned to the Tara street station at 6 p.m. last night. They succeeded in preventing the fire from spreading to another hundred tons of hay that was only seven feet away, and also prevented serious damage being done to the shed and out-houses. Thirteen hundred feet of hose was used to extinguish the flames.

GOSSIP FROM THE COURSE.

RACING AT LIVERPOOL.

GEORGINATOWN WINS HER TENTH SUCCESSIVE RACE.

NOTES ON THE DERBY CUP.

FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.
LONDON, Sunday Night.

The Liverpool Meeting was concluded yesterday, and, although I have seen better attendances, the fixture has been a successful one, and has been helped to a great extent by the weather. Dobson Peacock has had a wonderful season, and, by bringing off a double yesterday afternoon, made his total of races 69, while 38 horses from his stable have won a race.

Mr. W. R. Smith's Heronslea and Sir Ernest Hanmer's Gallini were the Middleham winners, and Heronslea won the Grosvenor Cup. It was a capital performance, considering how badly he was drawn, and he was conceding Barrack Law a year and 2 lb. Sir Cunliffe-Owen's mare has had a good season, with no less than six wins to her credit, and she has been placed the same number of times; so, in getting within a head of the winner, she again showed what an honest mare she is.

LUCKY TOR FAILS.

J. Lawson saddled Lucky Tor and Miss Linn, and the former was the fancied one, but he performed moderately, and third place went to Miss Linn. Lucky Tor was a good horse in the spring, when he won the City and Suburban and the Jubilee, but he has fallen away since then, and here he let his people down again. It was unfortunate that Mr. Singer should also have been let down by Coster Boy in the chief event at Windsor the same afternoon. Soloptic was favourite for the Liverpool event, but I am afraid she was not good enough at these weights, though it may be she prefers a straight track.

Heronslea should make an even better four-year-old, and he has the advantage of not being over-raced in the past, as this was his sixth appearance and third success of the year. He has not had a race since he won the Ayr Gold Cup, and Peacock must be complimented on the way he has placed him. Heronslea is by Bachelor's Double from Dinah Desmond, and is the second foal of this dam.

Gallini has failed on a couple of occasions when strongly fancied, and it is probable that five furlongs is his best course. He won the Autumn Foal Stakes very easily, and it is likely that he will get stamina with increasing age, as he is by Spion Kop. Persse saddled the Duchess of Westminster's Turbine and Major McCalmont's Ojala, and, with Harry Beasley riding the latter, backers followed the stable lead. They were wrong, however, and Turbine was the better, finishing three lengths behind the winner, while Buland Bibi was third.

GEORGINATOWN AGAIN.

Boyd-Rochfort's autumn campaign has not been a happy one, and, following failures by Argonaute II. and Soloptic, Witicism could do no better; but it was pleasing to note that the Newmarket trainer won the chief event at Windsor with Flange, which should be some compensation.

The Valentine Steeplechase was a victory for the Irish-owned and trained Georginatown, who was piloted by Mr. Whitfield. This capable rider has no superiors amongst the amateurs, and is not far behind the leading professionals at the winter game. Georginatown had won six races in succession in Ireland this season, as well as four in England, but this was her most important. Easy Virtue was second, and I am afraid will never turn out to be the horse which we all expected he would be. K.C.B. got the other place.

Residue has been a good servant to Mr. Ben Warner since he bought him at the late Lord Durham's sale, and he won the November Handicap Hurdle with Pellerin in the saddle. The competition for second place was keen, and Castlederg got the verdict, though he was only a head in front of White Flag.

Captain Fielden won many races with Scherzo, and he would be delighted to win the Alt Selling Nursery with his stallion's daughter, who is out of Talavera. S. Wragg is riding in rare form at the present time, and he rode the filly for O. Bell's stable. Gallando was gambled on at Doncaster recently, and was disqualified after coming in first, and the losses would have increased on Saturday. She was beaten a head, but is likely to win a race this coming week at Derby.

THE DERBY CUP.

Sir Joshua will attempt to win the Derby Cup for the second time, and he ran well enough in the Newbury Cup to warrant his attention here. Le Voleur carried 7st. 6lb. when he won that prize, and here he has been given 8st. 8lb., which is a different matter, and Sir Joshua has a pull of 16lb. for the beating, which was assessed at six lengths. Le Voleur has scope for further improvement, and this four-year-old has had little racing comparatively, and that he is by Gainsborough is another reason why he should continue to improve. There is no disputing that he was "thrown in" the Newbury Cup with a ridiculous weight, and he could do no more than win easily, which he did. Baytown will appreciate the going in its present state, and he is sure to be thereabouts.

At the time of writing it has not been decided whether Richborough or Servus will represent Lord Derby. These two are engaged in the Manchester November Handicap as well. Richborough is better handicapped in that race, and certainly the connections cannot complain that Servus is badly treated in either event. He divided Le Voleur and Sir Joshua in the Newbury Cup, and gets a pull of a stone from Le Voleur, which is more than fair for such a consistent performer as Servus to get; while Sir Joshua has only 2lb. for the two-length beating. Servus, therefore, looks somewhat attractive.

BOLDERO'S CHANCE.

Boldero will be among the starters, and for his win at Liverpool an additional 10lb. will have to be carried, which does not add to his prospects, though I should not care to say that he cannot win, as he ran a really good race behind Calvados at Newmarket. Story Teller gives way to Stockcross, who will have to do something vastly superior to what he has achieved this season to win Mr. Sutton this Cup. S. Darling holds a strong hand with Oletta, Coligny II. and Poor Man, and, apart from the first-named couple, Mr. Macomber has Prince Vanitas, trained in F. Leach's (junior) stable. Prince Vanitas is a certain starter, and it will not be decided until later in the week whether Oletta or Coligny II. be saddled. Oletta has advanced up the handicap, which she is entitled to do on her performances, but Coligny II. has done nothing to warrant his having more than an outside chance. Promptitude will win a handicap of importance, I feel sure, and he is nicely in here compared to the November Handicap, which he won last year, and Truncheon has as good a chance of winning as had Alasnam, Sprindrift, Blackness and Constant Son, who were other three-year-old winners of recent years.

SELECTIONS.

Racing will take place in the Midlands during the first five days of the week, and Leicester has the first two. After the three days at Derby, Hurst Park will wind up the week. At Leicester I like Alight and Pard in the Atherstone Handicap, and I shall expect ALIGHT to win. GLOW WORM looks like taking the Oadby Nursery, though she will have Amoya to beat; and GANG WARILY'S chance in the Melton Plate is an excellent one.

SPORTING GOSSIP

Grecian Glen Sold.

Grecian Glen, 2 yrs., a chestnut filly by Greek Bachelor—Glenstella, was submitted to auction at Leopardstown on Saturday, and sold to Mr. Cash for 25 gns.

The Running of Bray Beau.

Subsequent to the decision of the Sandyford Plate at Leopardstown on Saturday, the Stewards called upon Mr. P. J. Leonard, the trainer of Bray Beau, and James Doyle, who rode the horse at Naas, to explain the discrepancy of the horse's running at Naas and at Leopardstown. Joe Canty, who rode Bray Beau at Leopardstown, was also called on to give evidence. The Stewards expressed the opinion that the riding of the gelding by James Doyle was open to grave suspicion.

Jockeys' Insurance Scheme.

When the insurance scheme for professional riders, approved by the Turf Club and I.N.H.S.C., is in force in 1931, those riding in steeplechases and hurdle races will be required to provide themselves with crash helmets to minimise risk of injury to their heads and neck. It is thought likely at present that the scheme will operate as from next March or April. We understand that details of the scheme will be published in due course in the official Irish Racing Calendar.

Flange's Penalty.

By his success in the Glamis Handicap Plate at Windsor on Saturday Flange has incurred a 7lb. penalty for the Manchester November Handicap, making his weight 6st. 12lb.

Horse Kicked and Withdrawn.

T. Barber weighed out to ride Mr. V. Misa's Nahma in the Forest Selling Nursery at Windsor on Saturday, but she was kicked by another competitor while in the paddock, and, by permission of the Stewards, her number was withdrawn.

Pharlap Wins Again.

By winning a minor race at Melbourne on Saturday Pharlap, who recently won the Melbourne Cup, has won £46,842 in stake money. Pharlap has now only about £1,000 to win to break the record held by Amounis, the Caulfield Cup winner.

PIONEER LACROSSE CLUB.

Practice to-day at L.C.C. at 3 o'clock.

LEOPARDSTOWN.

IRISH SEASON ENDS.

EXCITING FINISH FOR "NURSERY."

WING'S THREE WINNERS.

A very successful meeting at Leopardstown on Saturday marked the close of the flat-racing season in Ireland. There were plenty of runners for all the events, a particularly exciting finish for the Nursery Handicap and a delightfully mild afternoon, all of which contributed towards making the meeting one of the most enjoyable of the season's series. M. Wing followed up his recent successes at the Curragh by steering home three more winners, two of them trained by Mr. R. More O'Ferrall. One of his mounts was Count McCormack's Beaudelaire, the winner of the chief race.

COUNT McCORMACK.

There are few more consistent horses in training than Mr. E. Delany's Boinne-na-Brugh. He had run twelve times in both flat and hurdle races up to Saturday, and finished in the first three on eight occasions. He was again prominent for most of the way in the Sandyford Plate, but in the last couple of furlongs had no chance with Bray Beau, who thus made amends for a failure at Naas on the previous Saturday. The running of Bray Beau was the subject of a subsequent inquiry by the Stewards, who expressed the opinion that the riding of the gelding by James Doyle at Naas was open to grave suspicion.

MR. MORE O'FERRALL'S DOUBLE.

One would have expected Happy Warden to be an automatic favourite for the Glencairn Plate, since he was already a winner, and the race was for maiden two-year-olds. He was disqualified after winning the Stand Plate at the Curragh, otherwise would not have been qualified to run here, but there was such strong support for Chedabucto, the mount of M. Wing, that Mr. More O'Ferrall's gelding gradually ousted the other from pride of position in the market. That there were genuine grounds for the confidence in Chedabucto was made apparent in the race, for he led from start to finish, and Happy Warden's effort to overhaul him close home was a futile one. Mr. H. M. Hartigan subsequently purchased Chedabucto for 50 sovs., and Mr. W. W. Ashe procured Briarfield for 55 guineas.

Beaudelaire confirmed the good impression formed of him at Naas when he now won the Autumn Plate just as easily as he had won there. His was the second score for Mr. More O'Ferrall's stable, and everyone was pleased to see Count M'Cormack's colours again carried to the fore; for the famous singer has not experienced the best of luck with his horses during the season just closed.

281 TO 1 WINNER ON TOTE.

It it doubtful if there was ever a more exciting race on the course than that for Killiney Nursery Handicap. So well were the field brought together by the handicap that every one of about eight horses seemed to hold equal chances when a furlong remained to be covered. The outsiders, Yes or No and Prince Pat, fought out the final stage, the verdict going to the former by a short head, and heads and short heads divided these from four or five others. Yes or No was a negligible quantity in the wagering, but there were three lucky backers who supported her on the tote, with the happy result that they each received £28 4s. in return for their outlay of two shillings, or odds at the rate of 281 to 1.

Faithful Tag showed a return to something like his earlier form by winning the Bray Plate rather easily from Some Gift, who was shouldering a 7lb. penalty for the Naas win. Knights Battle was amongst the runners, but was never prominent, and is apparently on the downward grade.

The meeting concluded with the amateur riders' race, which Mr. P. J. Lenehan won on Mr. Martin M'Donogh's Kyleclare, the disappointing Pry again finishing second.

1.45—SANDYFORD HANDICAP of 100 sovs. 1 m.
Mr. John J. Murphy's ch. g. BRAY BEAU, by Vencedor—Bessie Belle, 4, 9-3 Jos. Canty 1
Mr. E. Delany's BOINNE-NA-BRUGH, a, 7-2 J. Conlon 2

(Winner trained by P. J. Leonard.)

Betting—5 to 2 agst. Sparsholt, 4 to 1 BRAY BEAU, 5 to 1 Happy Memories, 6 to 1 Gallant Prince, 7 to 1 Sailing Bird, 10 to 1 each Boinne-na-Brugh and Bem, 20 to 1 Rock Less, 33 to 1 Carrick Lass.

Tote (2/- stake)—Win, 10/6; places, 3/6, 4/-, 3/-. Pool totals—Win, 528; places, 653.

Sailing Bird made the running from Boinne-na-Brugh, Gallant Prince and Bray Beau, with Sparsholt and Rock Less the last pair. Approaching the straight Boinne-na-Brugh drew clear of Sailing Bird, but was soon headed by Bray Beau, who went on to win easily by two and a half lengths; a head divided second and third. Gallant Prince fourth, Sailing Bird fifth, Happy Memories sixth and Carrick Lass next. Time, 1 min. 53 secs.

(Winner trained by Owner.)

Betting—2 to 1 agst. CHEDABUCTO, 4 to 1 Happy Warden, 9 to 2 Tetrafema, 6 to 1 Silverite, 10 to 1 each Briarfield and Archerstown, 20 to 1 each Musical Miss, B.P. and Crinoline, 100 to 1 Ca-Taw-Nee.

Tote (2/- stake)—Win, 7/-; places, 3/-, 3/-, 4/6. Pool totals—Win, 560; places, 655.

Chedabucto striking off the quickest went off in front of Silverite, Archerstown, Happy Warden and Briarfield. At half way Happy Warden took second place, but failed to make any impression on Chedabucto, who won by three lengths; two lengths divided second and third. Crinoline fourth, Silverite fifth, Musical Miss sixth and Ca-Taw-Nee next. Time, 68 3-5 secs.

The winner was sold to Mr. H. M. Hartigan for 50 sovs., and Briarfield to Mr. W. W. Ashe for 55 guineas.

MR. PARKINSON'S NEW STUD FARM.

Senator Parkinson has purchased from the executors of the late Mr. James Healy the 200-acre stud farm at Pollardstown, near the Curragh, and he will have his horse-breeding establishment there in future. Heretofore he has carried on his breeding stud on a property which he had on lease. He will call his new stud "The First Flier Stud," because the colt of that name won for him the 1917 Irish Derby. There will be five stallions at Pollardstown—Catalon, Labrige, Linby, Passer and Scatwell.

THIS WEEK'S RACING FIXTURES.

LEICESTER TO-DAY: PROBABLE STARTERS AND BETTING.

POOR MAN FANCIED.

MONZIE FOR OADBY NURSERY.

There is every probability of a large number of runners been seen out at Leicester to-day, and, as each event bears an open appearance, wagering should be on quite a brisk scale. The best prize is one of £500 for the Atherstone Handicap, run over a mile and a half. S. Darling unquestionably holds a very strong hand, having nominated four of his horses—viz., Leonidas II., Poor Man, Tea Party II. and Nitakrit. Egeria missed a race at Windsor, and she must have a good chance on her last running, when she finished second to Salmon Leap in the Limekiln Stakes at Newmarket. I think the handicapper has given her her full share of weight, but as she is obviously well at the moment she must be seriously considered. Pard has some good form this season to his credit, and I rather like his chance. When Poor Man ran at Doncaster on his last outing I was interested in the way he ran his race. For a long time he was last of all, and it was only in the last two furlongs that he seemed to get properly into his stride. He then finished full of running to gain third position. There seems a strong probability that he is now recovering his fine form of 1929, and I think he will prove good enough to win.

A big field will probably be seen out for the Oadby Nursery, and this is likely to be a pretty hot race. A group from which I expect the winner to come is represented by Misty Cloud, Roslina filly, Glow Worm, Monzie, Backward Glance and Amoya. On his last appearance Monzie was a creditable third to Cartouche at Newbury, and, with the latter having carried a 12lb. penalty into second place behind Vain Bachelor at Liverpool last week, Monzie's form is made to appear extremely useful. It will take a good one to beat him. Mona Gough filly has carried a lot of money in her last two races, one of which she won, and it is likely that she will again be well backed. Both Amoya and Backward Glance are worthy of some support, but I cannot find anything I like quite as much as Monzie, whom I expect to see successful.

For the Quorndon Handicap the field will be comparatively a small one. Emillia is due to compete, but I am a little doubtful of her ability to stay the distance, while Tetraville should not beat Cartello at the weights. Story of Eve is running into good form, and Financier may be expected to go close, but as Cartello seems to be rather leniently treated I shall make him my selection. In his absence Happy Note may score.

With four entries in the Melton Plate Frank Butters's selected should be worth following, but I think the best chance is held by Budaiya.

HUNTING.

WARD UNION HOUNDS.

The Ward's week-end meet at Donaghmore Crossroads was held in pleasant weather, and the large company out included a good many visitors to this popular venue. Palmerstown Hill afforded a fine view of the enlargement in the Folly farm to the many spectators, and the hunt took a circular course around the hill, via Johnstown to Palmerstown village. Here the pack crossed the road by the old churchyard into the Northlands, and grief was plentiful over the blind fences as they ran hard through Whitestown to Greenogue before bearing left-handed by Fieldstown, and crossing the Broadmeadow river at Fieldstown Bridge. The Swords road caused a check, but the line was recovered by New Barn and led on by Killsallaghan village and the Glebelands to Chapelmidway, where a safe recapture was made in Mrs. Monks's farmyard after a fast forty minutes, which finished.

THE MEATH HOUNDS.

A TWO HOURS' HUNT.

The Meath Hounds brought off a very fine hunt from the Slane meet on Thursday. They began by finding in the Plan Wood, and lost their fox after a short gallop. Followed a lot of woodland hunting in the Little Wood before drawing Boyle's gorse, which held several foxes. One went away by Newrath to the glen and on into the Plan, and retracing his steps to the glen was lost. Then came the good gallop referred to from Grangegeeth, where there were plenty of foxes. The hunted one went away over Mr. Gormel's farm and on by Cardrath and Glassallen. Here he turned to the left over Broomfield and by Strynagh, past the Louth coverts of Carrigmagow and Rathbran, and this good fox finally got to ground in Moortown (another Louth covert) after a splendid hunt of two hours. Only four people saw the finish—viz., Captain and Mrs. Hornsby, the Rev. Father Irvine, and Miss Taaffe.

SURPRISE FOR TRINITY.

LANSDOWNE BEAT HERIOTONIANS.

SMART ANGLO-IRISH HALF BACK.

The Anglo-Irish XV. were not strong enough for the combined team of Wanderers and Blackrock College which opposed them at Lansdowne road. Still the match served its purpose well, and brought at least one Anglo-Irish player prominently into the consideration of the Irish selectors. Lansdowne, opening their Scottish tour, scored a fine win against Heriots at Edinburgh. The biggest surprise of the day was the heavy defeat inflicted on Dublin University by Garryowen. Another Southern team, Cork Constitution, though defeated by Instonians at Belfast, made a splendid fight and impressed the Northern onlookers. University College, maintaining the improved form they have been showing, had a clear win over Old Wesley. Monkstown also were deserving of their win against Palmerston. Clontarf played a drawn match with Northern Civil Service, and Bective at Enniscorthy piled up a big score against the local club.

ANGLO-IRISH DEFEATED.

M'CREIGHT IMPRESSES AS ATTACKING HALF.

At Lansdowne road on Saturday a combined team of Wanderers and Blackrock defeated an Anglo-Irish XV., chosen by London Irish, by two goals and two tries (sixteen points) to a goal (five points).

The game attracted a large crowd, but fell much below expectations. The homesters did most of the attacking, and fully deserved their victory, but it was only rarely that they were able to develop handling movements. Their backs, however, were all extremely sound in defence, and, in this respect, special mention must be made of the international, P. F. Murray, whose tackling of Reid, the visiting out-half, was a feature of the match. Reid, having once cut through successfully in the first five minutes, was afterwards inclined to attempt too much, and was time and again brought down in possession when his three-quarters were well placed to use the ball. This was all the more regrettable because on the few occasions they did get moving the visiting "threes" showed cleverness, the reverse passing of the wings more than making up for their lack of pace.

Perhaps the most interesting player on the side was Reid's partner, C. C. McCreight, who showed himself a very dangerous attacking scrum-half. Whether he is as good in defence it is impossible to say, but he certainly provided some thrills by the manner in which he managed to steal away from the scrums. Both the centres were sound, and more will probably be heard of F. S. Hodder, a strongly-built player, who was often prominent. E. F. de Vere Hunt made one bad mistake when playing at full back in the first half, but in the second period, when he went on the wing, he did really well, and showed surprising pace. Of the visiting forwards, Collis, Anderson and Morgan did best.

Apart from Murray and P. Weir, who again played excellently at scrum-half, none of the Wanderers' backs stood out above his fellows, but all did useful work. But it was really the forwards who won the day. The mixed pack worked splendidly together, and Clinch, Keaney, McCormick and Hilton were especially prominent.

Soon after the start Hunt failed to check a forward rush, and Keaney crossed for a try, which Murray converted. There was no further scoring before the interval. In the second half Grealy added an unconverted try, following passing in the visitors' "25," but then the Anglo-Irish came more into the picture, and Hunt scored a try, which Collis converted. However, the homesters came again, and Clinch took a pass from Bermingham to score another try, while just before the end Grealy gathered a cross-kick and grounded between the posts, Murray converting. Result:—

Wanderers and Blackrock—2 goals 2 tries (16 points).
Anglo-Irish—1 goal (5 points).

Wanderers-Blackrock—D. Kennedy; R. L. Bermingham, F. W. Williamson, P. Crowe, J. G. Grealy; P. Weir, P. F. Murray; Burns, Carroll, J. D. Clinch, C. R. Graves, R. L. Halligan, H. J. Hilton, — Keaney, W. J. McCormick.

Anglo-Irish XV.—E. de Vere Hunt; G. M. Ievers, F. S. Hodder, B. A. Barr, J. Savage; L. N. Reid, C. McCreight; W. R. Collis, W. Morgan, H. E. Anderson, V. Smith, B. McLean, McD. Smith, I. M. B. Stuart, H. C. Brown.

LANSDOWNE START WELL.

HERIOTS DEFEATED AT EDINBURGH.

Lansdowne opened their Scottish visit with an excellent win over Heriots, the superior speed of the Dublin three-quarters being the decisive factor in the second half, the opportunism of Arigho dominating the Irish attack.

The conditions were ideal, and the Irishmen found the Scottish capital in one of its happiest moods.

Heriots had something the best of the start, but were well held by the Lansdowne backs, and good footwork by the forwards and precise handling by the backs took the Irishmen well into the home territory. Lightfoot nearly forced his way in, but was collared at the corner, and Davy essayed a drop at goal, which just failed. Heriots forced matters, and after a spell of attack Lansdowne scored. Davy slipped over smartly, but no goal resulted. Following this Heriots were definitely the aggressors, but Moran proved a sound full-back. At last Cleland got over, and Gow Brown kicked a goal. Ambrose and Gow Brown were more than holding their own against Davy and O'Reilly. Once Gow Brown neatly outwitted Davy and Moran by a kick ahead, only to find the bounce of the ball beat him, and then a wide pass to the left by the same player was fumbled by Bateman and Cleland. Soon after the Heriots' backs, with T. Robson giving a helping hand, executed a capital passing move, and, when Davies cross-kicked, Cleland and Martin were up, and the latter went over for a try, with the opposing full-back a second too late. Haddow's effort narrowly failed. The touch judges had opposite views, and the referee gave no goal. At half-time Heriots led by 1 goal 1 try (8 points) to 1 try (3 points).

Heriots resumed the second half as they left off, with attack, but the Irish forwards began to hold their own; and, taking control of the scrums, the threes came more into action, and, snapping up a chance, Arigho scored a great try. The ball passed beautifully among the backs, to return to Arigho, who scored between the posts. Lambert made a poor job of the kick. Strong play by Davy and a dash by Arigho took play to the other end, where, from a free, McEnery kicked a goal, to give the Irish a lead of one point. Buoyed up by their lead Lansdowne had now the better of the exchanges, and, following more good play by Davy, Hanlon scored, but the try was not converted. To the end the Irish backs were a constant danger, and played a lot of sparkling Rugby. Arigho put in a lot of sound initiation, and Davy was good all through, and he was a very difficult man to stop; Davy was also a better link to the three quarters than was Gow Brown, and as the Lansdowne three-quarters showed more speed and better handling than the home four, the Irishmen had a distinct advantage, and this gave them the victory. Result:—

Lansdowne—1 penalty goal 3 tries (12 points).
Heriots—1 goal 1 try (8 points).

Teams:—

Heriots—T. Haddow; T. Cleland, W. Davies, A. Bateman and G. A. Ford; Gow Brown and A. J. Ambrose; A. R. Robson, E. J. Oxley, T. M. Martin, J. D. Rowe, W. M. Laing, T. Robson, J. K. Melville and A. L. Smith.

Lansdowne—D. Moran; E. Lightfoot, N. H. Lambert, M. Crowe and J. Arigho; E. Davy and T. A. O'Reilly; J. McEvery, M. T. Dunne, M. E. Bardon, V. J. Pike, J. McMeaney, F. Conroy, J. C. Powell and J. Hanlon.

U.C.D. ON UP GRADE.

OLD WESLEY WELL BEATEN.

University College gave further evidence of being an improving side by the manner in which they defeated Old Wesley at Donnybrook on Saturday by 3 goals (1 dropped) and 2 tries to a goal and a try.

Though some of their points were obtained rather easily, as the result of mistakes or weaknesses of the opposition backs, there was no questioning their superiority. Their forwards, though not as good as the Wesley pack in the loose, had much the better of the argument in the set scrums and in the line-outs, and Roche, showing clever generalship at out-half, was able to negative the strong points in the opposition play and make the best use of the clever three-quarter line behind him. The Wesley forwards would probably have caused a lot of trouble had they been allowed to get among the College backs, but they were almost "killed" by Roche's lengthy and sure kicking to touch, and, when occasion offered, he opened up the game very effectively. Bailey, on the day, was more prominent in the centre than McMahon, and, running in a deceptive manner and drawing his men well, he made two of the best scores in the match. McMahon was also good, and Cremin ran strongly on the wing. Dawson was a trifle slow at the base of the scrum, and Hogan kicked a good length at full-back, though he did not always correctly judge the flight of the ball. The forwards, though keeping to their task in the tight, did useful work in the loose, and those who showed up most were Gleeson, Hogan, Purcell, and McHugh.

Though held in check for the greater part of the game, the Wesley forwards brought off some good rushes in the loose, particularly at the beginning and towards the close of the game, and they played a prominent part in defence, but they probably did not concentrate sufficiently on scrummaging. Fitzpatrick, Seymour, Ingram, and Green were always noticeable. Denied opportunities in attack, the backs proved rather weak in defence. The marking and tackling in the centre of the field got very loose at times, and the wings were frequently obliged to go for one of the opposing centres. Walker kicked well, and often gained ground by running across, but gave away one score by a weak attempt to tackle. Talbot and Cummins were the best of the three-quarters, and Young did an amount of useful kicking at out-half. Willoughby, though behind beaten forwards, contrived to show up prominently.

McHugh got the only score in the first half for "National," a Wesley man misfielding a cross-kick leading up to it, and McMahon converted. Early in the second half a fine round of passing let Saurin clean away, and stepping out of a feeble attempt at a tackle, he went over for an unconverted try. Soon after Bailey went right through a host of opponents and put Cremin over, and then added the extra points. Another long run by Bailey made the opening for McMahon to further increase the lead. Then came a score to Wesley, Love breaking away and sending Peard over for Young to convert. Lawlor, fielding a poor kick by a Wesley forward, dropped a goal for College, and near the close Young, picking up when Bailey missed a fly-kick, made a score for Wesley, Cummins getting over for a try, which Young did not convert. Result:—

University College—3 goals (1 dropped) 2 tries (20 points).
Old Wesley—1 goal 1 try (8 points).

University College—R. Hogan; P. Cremin, J. Bailey, L. B. McMahon, M. Saurin; P. Roche, F. Dawson; T. P. Hogan, M. P. Lawlor, B. Glynn, W. O. Cremin, J. N. McHugh, M. Gleeson, P. Purcell, J. Hanly.

Old Wesley—D. G. Walker; J. R. Talbot, H. F. Cummings, W. R. Prescott, W. H. Peard; J. G. Young, J. E. Willoughby; D. U. Fitzpatrick, A. W. Ingram, J. Beggs, J. D. Seymour, A. W. Love, M. J. Maher, H. Prim, J. R. Green.

DRAW AT CASTLE AVENUE.

D. J. LANGAN'S FINE PLAY.

Clontarf and Northern Ireland Civil Service played a draw of one try each at Castle avenue, the teams being very evenly matched.

The game was played at a fast pace, but was not, on the whole, of a spectacular nature, as it was mostly fought out among the forwards, and although the backs on both sides tried passing on many occasions, these efforts as a rule were not very well executed. Langan, the Clontarf full, gave another fine exhibition, and fully sustained his high reputation. His fielding and kicking were neat and accurate, and he went down to the rushes of the speedy Northern forwards in a plucky and determined manner. The Northern full back, W. W. Arthurs, also distinguished himself and played a brainy and sound game throughout. Giddings and Browne were the best of the Clontarf three-quarter line; Browne, as usual, showing a fine turn of speed, and his run in the first half from half way right up to the Northern line, was the most striking incident of the match. Lyons was very nippy as scrum half, and Mooney, Cavanagh and Glass were always prominent among the forwards.

Waring and Chambers did well in the Northern three-quarter line, and Wright and Morgan worked well together at half. Of a fast pack of forwards, who seemed lighter than their opponents, Siggins, Smith and Nixon were always to the fore.

Play was evenly contested in the opening stages, each end being visited in turn, the Northern forwards in particular being very speedy. Following a great run by Browne, Mahony dived over from a scrum and scored far out. Langan made a fine effort to convert, but just sent wide. Early in the second half Civil Service attacked, and Morgan receiving from Wright, ran over for a try, but Smith failed with the kick. Result:—

Clontarf .... 1 try (3 points).
Civil Service .... 1 try (3 points).

A HIGH SCORING GAME.

GANLY'S PART IN MONKSTOWN'S WIN.

In a high scoring game at Sydney Parade on Saturday Monkstown defeated Palmerston by four goals and two tries to two goals and three tries.

The forwards were well matched, and it was the excellent work of J. B. Ganly, well supported by H. Arigho, that won for the home club. Ganly has scarcely ever played in better form. His cutting through was most valuable, and Arigho's sense of position and good backing up made the Monkstown left wing always dangerous. Wall, on the right wing, did not get much of the ball, and though he scored two good tries, he might have scored more had he shown more resolute running. Gillis, at back for the winners, was safe, but lacked length in his kicks, and the halves, Joynt and Hodgson, had a hard job in a forward rushing game. The best of the Monkstown forwards were Mulhern, Hooper, Shanks and O'Farrell.

For Palmerston, Cobbe played a good game at back, and Falkiner and V. Kirwan were the best of the three-quarters. Henchie was a useful scrum worker, and the best of a keen pack were A. E. Thompson, C. N. Kirwan, Kenna, and J. H. Thompson.

Palmerston went off well, and Johnston and A. E. Thompson scored unconverted tries inside ten minutes. Then Mulhern scored an unconverted try for Monkstown, and then Arigho, being put over by Ganly twice, for the latter to add the points, and Wall, also being sent in by Ganly, who converted, Monkstown were twelve points up after half an hour. A. E. Thompson soon reduced this near the interval, Cobbe converting.

The second half was fairly even, but there was a lot of wild buck-kicking. V. Kirwan scored an unconverted try, and Kenna got over for A. E. Thompson to convert, while Arigho scored his third try, Ganly converting, and Wall scored in the last few minutes.

Monkstown—4 goals, 2 tries (26 points).
Palmerston—2 goals, 3 tries (19 points).

Monkstown—C. H. Gillis; T. H. D. Wall, C. P. Crowley, J. B. Ganly, H. Arigho; N. W. Hodgson, D. P. Joynt; E. Mulhern, J. R. Shanks, J. J. Hooper, B. A. Costello, K. O'Farrell, W. Condell, P. L. Tighe, O. J. Murphy.

Palmerston—R. B. Cobbe; R. T. Falkiner, R. J. H. Ball, F. Dowds, V. E. Kirwan; S. G. Johnston, S. Henchie; A. E. Thompson, C. N. Kirwan, J. H. Thompson, C. P. Kenna, W. Mahony, W. A. Smith, H. W. Darker, J. R. Y. Wilson.

GARRYOWEN'S SURPRISE.

FAST-BREAKING FORWARDS UPSET TRINITY.

Garryowen sprung the biggest surprise of the Rugby season so far when, in the College Park on Saturday, they defeated Dublin University in decisive and meritorious fashion by two goals from tries, one penalty goal and two tries (19 points) to one try (3 points). This was the Limerick club's first success over Trinity in the College Park for twenty-one years, and it was every bit as well deserved as the score implies. To a large extent the victory was due to the splendid work of the Garryowen forwards, who, though not getting the ball as often in the tight as did the Trinity eight, broke up so quickly that the University backs were not able to make full use of their advantage.

In the loose work the Limerick forwards were supreme, and they were ably assisted by their backs, who tackled with great pluck, and, when opportunity occurred, ran fast and straight. Trinity were handicapped through the inability of N. Tindal, F. C. Jackson and H. Michael to turn out, but Garryowen were also below strength. It was an interesting game, the play for the greater portion of the time being of a fast and keen order. Indeed, at times the play became a little more strenuous than was necessary, and more than once the referee was compelled to speak to players. The Limerick full back, J. Sullivan, played a very fine game, but he was outshone by his vis-a-vis, P. T. Mullaney, who was the outstanding player on the Trinity side. Everything the former Clongowes College boy did bore the mark of distinction, and but for his splendid kicking and tackling the score against his side must have been larger. P. Heffernan and P. Sullivan both displayed pace on their respective wings of the visiting middle line. Both half-backs played in plucky fashion, and best of a dashing pack were Cunneen, C. Heffernan and Coffey.

McNeice and Davies put in some strong running on the Trinity wings, but they found the defence much too good. Stokes and Hannin did all they could at half-back, but the forwards found more than their match, and of a beaten pack Hall, Graham and Tighe were the best.

Trinity had the better of the play for the opening fifteen minutes, and were the first to score, McNeice was the try-getter after an excellent bout of passing along the whole line. Following this Garryowen had more of the play, and before the interval T. Griffin and C. Heffernan crossed for unconverted tries. The second period was altogether in favour of Garryowen, and tries were scored by C. Heffernan and P. Heffernan, while P. Sullivan, in addition to converting on both occasions, landed a penalty goal. Result:—

Garryowen—3 goals (1 penalty) 2 tries (19 points).
Dublin University—1 try (3 points).

Teams:—

Dublin University—P. T. Mullaney; J. F. McNeice, R. McNeilly, M. Dee, R. Davies; T. B. Hannin, J. W. Stokes; D. S. Ashe, G. T. Keays, W. J. Hall, H. V. Tighe, St. J. S. Pike, R. C. Sutton, T. S. J. Anderson, D. L. Graham.

Garryowen — J. Sullivan; P. Sullivan, D. Ringrove, J. Griffin, P. Heffernan; G. Griffin, P. Sullivan; C. Heffernan, S. Coffey, R. Coughlan, J. Cunneen, T. Griffin, R. Matthews, P. O'Hallorhan, A. Eager.

CORK TEAM IN BELFAST.

CONSTITUTION LOSE TO INSTONIANS.

Although they lost their unbeaten record to Instonians at Ravenhill on Saturday, Cork Constitution made an excellent impression, and were quite the best Munster club side seen in Belfast for a long time. Instonians won by 1 dropped goal 1 penalty goal and 1 try (10 points) to 1 goal 1 try (8 points), but as a team Constitution were better, and but for the skill of Hewitt, who obtained all the winners' points, and the dashing finish of the home side, the Munster team would have won.

The weather was gloriously fine, and the only drawback was a strong breeze, which blew straight down-field, so that each side had its assistance for half of the game. Constitution had this advantage in the first half, and were very frequently on the attack, but they could only score twice, and their lead of eight points at the interval was not enough to maintain their unbeaten record. M. T. Murphy, who scored their first try after fifteen minutes' play, ran from well inside his own half to ground the ball under the posts, and C. Murphy converted. The second try, scored ten minutes later, was the result of a dribble started by Noel Murphy, and carried on by Rearden and Hickey, for the latter to dribble over and score too far out for C. Murphy to convert. Hewitt, with a great kick from a free, was unfortunate to see the ball strike the outside of an upright. For the greater part of the second half Instonians were attacking, but Constitution defended splendidly, and it was half-way through before Hewitt, who had changed from centre to out-half, broke over at the corner for a try, which he could not convert. Soon afterwards he landed a penalty, awarded against Constitution for "feet up." Instonians roused themselves after these successes, and though they played for the last quarter of an hour without their scrum half, R. K. Hobson, injured, Hewitt dropped a goal ten minutes from the end to give Instonians victory. The Constitution forwards, while dominating the scrums throughout, did not maintain their early fire in the loose. Result:—

Instonians—2 goals (1 dropped, 1 penalty), 1 try (10 pts.)
Cork Constitution—1 goal 1 try (8 pts.)

Cork Constitution—J. D. Condon; P. Hickey, J. Rearden, M. O'Driscoll, M. T. Murphy; T. Murphy, A. P. Harris; P. Delaney, W. Deasy, A. Allen, J. Wren, J. O'Kelly, J. Poulton, N. Murphy (capt.), C. Murphy.

Instonians—A. C. Douglas; J. Hendren, P. P. Jackson, H. C. Hewitt (capt.), T. A. C. Agnew; A. P. Elliott, R. K. Hobson; D. B. M'Neill, J. Kennedy, J. P. Campbell, J. M'F. Neill, W. Shaw, G. Iliff, J. M. M'Dowell, J. G. N. Kernahan.

FAST MUNSTER GAME.

BOHEMIANS DEFEAT U.C., CORK.

There was plenty of open play in the match between University College, Cork, and Bohemians at Limerick on Saturday. The Collegians were without four of last season's Cup final team, and, while their backs suffered as a consequence, they proved an all-round robust side. Forward they were no match for the home team, and they seldom got possession from the scrums. W. M. O'Sullivan, the out-half; McCarthy, on the left wing, and J. O'Sullivan, on the right, were the most prominent of the College backs, while N. McCarthy, Seavers, Bergby and McMullen were the leaders of the pack. As usual the College tackling was of the soundest description, and to this fact must be attributed the small score against the side. Bohemians won by two tries to nil, one scored in each half, and the tendency to kick to touch instead of opening out must have militated against their chances of registering a heavier defeat of the students. Robertson, D. McMahon, M. J. Graham and Russell (backs), and M. Graham, O'Sullivan and Hogan (forwards) showed up best for Bohemians. Result:—

Bohemians—2 tries (6 points).
University College—1 try (3 points).

ULSTER MATCHES.

QUEEN'S UNIV. ...... 12 BANGOR 6

Although Bangor led Queen's University by six points to nil soon after the start of the second half at Cherryvale the students rallied and won by 1 goal 1 dropped goal and 1 try (12 points) to two tries (6 points), but, while the students won, they had strong opposition from the improved Bangor side, whose backs at times handled skilfully and accurately. The Queen's captain, H. O'H. Neill, and James McVicker were absent from the pack, and a new scrum half, J. G. Cullen, and wing three-quarter, R. B. Hunter were tried, but the team will require some time to settle down with new players. Bangor backs are resourceful and the forwards are sound scrummagers and fast in the open. It was combination between backs and forwards that brought the first score to Bangor ten minutes from the interval, Bambrick, Foreman and Hamilton making ground for Allen to score. After the second half had started Moffett intercepted and sent Baxter off to cut through and send Blackwood in for a try near the flag. Queen's opening score came a few minutes later, R. Hewitt cross-kicking for Hunter to score at the posts. Malcolmson converted and only one point separated the teams. Subsequently Queen's attacked, and R. Hewitt dropped a goal, while Malcolmson landed a penalty. Teams:—

Bangor—A. R. Finlay; H. Blackwood, H. K. Finlay, H. W. Moffett and D. S. Foreman; J. Taylor and N. Bambrick (capt.); S. E. T. Allen, W. R. Kelly, J. E. Baxter, W. B. Crouch, J. N. Hamilton, C. H. Hill, J. Neill and W. H. Pollock.

Queen's—D. J. Malcolmson; R. R. Kennedy, R. W. Hewitt, J. C. Entrican and R. B. Hunter; V. A. Hewitt and J. C. Cullen; J. A. Boyd (capt.), W. M. Ross, R. B. Murphy, R. Alexander, R. J. Doolan, B. R. Henry, J. W. B. Paton and W. M. Martin.

COLLEGIANS ...... 3 MALONE 0

It was only by the aid of a penalty goal that the unbeaten Collegians' side succeeded in overcoming Malone at Deramore Park on Saturday, and this was kicked by J. A. Siggins a few minutes from the end of what was a very ordinary game. The Malone forwards kept the ball close and the faster Collegians' backs were unable to develop attacks, play being of the unenterprising order.

KNOCK .... 6 LURGAN 6

Lurgan have yet to win a match, but they made their second draw of the season when they played Knock in Belfast on Saturday, the visitors scoring a penalty goal and try (6 points) to two tries (6 points). Lurgan were best served by their forwards, while Knock had the better backs. A few minutes after the start G. Gardiner scored a try for Knock, and C. Woods kicked a penalty goal for Lurgan. In the second half J. H. Deeves scored a try for Lurgan, and in the last minute H. Flood obtained a try for the home team.

SURPRISE FOR YOUNG MUNSTERS.

At the Mardyke ground, Cork, Sundays Well defeated the Munster Cup-holders, Young Munsters, by 2 goals and a goal from a mark (13 points) to a goal and 2 tries (11 points). Previously the form of the Sundays Well club had not been inspiring, but many changes on the side seems to have strengthened it.

MUNSTER JUNIOR CUP.

The first game in the Munster Junior Cup was played at the Market Fields, Limerick, on Saturday, the teams being Young Munsters 2nd and Presentation. Result:—

Presentation—2 tries (6 points).
Young Munsters 2nd—Nil.

BECTIVE RANGERS V. ENNISCORTHY.

Played at Enniscorthy. Result:—

Bective Rangers—2 goals 6 tries (28 points).
Enniscorthy—1 dropped goal, 1 try (8 points).

COTE BASQUE PRESIDENT RESIGNS.

PRESS ASSOCIATION FOREIGN SPECIAL.

PARIS, Saturday.

Following closely on the decision of the twelve leading French clubs to secede from the French Rugby Federation comes the news in to-day's Auto that M. Forgues, President of the Basque Rugby Organisation, and a former captain of France, has sent in his resignation to the F.R.F. His resignation is the result of the Federation's taking certain measures against two big Cote Basque clubs without previously consulting the Basque Rugby Committee.

BOXING.

WALKER MAKES HIS MARK AS HEAVY-WEIGHT.

Making his debut in the heavy-weight ranks, Mickey Walker, the middleweight champion, beat Johnny Risko, the Cleveland "rubber man," on points in a ten-round bout at Detroit.

Walker jumped into the lead in the second round, sending Risko to the floor for a count of nine with a stinging left to the head. He was always in front for the remainder of the bout, although Risko tried desperately. Walker weighed 11st. 12lb., and Risko 13st. 11½lb.

A crowd of 19,000 saw the bout.

CARNERA GIVES EXHIBITION.

ROME, Sunday.

Primo Carnera, who appeared at the Adriano Theatre here last night, was given a thunderous welcome by an enthusiastic crowd, which packed the building to the doors, and which included several members of the Fascist Government. The giant, who was obviously delighted with his reception, boxed three exhibition rounds of two minutes each with three Italian heavyweights, and gave an exhibition of physical training and Swedish gymnastics, after which, amid roars of cheering, he was presented with a gold medal by the Italian Boxing Federation and various other sporting bodies. It will be remembered that Carnera has been restricted to exhibition bouts by the Italian Boxing Federation until he has fought Paolino in Barcelona on November 23rd.

BILLIARDS.

VICTORIES FOR LINDRUM AND NEWMAN.

In the games in the international tournament which concluded on Saturday Lindrum defeated Davis by 4,501, and Newman beat McConachy by 8,353. Thus, with the tournament half-played Lindrum, Davis and Newman have each won two games and lost one, while McConachy has still to win a match. Davis has scored 77,857 points, Lindrum 77,165, Newman 76,989, and McConachy 67,277.

Davis made a break of 101 in his last snooker pool game against Lindrum, and this beat the world's record of 100 jointly held by Newman and Davis.

ASSOCIATION FOOTBALL.

THE FREE STATE LEAGUE.

PROVINCIAL TEAMS SUCCESSFUL.

CELTIC LOSE POINTS AT BALLYMENA.

The 4-1 victory of Cork at Dundalk was the strongest feature of the week-end matches in the Free State League Cork played finished football, but the match was a personal triumph for Blair, who scored three of the Southerners' goals. Waterford also achieved distinction by beating Bray Unknowns at Bray (3-2), but Shelbourne (3-1) and Shamrock Rovers (2-1) were hard set to take the points, Connolly, a new forward, making a successful debut by leading up to two of Shelbourne's goals against Brideville, while St. James's Gate had a couple of goals disallowed in their match with the Rovers. Bohemians (2-1) likewise were fully extended by Dolphin, but Drumcondra (3-1) had a comparatively easy match with Jacobs.

In the Irish League, Belfast Celtic went down badly at Ballymena, beaten 4-1, and they are now a bad second in the table.

The Irish amateur team to play England next Saturday at Belfast will include four Bohemians—Messrs. McMahon, Bermingham, Horlacher and Morton—the Selection Committee having so decided on Saturday night.

BOHEMIANS' TEAM WORK PREVAILS.

BOHEMIANS .... 2 DOLPHIN 1

At Dolphin Park last Saturday. Dempsey and Cleary scored for Bohemians; Lennox (penalty) for Dolphin.

It was a splendidly contested game, interest being maintained to the last kick. There was little between the teams, but Bohemians deserved their victory, although their defence was a trifle fortunate in staving off the late attacks on their goal. Throughout they were faster on the ball, put greater vigour into their play, and all round were more progressive, exhibiting the right team spirit.

Dolphin was a clever side, but much of their play was rather involved, and they took liberties by indulging in too much finesse. Forwards and half-backs passed and re-passed, giving the Bohemian defence more than sufficient time. In the closing twenty minutes Dolphin opened up and the equaliser would likely have come but for the excellent defence by Cannon and his backs.

The notable figure was Andrews, who played centre-half for Bohemians instead of McMahon. He gave a grand display of strong tackling and clever covering. The Bohemian forward line did well, but there was all-round strength in the side if Kissane be excepted.

Despite their failure Dolphin gave a display that was pleasing. Their outstanding players were Doyle, Dixon, Patterson, Miller, Somers, and Godwin.

Dolphin—Kelly; Lennox, Doyle; Millar, Dixon, McAllister; Godwin, Somers, Kinnear, Lee, Patterson.

Bohemians—H. Cannon; M. O'Kane, J. McCarthy; M. Kissane, P. Andrews, A. Morton; W. Cleary, A. Horlacher, J. White, J. O'Dempsey, J. Bermingham.

SHELBOURNE'S NEW WING FORWARD.

SHELBOURNE ...... 3 BRIDEVILLE 1

At Shelbourne Park last Saturday. The scorers were:—Hair (2) and Connolly for Shelbourne; Quinlan for Brideville.

Shelbourne's success was almost entirely due to the former Glasgow Celtic forward, Connolly, who, on his first appearance at outside right, played a leading part in scoring two of the goals, the first coming from a perfectly centred pass to Hair, and the other being netted by the newcomer after Ledwidge had failed to trap a pass from the centre.

Apart from these two scores, Connolly had little to do, but he did it well, and when in proper trim he should materially help Shelbourne to maintain a more evenly-balanced forward line.

The result was not, however, a true reflex, as Brideville had in every way as much of the play, but their inside forwards lay too far down, while their play at close quarters was not good. Smith was the only effective forward, Gibbons on the other wing being well held by Thomas and Byrne, while Gaskins, who sent in several strong shots, was too often among his own half backs. Quinlan, in the centre, was good, but he seldom received sufficient support.

There was little difference in the relative merits of the forward line, so far as midfield play was concerned, Howieson being the only weak link in the Shelbourne attack. Brideville's half backs were more methodical in their placing than the Shelbourne trio. The latter, sound in defence, frequently sent the ball too far ahead.

There was little notable play in the first half, apart from Shelbourne's goal, scored after twelve minutes, and the home side added a second three minutes after the re-start. Then came a marked improvement in each side, the defences getting plenty to do; but Brideville were unlucky, after Quinlan had reduced the lead, to have a third goal put on against them, following a misdirected header from their centre half, which Hair turned into the net.

Shelbourne—Diffen; Paton, Byrne; Thomas, Chatton, Glavey; Connolly, Ledwidge, Hair, Howieson, Salisbury.

Brideville—O'Callaghan; Kenny, Bermingham; O'Reilly, Charles, Ryan; Smith, Gaskins, Quinlan, Reid, Gibbons.

ROVERS LUCKY TO BEAT ST. JAMES'S GATE.

SHAMROCK ROVERS... 2 ST. JAMES'S GATE 1

At Milltown yesterday. Scorers for Rovers, Kavanagh (own goal) and Flood; for St. James's Gate, Swann.

The game provided many exciting passages, and interest was sustained to the end.

Rovers' reversion to the old forward formation was not a successful experiment in the first half, and there was a reshuffling on the restart, Byrne going outside left and Sloan inside, Flood taking up the centre position. It made for an improvement.

Rovers, with the breeze, had the better of the play in the opening half, but the visitors' defence, in which Cass was prominent, came successfully through a trying time. Rovers, however, overdid the fancy work. Had they swung the ball about they likely would have held a commanding lead at the interval.

St. James's Gate were decidedly unlucky in having two apparently good goals disallowed. Further misfortune befell them when Kavanagh, in making a clearance, diverted the ball into his own goal, presenting Rovers with the equaliser.

The football of the visitors in the concluding half certainly deserved a draw, if not a win.

Matthews saved well in the Rovers' goal. Chervi was the better full, and Gallaher impressed one in the middle line, neither Glenn nor Caulfield playing their usual game. Of the forwards, Moore, Byrne, Flood and Sloan were the pick. The St. James's Gate defence played splendidly, particularly Cass. Kavanagh, the ex-Shelbourne full-back, made a successful debut in partnership with Gorman. The three halves got through their work effectively, being generally sound. Swann, Wilson and Gleeson were the pick of the forwards.

Shamrock Rovers—Matthews; Chervi, Burke; Glenn, Caulfield, Gallagher; Golding, Moore, Byrne, Flood, Sloan.

St. James's Gate—Cass; Gorman, Kavanagh; Tynan, M'Kay, Murray; Wilson, Swann, Kane, Comerford, Gleeson.

DRUMCONDRA RECOVERS IN SECOND HALF.

DRUMCONDRA .... 3 JACOBS 1

At Rutland avenue yesterday. Kavanagh, Fleming and Ginsberg scored for Drumcondra; Hickey for Jacobs.

Drumcondra were clearly the better side, but they took a long time to settle the issue. They were in arrears at the interval, and, though their forwards worked hard throughout, they found it difficult to ovecome a resolute defence. It was not until their backs co-operated with their wings and Jacobs' backs were drawn from the front of their goal, that scoring became possible. Then Jacobs' defence was overran.

Jacobs were energetic, and never gave up. They developed a number of dangerous attacks, but their forwards shot badly, and displayed a tendency to individualism.

Judging by this match, the changes made by Drumcondra have strengthened the team; they were lacking only in dash and thrust. The wing play of Fleming and Ginsberg was pleasing, and Grace and Farrell were strong half-backs, who assisted in defence and joined in attack with skill. The backs were good, and Pidgeon, as goalkeeper, safe. He made a brave effort to save the fine shot that beat him. Jacobs' defence was blameless for the defeat. Kelly and Temple were excellent half-backs. Hickey, Forrest and Heron were best in a forward line that was quite good to a point.

Jacobs—Collins; Ronan, Crowley; Temple, Kelly, Farrell; Corcoran, Heron, Forrest, Boyne, Hickey.

Drumcondra—Pidgeon; Dunne, Moore; Kinsella, Grace, Farrell; Fleming, Kavanagh, McCarney, Molloy, Ginsberg.

A SURPRISE FOR BRAY UNKNOWNS.

WATERFORD .... 3 BRAY UNKNOWNS 2

At Bray yesterday. Common (2) and Mitchell scored for Waterford, and Lally and McNally for Bray.

Waterford introduced two new players—McColgan (late Portsmouth) and Coventry (late Falkirk) the former at left full back and Coventry at centre-half.

Waterford played the better game from start to finish, particularly in the second half, when their forwards ran rings round the home defence and scored twice in five minutes.

Bray held their opponents well until Lally was injured and retired. When he returned he went outside right, Maguire taking his place at right-half, while Watters moved into the inside-right position. It was after the re-arrangement of the Bray forwards that Waterford took a grip of the game. Thereafter they were masters of the situation.

During the first half each side should have had a score. Scurry (Waterford) missed a chance when only a few yards from Dunne, and McNally (Bray) did likewise, with Wilson standing at the upright. In the second half, after Lally opened the scoring for Bray, Common scored twice for Waterford, the goals being obtained inside five minutes. Midway through this half Mitchell got the third goal for Waterford. In the closing minutes Bray were awarded a penalty, from which McNally scored.

Waterford—Wilson; Sempey, McColgan; Lennon, Coventry, Little; Scurry, Mitchell, Common, Patton, Hale.

Bray Unknowns—Dunne; Brekford, Chalmers; Lally, Preston, Fennell; Watters, Maguire, McNally, Rigby, Kendrick.

BLAIR SCORES THREE FOR CORK.

CORK.................. 4 DUNDALK...... 1

At Dundalk yesterday. Blair (three) and Davis scored for Cork, and Stewart for Dundalk.

From the start the Cork forwards played much better than the Dundalk five. After M'Mullen, the Dundalk goal-keeper, saved three hot shots, Davis took a pass from Blair and scored from close range for the visitors. Five minutes later M'Cahill centred, and Stewart equalised.

In the second half Cork were much the better side, and while the Dundalk forward line were slow and finished weakly, the Cork men moved well together, and their shooting was delightful. Five minutes after the resumption Blair took a pass from Sullivan and scored with a low shot. Directly afterwards the Dundalk fulls were slow in clearing, and Blair scored the third goal. In a breakaway he surprised M'Mullen with a low shot from twenty yards. Dundalk included in their side as inside left Hirst, a Birmingham player, who was signed during the week.

Dundalk—M'Mullen; M'Keown, MacDiarmid; Slowey, Reid, Johnston; M'Cahill, M'Court, Stewart, Hirst, Berry.

Cork—Ronan; Scott, Rowles; Marshall, Sullivan, M'Loughlin; Malaghan, Blair, Davis, Dowdall, Griffice.

THE IRISH LEAGUE.

CELTIC'S HEAVY DEFEAT.

Celtic's defeat Ballymena by four goals to one makes the position of Glentoran at the head of the Irish League table much stronger, for with half of the matches in the competition now played they are four points in front of Linfield, who were champions last year.

Glentoran accounted for Derry City at the Oval by 4-1, and Linfield beat Larne at Windsor Park by three goals to one.

Nine goals were scored at Ards, where the home side defeated Bangor by five goals to four, and Glenavon, who scored the only goal at Newry, were and one away team to win.

Coleraine and Distillery divided six goals, and Portadown inflicted another defeat on the amateurs, Cliftonville, by five goals to two.

IRISH V. ENGLISH AMATEURS.

FOUR BOHEMIANS IN IRISH XI.

The Irish amateur team to play the English amateurs at Cliftonville grounds, Belfast, next Saturday was chosen on Saturday night as follows:

A. Gardiner (Cliftonville).

R. Skelton (Cliftonville), R. P. Fulton (Belfast Celtic).

J. Jones (Linfield), J. McMahon (Bohemians), A. Morton (Bohemians).

J. Bermingham (Bohemians), A. Horlacher (Bohemians), J. Miller (Cliftonville), J. Doherty (Larne), N. M. McCaw (Cliftonville).

Reserve—Adams (Cliftonville).

THE LEINSTER LEAGUE.

SHAMROCK ROVERS "B" 5 DUBLIN UNIV. 1

In the College Park last Saturday Govan, Mathews (2), Simpson and Keng scored for Rovers; T. MacD. Stewart for Trinity.

The University had the services of P. A. Thornton and T. MacD. Stewart, who had been absent for about two weeks. They again offered a stout resistance to a more seasoned team, but still lack the necessary finish. The wing forwards were speedy, but were up against a clever defence.

Callaghan kept a good goal, but was beaten with a long drive by Govan to open the scoring after fifteen minutes. The side fell away for a time afterwards, and three further scores were registered before the interval, the scores being against the run of the play. In the second half Mathews had a soft goal for Rovers. With Stewart in the forward line the visitors' goal was put under strong pressure, and Stewart scored.

Dublin University—A. W. Callaghan; B. P. McCormack, T. MacD. Stewart; R. A. Crawford, H. D. McGorry, B. Jordan; L. Huggard, C. Dufferin, Dr. P. A. Thornton, R. Chambers, L. Harrison.

Shamrock Rovers "B"—Behan; Hyland, North; McKenna, Kinsella, Govan; Carr, Mathews, Keag, Gregg, Simpson.

UNIV. COLLEGE ...... 3 GLASNEVIN 0

At Terenure last Saturday O'Dea scored for the College.

University College are now a well-balanced side, and their victory was attained without their being fully extended. The students, by the inclusion of O'Dea, have effectively strengthened the centre-forward position. Skilful in manœuvring, he was also accurate in shooting, and scored three fine goals.

The College forwards kept the ball moving freely in the first half, and Honohan and Dempsey were also prominent in a series of attractive movements, which tested the resource of the Glasnevin backs. Hughes, Mulligan and Foley defended stubbornly, and their work, coupled with a splendid display by the visiting goalkeeper, Murphy, were features.

Glasnevin enjoyed more of the play in the second half, but their forwards, of whom Gunn and Newman were the pick, were unequal to the task. Doherty, Cavanagh and McGahon at back playing a resolute game.

University College—Crilly; Cavanagh, Doherty; O'Reilly, Murray, McGahon; Mathews, Donaghy, O'Dea, Donaghy, Dempsey.

Glasnevin—Murphy; Hughes, Fortune; Mulligan, Foley, Daly; Griffin, McEvoy, Gunn, Buckley, Newman.

CROSS-COUNTRY.

CYCLISTS AND RUNNERS IN COMBINED RUN.

The combined run of the Donore Harriers and the Irish Road Club on Saturday last proved a very interesting experiment, and will, doubtless, be repeated at a future date. The harriers turned out in force, no less than 43 runners taking part in the event. There were 20 cyclists. The route embraced a big proportion of road, and the placings at the finish suggest that rather more than was necessary was included, as the first 11 finishers were wheelmen, and only seven runners got into the first 20. At one point three of the runners, Coard, Kelly and Eakins, held a commanding lead, but instead of crossing the river near Knockmaroon they ran on to Lucan, and took no further part in the competition.

The route was about 8 miles. Starting from Kilmainham, it took to the fields south of the University Boat Club premises, and followed the Liffey to Chapelizod; then southwards again, and emerging on the road near Palmerstown, it crossed to the northern side of the river by Guinness's Bridge. Ascending to the Phœnix Park by Knockmaroon Hill, a varied trail was laid through the Park. The final positions were carefully noted so as to provide a line of form should the event be repeated. The first 20 finishers were:—

1, P. Grey (I.R.C.); 2, P. Kneeshaw (I.R.C.); 3, P. Cooper (I.R.C.); 4, D. Troy (I.R.C.); 5, M. Clinton (I.R.C.), 6, J. T. Molloy (I.R.C.); 7, W. Kneeshaw (I.R.C.); 8, P. Doyle (I.R.C.); 9, B. Kelly (I.R.C.); 10, J. Brooks (I.R.C.); 11, D. J. Galavan (I.R.C.); 12, B. Mangan (Donore H.); 13, L. Wynne (Donore H.); 14, N. Troy (I.R.C.); 15, — Houlihan (Donore H.); 16, — Smyly (Donore H.); 17, C. Mangan (Donore H.); 18, C. Doyle, (I.R.C.); 19, — Fennell (Donore H.); 20, — Farrell (Donore H.).

CIVIL SERVICE HARRIERS.

The opening handicap of the Civil Service Harriers was decided on Saturday afternoon last over the usual club course in the Phœnix Park, 26 runners taking part in the event. The absence of W. Smyth, from whom the handicap was framed, detracted from the interest in the race, but McCall, the virtual scratchman, with 30 secs., did a good performance by running into tenth place, and making the fastest time. The winner, T. Flynn, led throughout, and won easily by 43 secs. The placings were:—

1, T. Flynn (5 mins.), 27 mins. 22 secs., actual time; 2, M. Foley (3 mins. 20 secs.), 26 mins. 25 secs.; 3, M. Holmes (3 mins. 15 secs.), 26 mins. 11 secs.; 4, S. Cleary (3 mins. 15 secs.), 26 mins. 36 secs.; 5, W. Mulcahy (3 mins. 15 secs.), 26 mins. 46 secs.; 6, C. Dillon (2 mins. 50 secs.), 26 mins. 36 secs.; 7, B. O'Riordan (50 secs.), 24 mins. 37 secs.; 8, V. Flynn (1 min. 20 secs.), 25 mins. 27 secs.; 9, R. Scott (3 mins. 45 secs.), 27 mins. 56 secs.; 10, S. M'Call (13 secs.), 24 mins. 28 secs.; 11, P. Berry (3 mins. 5 secs.), 27 mins. 40 secs.; 12, M. Howard (2 mins. 50 secs.), 27 mins. 30 secs.; 13, J. A. M'Garry (3 mins. 4 secs.), 28 mins. 50 secs.; 14, P. J. M'Donald (4 mins. 15 secs.), 29 mins. 23 secs.; 15, A. Murray (3 mins. 20 secs.), 28 mins. 37 secs.; 16, J. Keogh (50 secs.), 26 mins. 14 secs.; 17, T. M'Hugh (3 mins. 20 secs.), 28 mins. 31 secs.; 18, K. Connelly (4 mins. 15 secs.), 29 mins. 47 secs.; 19, T. J. Daunt (— secs.), 31 mins. 55 secs.

Also competed:—P. Collins, G. Ryder, W. Scollard, R. Murphy, S. Healy, S. Cotterell and J. Dolan.

GOLF.

NEXT YEAR'S IRISH OPEN CHAMPIONSHIP.

THE DATES FIXED.

Next year's Irish Open Championship will be played on the Royal Dublin links, Dollymount, in the week commencing August 24.

The dates were decided on after careful consideration by the Irish Open Championship Committee of the G.U.I., and in consultation with the Executive of the Professional Golfers' Association (England).

PROGRESS AT HOWTH.

At the annual dinner of the Howth Club, held on Saturday in St. Lawrence Hotel, Howth, the captain, Mr. J. J. Redmond, alluded to the extension of the course to eighteen holes, and regretted that, owing to the unfavourable weather that prevailed when the new nine were laid out, the turf at three of the holes had not knitted properly. The result was that the full eighteen could not be played during the year, but the committee had decided that something would have to be done. Further expenditure was undertaken, and some thousands of square feet of fairway had been resodded. The new work had been most successful, and the committee had good reason to hope that in the early spring the three holes affected would be placed in commission.

"The Howth Club" was proposed by Mr. J. C. Hehir, who commented on the sporting spirit that pervaded the club, and which enabled the new member and the visitor to feel as much at home at St. Fintan's as the oldest of their members.

The captain of the club responded, and "The Visitors," given by Mr. P. Murphy, was responded to by Mr. E. J. Duffy (Sutton) and Mr. D. Finn (Clontarf).

Mr. John Burke was the recipient of a bag of clubs in recognition of his services to the club, and replicas of the club's cups were presented as follows:—Futson Cup, T. P. Waters; Shielmartin Cup, G. Griffin; McMahon Cup, C. Flanagan; President's Cup, J. Kelly; St. Fintan Cup, B. O'Brien; St. Lawrence Cup, J. J. Redmond.

A first-class musical programme was contributed to by Messrs. P. J. O'Toole, C. Bruton, M. J. Gallagher, K. O'Dea, N. O'C. Redmond, T. Earls, S. J. O'Connell and J. W. Mannix.

MATCHES AND TORCHES LIGHT THE WAY.

The light from matches and electric pocket torches was necessary towards the close of the match between the Royal Wimbledon Club and Oxford University, on the former club's course last Saturday, because the extended games finished in darkness.

The University won by ten matches to five, with three halved. They won the foursomes by 3 to 1, with 2 halved, and the singles by 7 to 4, with 1 halved. J. P. Marston, the Oxford captain, suffered his first defeat of the season when he was beaten by E. C. Millard, who did the first nine holes in 36, turned 3 up, and won by 5 and 4.

MAJOR HEZLET IN FORM.

West Hill last Saturday beat Cambridge University at West Hill in foursomes and singles by fourteen games to four. West Hill won the six foursomes, Major C. O. Hezlet, the former Irish champion, and J. B. Beck beating E. M. Prain and W. H. Bermingham by 3 and 2. In the singles, which the club won by eight to four, Hezlet gained a narrow win over Prain after being 4 up at the eleventh and dormy 3. Prain played the sixteenth and seventeenth holes perfectly, and he had a chance of saving the match at the eighteenth, but he drove into the rough, and could do no more than halve the hole, Hezlet thus winning by one hole.

CLUB COMPETITIONS AND NOTICES.

A GOLFER'S TWENTY YEARS' TASK.

A task extending over twenty years and involving playing on one thousand courses is what Ralph A. Kennedy, an American golfer, has set himself. In 1910 he set out to achieve his "record," and recently played on his 776th course. To date he has played 13,968 holes.

THE ROEHAMPTON TOURNAMENT.

The dates for the next Roehampton Invitation Professional Tournament will be April 9 to 11, inclusive.

CRICKET.

COLLAPSE OF WESTERN PROVINCE.

CAPE TOWN, Saturday.

The meeting of the M.C.C. and Western Province in what is virtually the opening fixture of the tour showed South African cricket in anything but a favourable light. Batting first, on a good turf wicket which had been carefully nursed for the occasion for months past, Western Province lost their first three wickets for five runs, and half the side was out for 38. They were eventually disposed of in less than two and a half hours for 113.

Tate, using the new ball to swing in from both sides, was very difficult to play, and took 5 wickets for 18 runs. Chapman kept him almost continually employed, but at the other end he used Voce, Peebles and Leyland to give the attack variety. Tate opened with Voce, and these two bowlers had sent three batsmen back for 5 runs in twenty minutes. Tate's first six overs yielded 2 wickets for 6 runs.

Nourse, the veteran of many Test matches against England, who is now coaching at the University, was warmly cheered on his way to the wicket, but the best work for the Western Province side was done by the nineteen-year-old colt, L. E. Myles, who batted soundly for eighty-five minutes. His only chance was a difficult one, to Hendren off Peebles, when he was 31.

When Sandham and Wyatt opened the M.C.C. innings neither batsman was afraid to go out to the bowling, and an hour's batting produced 68 runs. Sandham's late cutting was a feature, and Wyatt, who seems to have struck his very best form, timed his legside shots very well, indeed.

Playing splendid cricket, Sandham reached 50 in eighty-five minutes, while the opening stand realised 100 five minutes later. On Wyatt reaching his 50 he was, like his partner, generously applauded. The Surrey professional was the first to leave, being caught off Coen for 72. Hammond followed, and, with Wyatt, played out time, carrying the score to 153 for 1 wicket, Wyatt's share being 70. PONSFORD BRILLIANT.

At Melbourne on Saturday, W. H. Ponsford, regarded as one of the world's best batsmen before Don Bradman came into prominence, played a superb innings for his club, St. Kilda, scoring 120 in one hundred and fifty-six minutes. His timing was perfect, especially in hitting to leg, where he scored most of his runs. Ponsford's batting recently was far from satisfactory, but his innings to-day indicates that he has found his true form.

CENTURIES BY BRADMAN AND KIPPAX.

SYDNEY, Saturday.

Centuries by Bradman and Kippax were the features of the second Sheffield Shield match of the season between New South Wales and South Australia, which began here yesterday. In spite of scoring only 228 in their first innings New South Wales are to-day in a very strong position, being 421 runs on with five wickets in hand. South Australia, who lost five wickets for 74 runs yesterday, were all out to-day for 124, and then New South Wales scored 317 for five wickets. Hooker was the cause of South Australia's poor score, taking five wickets for 28 runs. New South Wales lost their opening batsmen for 9, but Bradman and Kippax flogged the bowling, weakened by the absence of Grimmett and Wall, and hit up 219 runs in one hundred and thirty-seven minutes for the third wicket. Score:—

New South Wales—228, and 317 for 5 wickets (Bradman 121, Kippax 104).
South Australia—124 (Hooker 5 wickets for 28).

HOBBS AND SUTCLIFFE IN FORM

At Benares, on Saturday, Hobbs scored 100 not out and Sutcliffe 93 for Vijianagram, who made 225 for one wicket, and disposed of Allahabad for 172, thus winning by ten wickets.

WOODFULL'S HEALTH.

It is not generally known that Woodfull when he came to England this summer was far from well, states "Old Boy," writing in the Melbourne Argus. He was frequently in pain when he took the field, and at present is being medically treated. Woodfull does not desire to retire, continues the writer, but feels that he cannot afford to jeopardise his professional prospects nor submit his health to undue strain.

BADMINTON.

HIBERNIANS v. WOODBROOK.—Played at Parnell square, Woodbrook winning by 6 matches to 2.

WOODBROOK 3rd v. RATHMINES Y.M.C.A.—Played at Woodbrook, and, after some very close matches, the game ended in a draw of 4 all.

GREEN'S FINE WIN IN ITALIAN "WALK."

T. N. Green, of Belgrave Harriers, who holds the London to Brighton record, at Milan yesterday won the world's championship 100 kilometres road walk in 10 hours, 30 minutes, 24 secs. Olivoni, of the Italian Sports Club, was second in 10 hours, 40 minutes, 45 seconds, and Guidotti, of Caproni Sports Club, third, in 11 hours, 17 minutes.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND NOTES

LONDON STOCK MARKET FEATURES.

A HEALTHY REACTION.

SOME ATTRACTIVE INSURANCE SHARES.

From Our Financial Correspondent.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON, Saturday.

In some respects this week's reaction in gilt-edged stocks is to be welcomed. The upward movement was a little too rapid, and to a considerable extent it was due to purely speculative operations conducted by professionals who followed the lead of the banks and other great financial institutions. The reaction enables the genuine investor to acquire stock on more favourable terms than were possible earlier in the week. It is scarcely to be expected that the setback will be very pronounced. It was brought about mainly by the indications of a harder money market and the arrangements for large withdrawls of gold for France, entered into, presumably, because of the banking troubles in Paris. The Bank of England is so strong that it can well spare the £3,000,000 already engaged for export, but this development suggests that money rates will rise rather than fall during the next month or two, so that a further advance in gilt-edged stocks would scarcely be justified.

5 P.C. WAR LOAN.

There is, apparently, not the faintest chance of a reduction in the official minimum, and there is also much less expectation now of a scheme for converting part of the 5 p.c. War Loan. Consequently that stock, which had been depressed by fears of repayment or conversion, showed exceptional firmness last week when other British Government securities were flat. The recovery in War Fives during the week from about 102 to 102½ is an expression of the opinion held by many in the City that whatever may be said in favour of definitely long-dated stocks 5 p.c. War Loan is still one of the best investments available. It yields about 4⅞ p.c., whereas at last week's prices many other stocks in this section gave less than 4¼ p.c.

A DUBIOUS SUGGESTION.

The hardening of money rates will strengthen the views of those who have always maintained that people who refuse any conversion offer can, if they wish, expect to be able to retain 5 p.c. War Loan until the latest redemption date, 1947. In regard to this matter, the latest suggestion is that holders should be offered a stock bearing 4½ p.c. interest for seven or eight years and thereafter 4 p.c. for a further thirty years. This would meet the demand for a long-dated investment, but the prospective reduction in the interest rate would almost certainly lead to depreciation of capital—unless the period in which the loan ran was one of exceptionally easy monetary conditions. As such conditions cannot be regarded as certain, it is doubtful if many holders would be attracted by the offer.

INSURANCE SHARES.

In the last few weeks there has been quite an important rise in Insurance Shares, and the market was stimulated lately by the increase in the interim dividend of the Sun Fire Company. Prices have risen so much that the question may be raised whether the future has not been sufficiently discounted. The yields at current prices, on the basis of the last dividends, are in most cases very moderate, but it is reasonably certain that distributions will be gradually increased during the next few years. The uncertainty in the matter is the length of time that may elapse before the dividend increase is sufficient to give a reasonable return, say, from 4½ to 5 per cent., on shares bought now. During this year North British (25s. paid) Shares have risen from £30 3s. 4d. to about £37, having changed hands at the latter figure last week. At this price the return to fresh buyers, based on the last annual dividend, is rather less than 3 per cent.

SOME CONSIDERATIONS.

It is a safe 3 per cent., of course, but the question that would-be purchasers have to answer is how long they will have to wait before the prospective increase in the dividend gives a return as good as that obtainable from Government Stocks. Upon this point, it may be useful to refer to the North British record in the last few years. For 1925 the distribution was equal to 68 per cent., but in each of the following years there was an increase, and for 1929 the payment was raised to 88 per cent. If it is assumed that in due course there will be a further increase to 100 per cent.—that is, 25s. per share—the return would be only about 3⅜ per cent. at the present price, while, even if an increase to 120 per cent. could be looked for, the yield would be little more than 4 per cent.

STRENGTH OF RESERVES.

Insurance Shares have been marked up in sympathy with the rise in gilt-edged securities, which are largely held by the great companies. This appreciation in the Funds is very satisfactory, and it strengthens the hidden reserves of big financial institutions, but, until the securities are sold, the circumstance makes no difference to the profits. In this matter insurance offices, banks and investment trusts are in the same position as private investors; that is to say, they may be tempted to realise some of the profits on their holdings, but are confronted with the difficulty of replacing the stocks by others suitable, and on terms that justify the exchange.

PERUVIAN CORPORATION.

A substantial fall has taken place lately in Peruvian Corporation Ordinary and Preference Stocks, and, although there has been a recovery from the worst, the present prices of 5½ for the Ordinary and 34¾ for the Preference compare with the year's highest of 12¼ and 55⅜, respectively. The decline was due mainly to the heavy fall in the value of the Peruvian currency that followed political unsettlement. The receipts of the Corporation show a considerable decrease for the year ended June 30 last, and because of this, and the adverse movement in the exchange, it is very much doubted if it will be possible to repeat the previous maximum dividend of 5 per cent. on the Preference Stock. The current estimates are for a distribution of from 3 to 3½ per cent. Accepting the lower figure, the Preference Stock at the current price, and allowing for the year's dividend in the quotation, would give the satisfactory yield of 9¼ per cent., a return that should appeal to the speculative investor. In the event of a substantial recovery in economic conditions in the country this stock would certainly show substantial appreciation in capital value.

INDUSTRIAL SHARES.

It is satisfactory to find a better market for English Industrial Shares. There has not been much buying of late, but the heavy selling witnessed some time ago appears to be over, and consequently prices readily respond even to inquiries for shares. Manufacturing and trade companies must show comparatively poor results for some time to come, and probably we shall have further disappointments, such as the decision of Guest, Keen to postpone the question of an interim dividend and the announcement of a cut in the P. and O. distribution, while various other important undertakings have lately had to disclose poorer results. If, however, there were any evidence that the worst of the depression had been witnessed, we should probably see a fair amount of buying of Industrials with, consequently, a considerable rise in prices. Unfortunately, such evidence is lacking as yet. The prospects are that the recovery in trade will be very slow, and added to this is the possibility of a general election which would have a disturbing effect upon trade generally and, perhaps, check the hoped-for recovery.

SATISFACTORY YIELDS.

A preference share of some promise is the 7½ p.c. issue of the Grosvenor House (Park Lane) Co. Underwriters were left with a large proportion, and because of this the present price is 17s. 6d., or 2s. 6d. discount. On the figures of the last report the interest is well covered; and the future should see a steady expansion in revenue. At 17s. 6d. the indicated yield is 8$\frac{9}{16}$ per cent., and there is a prospect of some appreciation in capital when the underwriters have disposed of their holdings. The 6½ p.c. Debenture Stock of the same company is an excellent investment. The interest is covered several times over, and the present price is about 101, thus yielding practically 6½ per cent. allowing for accrued interest.

DIVIDENDS AND REPORTS.

DUNVILLE AND CO.—Net profit of Dunville and Co., distillers, etc., Belfast, for the year to 30th September, £31.177 (against £52,363); provision for income tax, £6,000 (against £9,500); to employés' superannuation fund, £500 (against £1,000). Dividend proposed of 7/- (£13,562) (against 15/-, absorbing £30,000), payable 29th November, making 12/- (6 per cent.) (against 20/-) (10 per cent.). Forward, £2.811 (against £1,864). Death recorded of Mr. H. C. Craig, Vice-Chairman since 1910. Captain C. C. Craig, Mr. W. M. Fergusson, and Mr. J. Heasley joined the Board.

BRIEH RUBBER ESTATE— Loss for past year £2,597, against a net profit of £3,250 previously. The credit amount to go forward is £205. Last year there was a 3 per cent. dividend.

BUKIT PULAI RUBBER ESTATES. — The accounts for the year to June 30 last show a loss of £932, as against a profit of £5,085. Credit of £2,675 brought in reduced to £1,743. Output was 803,926lb., of which 670,900lb. sold at 7.80d. per lb. gross.

CITY OF LONDON REAL PROPERTY.—Interim dividend at rate of 5 per cent. per annum, less tax, on Ordinary Shares, for quarter. (Same.)

CHARRINGTON GARDNER LOCKET.—Interim dividend of 5 per cent., less tax, on Ordinary Shares. (Same.)

DUFF DEVELOPMENT.—The accounts for the year to March 31 last show a loss of £743, against a profit of £16.289 for the preceding year. A credit balance of £25,580 was brought in, and, after deducting the year's loss, together with Eastern staff commission for the year 1928-29, there remains a balance of £24,729 to carry forward. There was no dividend for 1928-29. The report stated that the directors have given their constant attention to the trend of events which have culminated in the present crisis in the rubber industry, and particularly to their bearing on the company's affairs. Important reductions in expenditure have been effected, and the cost of production had been, and will be, still further reduced. The efficient, but economical, maintenance of the immature areas will be steadfastly continued, but no further extensions will be embarked upon at present. The terms of the recent settlement with the Government, as well as the funds derived from that settlement, will aid materially in carrying out this policy.

EAGLEHURST RUBBER ESTATES—Profit for year £2,281, against £2,593. Dividend repeated at 2½ per cent, leaving £5,024 to go forward.

FOREIGN RAILWAYS INVESTMENT TRUST.—The net income for the year ended October 31 last amounted to £133,381, and £8,091 was brought in. As recently announced, the directors propose to pay a final dividend on the Ordinary Stock of 2 per cent., making 5 per cent. for the year, which will leave a balance of £24.753 to carry forward. The net income for the period December 8, 1928, to October 31, 1929, was £117,758, and a dividend was paid at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum, and £10,000 was transferred to revenue reserve.

HUDSON'S BAY COMPANY.—The land sales for the quarter ended October 31 last were as follow:—Farm lands, 10,123 acres, against 69,100 acres for the corresponding period of last year, sold for £22,000, compared with £135,500. Town lots sold for £2,800, against £9,200; total receipts (gross), £58,000, compared with £129,400. Results for the nine months ended October 31—Farm lands, 47,489 acres, against 203,235 acres for the corresponding period, sold for £98,000, compared with £427,000. Town lots sold for £10,000, against £20,800. Total receipts (gross), £183,000, compared with £356,700.

HAZELL WATSON AND VINEY.—Interim dividend of 3 per cent., tax free, on Ordinary Shares. (Same.)

KEMPTON PARK RACECOURSE.—A dividend of 15/- per share, tax free, making 25 per cent., against 15 per cent.

LEBONG TEA.—Interim dividend of 10 per cent., less tax. (Same.)

MARUDU CONSOLIDATED ESTATES.—In view of the uneconomic selling price of rubber, the directors have decided to discontinue all tapping and put the estate on to a caretaking basis, with the object of conserving the cash resources of the company.

NITRATE PRODUCERS STEAMSHIP.—Interim dividend at rate of 7½ per cent. per annum, tax free. (Same.)

RAILWAY AND GENERAL INVESTMENT TRUST—Net income amounted to £24,019, against £18,006. Dividend repeated at 5 per cent. on the Ordinary stock. After writing £5,000 off stamp duty on unissued capital, there remains £1,391 to go forward, compared with £2,058.

LIVERPOOL MEAT IMPORTS.

There were only very small supplies of fresh meat landed at Liverpool last week from overseas ports. Three steamers arrived from New York and Boston with freights as follow:—The Cedric, from New York, with 267 boxes of meat; the Antonia, from New York, with 250 boxes of meat, and the Nova Scotia, from Boston, with 600 boxes of meat—making a total of 1,117 boxes of meat. Compared with the arrivals of the preceding week these figures show a decrease of 33,143 sheep and lamb carcases, 3,319 boxes of pork, 50 sides of veal, 5,942 boxes, etc., of meat, and 37,117qrs. of beef.

EXPORTS OF PORTER AND SPIRITS.

The shipments of porter, ale, etc., and plain Irish Free State spirits from the port of Dublin, together with f.o.b. value duty from available data for periods named were:—

A Reuter telegram, dated Constantinople November 8, says:—It is stated in well-informed quarters that the Angora Government, being desirous of finding a radical solution to the problem of the Ottoman Debt, without compromising the economic and financial situation of Turkey, is contemplating the redemption in suitable and reasonable conditions of all the coupons held by bondholders.

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

THE OUTLOOK.

Although the banking troubles in France have caused some temporary disturbance, creating the possibility of a resumption of gold shipments to that quarter, there is no reason to anticipate any material change in money conditions in the near future. British Government long-dated securities had gone ahead so rapidly that reaction was inevitable, but the upward movement is likely to be resumed. The trend is towards a 4 per cent. yield basis on the Funds, with the natural result that the return on other high-class investments is steadily diminishing, and the difficulty of employing capital at remunerative rates becomes still greater. This must continue until one of two things happens (writes The Sunday Times). Either the supply of suitable investments will be reinforced by new issues until the market is glutted, or a trade revival will bring to an end the long spell of cheap money. Neither of these is a contingency of the immediate future, and investors will continue to employ their funds as safely as possible while waiting for conditions to change. Caution is imposed by the unsatisfactory position in New York and the threatened inquiry into Wall Street methods. Although the Treasury has issued a disclaimer, there is good reason to believe that a moratorium for the Allied Governments' debts to America is being seriously considered. Such a plan, it is believed, would enable European countries to increase their exports to the United States and lead to the release of an appreciable proportion of gold, which at present is doing more harm than good to its American owners. This is not merely a matter of theoretical economics, but has a very real bearing on the question whether trade depression is to continue on both sides of the Atlantic, merely because of the unequal distribution of the world's gold. Similarly, the question of War Loan conversion, which is bound to dominate markets until the Treasury decides to take the plunge, is not merely one of saving a few million in the Budget. Even a partial operation, if successfully carried out, would have a stimulating effect on business, would raise the national prestige and would instil fresh hope and confidence into the city. It is worth while making a special effort to achieve such objects.

REDUCING DIRECTORATES.

An annual saving of £35,000 a year is estimated as the result of the decision of the Cables and Wireless Board to reduce the number of directors from twenty-two to fourteen, and to diminish the salaries and fees of those who are left. In comparison with the huge capital of the company, £52,541,547, the amount is small, but it is significant of the manner in which those in charge of the company are realising the need for economy (says The Observer). The total cost of the Board was £58,500 per annum. The saving now announced by the elimination of eight directors would be £12,000 per annum. Economies in fees and salaries made in connection with those gentlemen who remain in charge of the company's affairs thus amount to no less than £23,000 per annum, or just over half the amount they have been receiving.

The example thus set by Cables and Wireless, Ltd., might well be noted in other board rooms. The Home Railway groups, for instance, have very large boards of directors. Here is the position as it stands at present:—

London, Midland and Scottish, 24 directors, costing £35,000 a year.

London and North-Eastern, 26 directors, costing £24,375 a year.

Southern, 18 directors, costing £19,012 a year.

Great Western, 25 directors, costing £25,000 a year.

The announcement that the total cost of the directorates of the four groups, amounting to £103,397 per annum, had been "cut" by ten, or even twenty, per cent. would be impressive. If to it were added a further decision to deal in a similar manner, although possibly not quite so drastically, with staff salaries, costing for the four groups £1,464,956 per annum, the effect would be heightened.

SOME INDUSTRIAL BOARDS.

It is interesting in this connection to note the position of some of the large industrial companies. Imperial Chemical Industries, for instance, with its £76,481,760 of issued capital, is governed by a board of eighteen directors, whose fees, according to the last balance sheet, amounted to £57,974. The Imperial Tobacco Company, which has a capital of £50,350,561, has a board of thirty-four directors, whose fees total only £10,000. Courtaulds, Ltd., with a capital of £32,000,000, is managed by a board of eleven directors. Their fees total £25,000. Unilever, with an issued capital of £3,600,000, but with interests running into many times that figure, has a board of thirty-two directors, with total remuneration of only £3,000. The point for shareholders to watch carefully is the elimination, where possible, of purely ornamental directors whose services are not commensurate with the fees paid.

THE TIDE ON THE TURN.

A City correspondent of the Evening Standard writes:—"There are more definite signs now than at any previous period of the present year that the bottom of the commodity slump has been reached. I indicated last week that many business men were of the opinion that we had seen the worst of the recent unprecedented decline of commodity prices. The feeling is steadily growing, not only in the City, but also in the provinces—in fact, I may say in nearly every country—that the tide is on the turn. Prices of tin, copper, lead, spelter, silver, cotton, sugar and rubber are all above the lowest levels reached during the slump, some of them well above it. Wheat would have been much higher had it not been for the altogether abnormal factor of the dumping of Russian wheat on the world's markets. This must be regarded as artificial trading uncontrolled by economic laws. Latest reports from Argentina regarding the coming crop are not so favourable, and prices are now moving up. Developments in several other commodities point to a probable reduction in output next year. It is time for manufacturers, who are the first consumers of raw materials, to ask themselves whether their stocks are not dangerously low. In my opinion raw materials are about as cheap as they will be. The housewife and the man in the street are the ultimate consumers. The final word is with them. If they have been waiting for things to get cheaper they should wait no longer. The tendency of retail prices, I feel sure, will be upward after a period of stability around present levels."

SUSPECTED BLOW TO CABLES AND WIRELESS.

The Financial Times is officially informed that negotiations are proceeding between the Post Office and the American Telephone and Telegraph Company with regard to the laying of a new trans-Atlantic cable. The negotiations include the discussion of some method of sharing expenses between the Post Office and the company. It was emphasised to a representative of The Financial Times, who inquired at the General Post Office, that the matter was as yet only in the negotiation stage and that no arrangement had been definitely concluded. It was impossible at the moment, it was added, to state anything beyond the fact that negotiations are proceeding. Inquiry at the London office of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company also elicited the information that negotiations are in progress, but that so far no contract has been signed for the construction of the cable. It is hoped to make an official announcement regarding the contract for the cable in about a fortnight's time. The new cable, it is understood, will include channels for telegraphy in addition to those for telephony. It is intended to lease the telegraphy channels to telegraph companies.

SOUTH AFRICAN STEEL CONTRACTS.

The depression in the iron and steel industry on Teeside should be materially lessened by £1,800,000 orders in connection with the construction of steelworks, to cost £3,000,000, to be opened by the South African Iron and Steel Corporation, Ltd., at Pretoria. Messrs. Dorman, Long and Company, of Middlesbrough, have secured a contract worth £1,500,000 for a steelwork; and Ashmore, Benson, and Pease and Company, of Stockton, have a £300,000 contract for blast furnace plant.

GOLD FROM SPAIN.

A million pounds' worth of gold, mostly coin, was landed at Southampton from the R.M.S.P. liner Asturias. The gold, in 149 cases, was brought from Vigo, and immediately the liner docked police officers boarded the vessel to superintend its removal. A similar amount of gold was exported from Spain to London in the previous week.

LONDON MONEY MARKET.

GOLD WITHDRAWAL FOR FRANCE.

The usual week-end conditions prevailed in Lombard street on Saturday, credit being in ample supply, and borrowers were able to obtain advances until Monday at 1½ down to 1¼ per cent. Old day-to-day money was renewed at 1½ per cent. and weekly loans went on at 2 per cent.

There was not much doing in bills, and rates kept firm on the gold position and on the Treasury bill results. Most houses quoted 2$\frac{3}{16}$ per cent. for fine three months bank bills, but business was reported at a shade under that figure. The "Hot" Treasuries were offered at 2¼ per cent.

The bank on Saturday reported the sale of £403,880 in bar gold to France and £17,000 in sovereigns was exported.

In the absence of business, silver eased $\frac{1}{16}$d. to 16$\frac{7}{16}$d. per oz. for spot and 16⅜d. for forward delivery. Gold remained at 85s. 0½d.

Ltd., was presented on November 5 by the company. The petition is to be heard at the Law Courts, Strand, on November 17. As reported on October 28, a resolution for voluntary liquidation was carried at a meeting on the previous day with three dissentients, whereupon a poll was demanded and taken, but before the figures were available the chairman announced that as the shares of Mr. Julius Turner (the promoter of the company) had been used against the resolution it was impossible to carry it by the requisite majority. The directors would, therefore, at once file a petition for the compulsory winding-up of the company.

LORANG TRIAL THIS WEEK.

The calendar for the November session of the Old Bailey, which opens on Tuesday, is a light one. There are only 64 persons for trial. The principal case is that of Francis Lorang (whose trial was postponed from the last two sessions) on charges connected with the Blue Bird Petrol companies.

POLISH MATCHES.

It is understood that the Polish Government is conducting final negotiations with the Swedish Match Company for prolongation of the monopoly rights in Poland for a further 25 years. It is understood that the match company will grant a loan of £7,000,000 to the Polish Government. The present agreement is valid for another five years. It is learned that the negotiations are expected very shortly to be terminated successfully.

BIG FALL IN SHIPPING FREIGHTS.

A decline of 9.93 per cent. in the general level of British shipping freights occurred in October, according to the Chamber of Shipping Index Number, just published by The Statist. Last month's index at 18.23 compares with 20.24 for September, and 22.86 for October, 1929. Freights were available in October on only 11 out of the 21 routes included in these calculations, and rose in three groups and fell in eight groups from previous quotations. The dominant influence in the substantial fall in freights last month were the decreases of 31.87 per cent. and 22.73 per cent. in the United States and Canada to United Kingdom routes respectively. If the average for 1913 is taken as 100, the index number for October, 1930, is 77.91.

FILM COMPANY'S FAILURE.

The statutory first meeting of the creditors and shareholders of Carlton Films (1929), Ltd., Shaftesbury Avenue, W.C., were held at the Board of Trade Offices, Carey street, W.C. Mr. W. P. Naunton, Official Receiver, reported that the company was incorporated in July, 1929. Mr. G. G. Glavany, the managing director, had stated that in February, 1929, he entered into a contract with an English firm to produce the silent film, "Downstream." The film was produced in July, 1929, at a cost of £6,000; it was passed by the Board of Film Censors, but the Board of Trade refused to grant it a British quota certificate, and the English firm of contractors refused to take delivery of the film. The Official Receiver was informed that, as a foreign film, it was of little realisable value, and since the introduction of the talking films the sale value had further depreciated. In the opinion of the Official Receiver the company had at no time any substance, and had been insolvent from the date of incorporation. The liquidation was left in the hands of the Official Receiver.

MANCHESTER MARKETS REVIEW.

BUYERS HOLDING OFF.

From Our Commercial Correspondent.

So far as the provision trade is concerned, business throughout the week has been on the quiet side. As is usual at this time of the year, there is a lull in trade, buyers holding off and showing no disposition to commit themselves to any great extent until a more settled state of affairs prevails. In common with other commodities, the position of bacon is somewhat difficult to gauge. At the weekly meeting of the Bacon Committee no official change was recorded in Continental cures, but lean selections of Irish were advanced about 4s. Something in the nature of a slump has taken place in butter, the Danish official quotation being wired 16 kroner lower at 230 kroner per 100 kilos; at corresponding period of last year the figure was 316 kroner; and in 1928 330 kroner. The butter market at present is one of decided contrasts because of the wide variation in quotations of the different descriptions. At the moment Danish butter is exceptionally dear, this being attributable to the higher duty to be imposed on butter imported into Germany. In anticipation of this, rather larger quantities of Danish butter have been diverted to Germany; also the demand recently from that country and Continental sources has been very active, but the higher prices lately established have since checked the inquiry. All descriptions of Continental butter have been at a very high level, but prices have since had an easier tendency. It is reported that fair quantities of New Zealand, Australian and Argentine butter have been sold from this market to Germany and other Continental countries, as also Siberia, Latvian, Estonian and Lithuanian descriptions, and in view of the advanced quotations for all Baltic Province butters for shipment on f.o.b. terms this is not to be wondered at. At present London values are greatly below those now quoted for prompt shipment from Continental countries. The English Northern markets have always been favourably disposed to Danish butter, but it is surprising that operators recently paid such extreme rates for the Danish product while Colonial is obtainable at considerably lower prices. A revival in the demand for Colonial butter is possible at any moment, and it behoves retailers to push the sale for all it is worth. Empire goods are well to the fore in this country at present, and, with Colonial butter the cheapest and best value on the market, the sale should undergo considerable expansion. Rather more English new laid eggs are now available, and, notwithstanding the higher prices ruling, demand is satisfactory. According to reports from Denmark, the season in that country is drawing to a close, and choicest new-laid eggs are getting scarce and dearer. It is interesting to note that large quantities of pickled eggs are being shipped from that country, and these will affect the market to a certain extent. The quality of the Australian and South African eggs now being retailed is excellent, and values are very reasonable.

At Salford Cattle Market on Tuesday, although fat cattle were in increased supply, the market showed a firmer tendency; trade for sheep and lambs, however, ruled quiet. At the Manchester Pig Market, taking into consideration the advanced season, business is decidedly disappointing. Small pigs have only met with a moderate request, and lean baconers have also been in low demand. There is no question, however, that fat and heavy pigs are practically unsaleable in this centre at the present time. At the Manchester Dead Meat Market there was again a quiet feeling during the early part of the week, but there was a rather stronger feeling towards the close, notwithstanding the fact that prevailing weather conditions were inclined to be warmer.

Taken on the whole, there was little change to report in dead poultry, with the exception of Irish turkeys, which were dearer at 10d. to 1s. 2d. per lb. Arrivals of game are somewhat irregular, but there is little alteration in prices as compared with last week.

TROPICAL PRODUCE MARKET STEADY.

PRICES WELL MAINTAINED.

From Our Commercial Correspondent.

LIVERPOOL, Saturday.

Markets have been fairly steady in most sections, with prices well maintained. Palm oil was somewhat reactionary, but towards the end of the week became more settled, and values hardened, especially distant positions. Softs on the spot made £23 against £22 10s. a week ago, while November-December arrival has changed hands at £22 12s. 6d. For medium oils afloat the ruling rate has been £22 5s. Hards have remained steady, with values showing a firmer tendency. Home consumers have shown fair interest in the market, but the Northern Continent has been the chief buyers.

Palm kernels have moved largely in buyers' favour, but the tendency is a hardening one at the close. November-December material has changed at £11 10s., with December-January at £11 11s. 3d., and January-February at £11 15s. Hamburg has paid £11 10s. for November-December and £11 12s. 6d. for December-January position, and both held good at the close. Hull consumers have shown interest in near-at-hand material, for which ruling rates have been paid.

Copra has been a steady market, with trade somewhat light owing to Eastern shippers continuing to show reserves. F.M.S. Straits were done to Rotterdam, December-January position, at £16. Marseilles kept steady, and mixed Dutch East Indies was noted at £15 10s.

Ground nuts have been a slow market and the trend of values lower. Compared with a week ago, Coromandel machined November-December has been done at 7s. 6d. per ton less money, the ruling rate being £12 2s. 6d. January-February material offers at £12 per ton, while February-March commands £12 1s. 3d.

Cottonseeds have held steadily, and Brazilian f.a.q. forward shipments January-March position continue at £5 per ton ex ship terms. Cottonseed oils steady and 3d. dearer at 27s. 9d. for common edible and 29s. 9d. deodorised net naked ex mills Liverpool. Linseed quieter, raw at 31s. 3d.—a drop of 9d.—and boiled 33s. 3d. per cwt. on spot in barrels.

FOOD AND PRODUCE MARKETS.

Norwich—Store Cattle slow and dear. Carlisle—Irish Stores quiet at late rates. Doncaster—Cattle steady. Rubber quiet. Wheat easier.

CATTLE.

NORWICH.—Business was again slow for beef, which was in average supply, and 43/- to 49/- per cwt. live weight was realised. Store cattle were in plentiful supply and ruled slow and dear, making from £12 to £24 10/- a head. Calves were in fair supply at unchanged prices. A larger supply of sheep ruled slow, with quotations tending easier. Best made up to 1/3, while others ranged from 1/- to 1/1 per lb. A good entry of pigs penned on Saturday, with trade the same as last week. Cutters and Londoners changed hands from 12/- to 14/-, and baconers from 10/- to 11/- per stone. Fat sows were in short supply from £7 to £14 10/-. Stores sold from 30/- to 86/-. At market—Cattle 3,894, sheep 1,000, and pigs 927.

DONCASTER.—Best three-year bullocks £23, two years £17 to £18 10/-, stirks £14 to £16, best newly-calved cows £35, calving heifers up to £25, old cows £18. Good supply of pigs; suckers 15/- to 31/-, strong pigs up to 60/-.

CARLISLE.—The supply of Irish store cattle on the Sands on Saturday was rather smaller than last week, as business is always quieter at Martinmas when firm hands terminate their engagements. Over 400 head of cattle were on offer, but buyers were few, as many farmers were engaged at the hirings. Business was quiet at late rates—viz., horned cattle, two-year-old heifers £14 10/- to £16 10/-, heifers for short keep £17 10/- to £20/-, polled heifers £16 10/- to £18 10/-, polled bullocks £16 to £21.

MISCELLANEOUS.

LEICESTER WOOL.—Business has again been good on old hosiery contracts this week, but the immediate rush for goods is slackening off, and new orders are not so plentiful. At the same time, the yarn trade has benefited considerably by the better business in hosiery. The same cannot be said about wool, the English clip being slow to move at about late rates. Probably for the time the bottom has been reached in quotations.

HIDES AND LEATHER.

(SPECIAL REPORT.)

Conditions were rather easier at the Bermondsey hide auctions this week, the bidding being less brisk. First clear ox were ½d. lower to unchanged, 80/89 lb. seconds were also ½d. lower to unchanged, 80/89 lb. 6½d.; first clear cows were ½d. to ¼d. down, first warbled ox were withdrawn, and second warbled ox were ½d. lower to unchanged, 80/89 lb. 5¼d. First warbled cows declined ¼d. to ½d., with 60 lb. up sold at 4½d., bulls were ½d. down. First calf were unchanged to ½d. lower, 9/16 lb. 10½d. D second calf declined ½d. to ¾d., and kips lost ½d. Trading in foreign hides remained restricted, with business in small lots at slightly easier rates. B. A. Americanos sold at 7½d., Sierra Cordobas at 8½d., and dry first Capes at 6¾d. There was no definite improvement in the demand for sole leather, and although a trifle more was done in repairing bends, the call for those suitable for manufacturing purposes remained dull. Ample supplies of offal sold slowly at low prices. The rough leather section was quiet, but tanned splits were firm through scarcity. Upper leathers were in quiet demand, and, apart from a steady business in willow calf and box sides, trade was disappointingly slow.

IRISH FAIR.

BALLINA (CO. MAYO).—November 7. Average-sized cattle fair, the approximate numbers on offer being: Store cattle, 710; fat cattle, 80; springers and milch cows, 70; calves, 25. Some 80 lambs and 50 fat sheep were also offered. The cattle fair was composed chiefly of first and second class polled Aberdeen-Angus stock, with some lots of shorthorns. Average attendance of buyers, and all classes of young store cattle met a brisk trade at higher values. Fat cattle were in moderate request at about late rates. Springers and milch cows realised high figures, and the majority were cleared. Fat sheep and lambs met a steady inquiry at values tending higher. Calves under 6 months, £3 to £4 5/-. Store cattle, 6 to 12 months, £8 to £11; 1 to 2 years, £14 to £15 10/-; 2 to 3 years, £16 to £18. Fat cattle, 3 years and over, £18 10/- to £21. Springers (cows and heifers), £20 to £26. Milch cows (down calved), £18 to £23. Lambs (under 12 months), long wools, 35/- to 45/-. Fat sheep, 1 to 2 years, long wools, 45/- to 60/-.

THE EUCHARISTIC CONGRESS.

NATIONAL COLLECTION ON NOVEMBER 30TH.

The national collection which has been ordered by the Roman Catholic Hierachy to be taken up in every church and public school in Ireland on the first Sunday of Advent is expected to contribute a large portion of the amount required to meet the expenses of the great International Eucharistic Congress which is to be held in Dublin in 1932. The first Sunday of Advent falls this year on November 30. It is the Committee's intention to publish the results of the collection.

A final reminder to the people will be given by advertisement in all the provincial and metropolitan newspapers, published at the end of November.

The collection is being organised by the Eucharistic Congress League, specially formed by the Hierarchy to find the money to finance the Congress. The Council of the League is composed of priests nominated by the bishops. Every diocese in Ireland is represented on it. The collection on the first Sunday of Advent will, therefore, be a great national effort, and its result will reflect the strength of the country's enthusiasm for the Congress.

In the Archdiocese of Tuam the collection will be held early in the new year.

NEW YORK'S DELEGATION.

The Right Rev. John J. Dunn, Vicar-General of New York and auxiliary to His Eminence Cardinal Hayes, has been appointed chairman of a committee of the priests of the archdiocese who are organising a delegation for the Eucharistic Congress in Dublin in 1932.

The committee, of which the Very Rev. Monsignor Thomas G. Carroll, Chancellor, is secretary, has sent a request to all the parish priests of the archdiocese to find out how many of their parishioners intend to come to Dublin, so that the necessary arrangements for travel and accommodation can be made. It is the committee's aim to charter a special steamer for the New York delegation.

The Right Rev. James O'Byrne, Bishop of Toowoomba, Queensland, writing to a friend in Dublin, says:—"If God spares me, I intend going to the Congress in '32. . . . I really do not know how you are going to feed the multitude; 500,000 will consume a good many legs of mutton. However, Ireland at one time fed 8,000,000 people. The Congress will be the most historical event in the long history of the country, and I have no doubt that the Irish people will rise to the occasion, and live up to the traditions of the race by the evidence they will give of their ardent faith and the courtesy and hospitality they will dispense to the visitors from the four quarters of the globe."

VOLUNTEER RESERVE.

DINNER AT GRESHAM HOTEL.

On Saturday evening the newly-commissioned officers of the 1st (City of Dublin) Battalion of the Volunteer Reserve entertained the officers of the Training Staff and of the Dublin District to dinner in the Gresham Hotel.

In addition to the new officers and members of the Cadet Company, there were present:—Alderman Dr. Myles Keogh, representing the Lord Mayor; Colonel Hogan and Major Archer, G.H.Q.; Commandant O'Donoghue, Captain McGrath, Captain Magee, and other members of the Training Staff. Lieutenant P. J. Carvin presided.

The toast "Eire" having been honoured, Lieutenant A. Heron proposed the toast "Our Training Officers." In offering the toast, Lieutenant Heron paid tribute to the patience and efficiency of every officer with whom the members of the Cadet Company came into contact. There was at least one thing that was efficient in their midst, said Lieutenant Heron, and that was the training section of the National Army.

Commandant O'Donoghue, Officer in Charge of the Training School, in responding to the toast, said that he was never so proud of anything with which he had been connected as of the new officers of the Volunteer Reserve. They had entered upon their work with a spirit that made it a pleasure to be connected with them, and his only regret was that some comrades had to be left behind.

The toast "Our Other Guests" was proposed by Lieutenant Buckmaster, who especially mentioned the interest taken by the Lord Mayor in the function. While the absence of the Lord Mayor was unavoidable, the presence of Dr. Myles Keogh as his deputy was very acceptable.

Responding to the toast, Alderman Dr. Myles Keogh, T.D., said:—"On behalf of the Lord Mayor, I thank Lieutenant Buckmaster for the kind terms in which he referred to myself and the other guests. I speak for the Lord Mayor as well as myself when I say that it is a pleasure—in fact, I regard it more of a duty—to give support to organisations which have for their aim the inculcation of sound principles of citizenship and constitutional national aspirations. The calibre of the young manhood—representative, I believe, of practically every county in Ireland—I see around me to-night augurs well for the future, and demonstrates to me that the rising generation is fully sensible of their responsibilities in building up a State which we all hope will worthily take its place among the nations of the world."

The toast was also responded to by Colonel Hogan and Major Archer.

A musical programme was contributed by Colonel Hogan, Captain McGrath, Lieutenants Cassidy, O'Farrell and Heron, with Messrs. Eoin O'Mahony and R. Loughrey. The function concluded with "The Soldier's Song."

Afterwards the officers and their guests enjoyed the dancing in the Aberdeen Hall.

IRISH AUTHOR OF 91.

CONGRATULATIONS FOR MR. R. ASHE KING.

Hundreds of letters, telegrams, and flowers were received by Mr. Richard Ashe King, the author and journalist, President of the Irish Literary Society in London, who celebrated his ninety-first birthday on Saturday.

Mr. King is spending his birthday quietly with his wife at his home in Warwick avenue, Maida Hill, London.

Mr. King was born in County Clare, and was Vicar of St. Mark's, Low Moor, Bradford, before he went to London, 60 years ago. Under the nom-de-plume of "Basil" he wrote a number of books, including a novel, "The Wearing of the Green."

Under his own name he wrote "Swift in Ireland" and "Life of Oliver Goldsmith." He was a staff extension lecturer of Oxford University on English literature.

Some years ago he was knocked down by a motor car and received injury to his eyes. Until then he cycled to Hampstead every morning before breakfast.

DEAN'S GRANGE BURIAL BOARD.

The annual statutory meeting of the Dean's Grange Burial Board was held on Saturday at Dean's Grange. The Board is newly constituted, and consists now of ten members of the Dun Laoghaire Borough Council and four representatives of the Dublin County Council. There were eleven members present at the first meeting—viz., Messrs. T. F. Downey, J. P. Dooge, J. P. McCabe, P. Mulvany, F. M. Bently, G. Dixon, M. P. O'Donnell, P. White, J. C. Warner, J. J. Clare and E. C. Smyth.

Mr. Downey presided at the opening of the proceedings, the business being the election of a chairman.

Mr. Bently proposed that Mr. McCabe be elected to the chairmanship of the Board.

Mr. Dooge seconded, and the motion, which was supported by Messrs. White and Smyth, was carried unanimously.

Mr. McCabe, having taken the chair, in returning thanks, said that he hoped the unseemly scenes which had occurred in the past at the Board's meetings would never happen again.

On the motion of Mr. Bently, seconded by Mr. Smyth, Mr. Downey was unanimously elected vice-chairman.

No other business was transacted.

THE CHURCH OF IRELAND.

The Board of Nomination for the Parish of St. Matthew, Irishtown, met on last Friday at the Diocesan Offices, 43 Kildare street, Dublin, and adjourned until Monday, 17th November.

ORCHESTRAL CONCERT.

FAMOUS CONTINENTAL PIANIST IN BELFAST.

The first of a series of orchestral concerts arranged by the Belfast Y.M.C.A., in co-operation with the British Broadcasting Corporation, was held in the Wellington Hall on Saturday night, in the presence of a large and enthusiastic audience.

The orchestra, which was under the direction of Mr. E. Godfrey Brown, opened the programme with a superb rendering of the overture to "Tannhauser" (Wagner). The soft beauty of the Pilgrims' Chorus theme made a strong appeal, and the magnificent climax towards the end, when the chorus is once more heard, conveyed through the noble tone of the trombones, and accompanied by brilliant figures for the violins, was very thrilling. The Ballet Suite, Op. 8, by W. Pogojeff, was of lighter material, but graceful in melody and rich in orchestration, and the various movements were well contrasted. There was charm in the three movements from Tschaikowsky's "Casse Noisette" (Nut-Cracker), and the playing of Mendelssohn's "Spring Song" and "Bees' Wedding," together with a selection from "The Yeomen of the Guard" (Sullivan), was much enjoyed. An additional number, "The March of the Dwarfs," from Greig's "Lyric Suite," with its quaint humour, was delightfully rendered and was cordially applauded.

The principal number was Beethoven's Concerto No. 4 in G Major, Op. 58, for pianoforte and orchestra. Miss Johanne Stockmarr, the well-known pianist from Denmark, played the solo part. She has remarkably fine technique, displaying a thorough command of the keyboard, and the florid passages and flashing clusters of ascending and descending notes were expressed with brilliance, while there was extreme delicacy in the softer periods. The pianoforte music flowed along like a sparkling silver stream, supported by an orchestral part distinguished for its fine texture and varied colour. Even although the ensemble was a little ragged occasionally, the performance was a notable one, and the solo artist and orchestra got an ovation. Miss Stockmarr also played pianoforte solos, and had to respond to a well-merited encore.

The vocalist was Miss May Campbell, a somewhat light-toned soprano, with a beautiful quality of voice. She gave much pleasure by her refined rendering of "O come my heart's delight" from "Figaro" (Mozart) and an aria, "O, yes, 'tis so," from "Phœbe and Pan," by Bach. Both had orchestral accompaniment, and sometimes the voice was overshadowed. She also sang a group of songs with pianoforte accompaniment, and was again successful, having to respond to a clamant recall.

CIVILISATION AND THE JEW.

LECTURE IN DUBLIN.

At the opening meeting of the third session of the Lev-Zion (affiliated association of the Young Zionist Societies, Britain, Northern Ireland and the Free State), held in the Greenville Hall, Dolphin's Barn, Dublin, last night, an interesting address on the "Jewish Contribution to Civilisation" was delivered by Mr. Edward M. Isaacson, Dr. Bethel Solomons presided.

THE. ADDRESS.

In the course of his address Mr. Isaacson said that the Jewish mind was the product of an age-long process of careful development, stimulated by ceaseless conflicts and steeled and tempered by the fires of persecution and by the cruelty of injustice and repression. Not alone, he said, did the Jews, through the medium of the Bible, give to civilisation its foundation, but, by their very presence and existence, present to the whole world the stabilising influence and most vital force that civilisation possessed—religion; for the Jews in themselves were the embodiment of the spiritual force by which the human race had manifested its impulse to protect itself. It was to the Jew that mankind owed one of the prime forces which had produced civilisation out of savagery.

In Germany the Jewish share in the development of national literature had been more extensive than in any other country, and their efforts had enhanced the reputation of what has proved to be a forgetful and ungrateful country.

The Bible, beyond doubt, had played an immortal part, and had been one of the greatest and most powerful factors in the fashioning of civilisation. (Applause.)

THE VOTE OF THANKS.

Proposing a vote of thanks to Mr. Isaacson for his address, Mr. Albert Wood, K.C., said that, notwithstanding the past of the Jew, his present represented, not only a great struggle, but a great capacity for endurance. Wherever, said Mr. Wood, amidst applause, the Jew has been persecuted, it has not been in Ireland.

Having referred to the growing achievements of the Jews in the different spheres of industrial and financial activities, he said that it seemed to him the mentality of the Jews was that no matter what the struggle of the past, they stood as a race to perpetuate their ideals, and that they did not live for revenge, but for the amelioration of all. (Applause.)

Seconding, Professor W. J. E. Jessop, M.B., M.Sc., congratulated Mr. Isaacson on his interesting and instructive address. He thought however, that Mr. Isaacson had not given full credit to the foreign countries who had given the great modern Jews their education. He thought that their Chairman would acknowledge his gratitude for his success to the world-famed Dublin School of Medicine, of which he had become such an ornament. (Applause.)

On the motion of Mr. M. Noyk, solicitor, seconded by Mr. R. Briscoe, T.D., a motion that the Lev-Zion was worthy of support was passed.

On the motion of Mr. H. Good, solicitor, seconded by Mr. S. Cridon, a hearty vote of thanks was passed to Dr. Bethel Solomons, F.R.C.S., who presided.

The following awards by the Society were made:—

Oratory—Miss A. Watchman.
General effciency—Miss A. Weissberg.
Proficiency—Miss R. Watchman.

MISS LAWRENCE SHOUTED DOWN.

UPROARIOUS SCENES AT MEETING.

Rowdy scenes were witnessed at Poplar Town Hall last night when Miss Susan Lawrence, Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Health, was shouted down time after time while addressing a meeting arranged by the local Labour Party.

Miss Lawrence spoke on the question of the administration of the poor law, and said: "One of the things I have been trying to do is to get real training for men who are on the poor law." As Miss Lawrence said this there were loud shouts from all parts of the hall, one interrupter saying: "I know of cases where miners have come to Poplar and have taken jobs away from local men."

Miss Lawrence replied that the transference of miners had ceased many months ago. A statement by Miss Lawrence that there were some "who drink plenty and neglect their children" created pandemonium. There were shouts of "Good old Tory," and there were more interruptions when Miss Lawrence said that the Ministry of Health had limited powers under the law.

Later there was renewed uproar, and many of her audience began to sing, "Tell me the old, old story." When order was restored Miss Lawrence spoke of the difficulties of dealing with local authorities, who thought that the Labour Government would be going out in three months. "I do not think we shall go out in three months," she declared.

BAN ON "FOREIGN" GAMES.

GALWAY COUNTY COUNCIL'S ACTION.

By sixteen votes to seven, Galway County Council last Saturday rejected a motion by Mr. Martin Finnerty seeking to rescind a resolution recently passed deciding "that their education scholarships be not tenable in university, college, or school where Rugby or Association Football, Cricket or Hockey are played," and to substitute a resolution—"That the scholarships be tenable, provided only that hurling or Gaelic football and camogie are played."

Mr. Finnerty, moving his motion, considered it more practical than the original

one. It gave them a way out of an impasse. They had to take into consideration the position of students who might be debarred from getting scholarships through the former resolution.

Mr. Kelly seconded.

Mr. Finnerty asked permission to add in addendum:—"That the business at the Council's meetings be transacted in Irish"; but Mr. Kenny said that he should first withdraw his original motion, or he would be sadly inconsistent.

The Chairman (Mr. Corbett) remarked that that was not on the agenda, and Mr. Finnerty replied that he would give notice of motion.

The rest of the discussion was carried out in Irish, and when the result of the division was announced Mr. Finnerty said that he would give notice of motion to have the business at future meetings conducted in Irish.

The Council accepted the resignation of its Secretary, Mr. P. Crowe, owing to ill-health, and decided to fill the vacancy by promotion, the official to be appointed to be proficient in Irish. Three examiners were appointed to carry out the test.

The first Colonial Eucharistic Congress will be held in the Island of Rhodes next September, and will be followed by a pilgrimage to Palestine.—(Reuter.)

GAELIC GAMES.

ARMY'S SMART HURLING.

O'CONNELL SCORES SIX GOALS.

YOUNG IRELANDS IN THE FINAL.

(BY PAT'O.)

ARMY .... 8-6 GARDA 2-2

The closing stages of the Dublin Senior Hurling League saw the Army and Guards meet at Croke Park yesterday. Whilst Guards had won all their games to date, Army Metro were 4 points down. Yet it was known that inter-command games had recently brought them to physical fitness, whilst boxing tournaments had aided such men as O'Connell (the hero of yesterday's game) and Daniels. Meanwhile Guards had little serious competition and no rigid training since beaten by Faughs in the championship final. Yesterday, too, they were without the services of Burke, their regular goalkeeper, O'Rourke and Burnell.

After the first quarter the Army had a sound lead, and never were seriously challenged. Their speed throughout was their most taking characteristic, and Guards were slow and inaccurate by comparison. From the breakaway Brown placed Quinlan, who pointed for Guards in the first minute, but a drive of Hedderington's shortly after reached O'Connell, who shot at once from close range and netted, giving Army the lead. Pressing hotly, Murphy, Leeson and Daniels kept M'Enerney and O'Keeffe busy. Tumpane crossed to O'Connell on the mark, and a neat double brought Army's second score, which Kelly augmented with a point in quick time. A raid by Garda, opened by Finn, was well used by T. Burke, and a low drive narrowed the gap. Hegarty was very effective on the Army's right wing, and his point from the touch line fifty yards out was a fine effort. Combining well and moving freely, Army forged ahead, with O'Connell's opportunism again in evidence. He was well fed by Hedderington, Tumpane, Hegarty and Mockler, and never made a mistake, finding the net three more times before the half-way, and Leeson's point set Guards further in arrear. At half-time Army Metro led by 5 goals 3 points to 1 goal 1 point.

The change of sides and the assistance of the wind were of little assitance to the untrained Guards. They missed good chances, and when they attacked found Higgins, Mockler and Murphy steady and reliable. A flying ball from midfield by Daniels for a minor was the next feature. Matt Power had been well held by Mockler, but the ex-Kilkenny man now burst away on the left and crashed a good ball in for Guards second goal. The recovery was temporary, for Army were soon pressing vigorous attacks home, finishing with as much fire as they begun. Tumpane goaled before he retired injured, and Leeson had a point. In the unequal game Finn had a lone point for Guards, but in return O'Connell created something of a record in finding Guards goal twice in the last ten minutes—a drop shot of great speed made his sixth goal in the hour—a remarkable achievement for an outside left.

ONE-SIDED SEMI-FINAL.

YOUNG IRELAND 11-4 EOGHAN RHUAS 1-0

This semi-final of the Junior Hurling Championship was a one-sided affair. On the heavy pitch Rhuas were altogether too light and youthful for their sturdy opponents. Donoghue got the only goal for Rhuas, whilst Young Irelands ran out goal after goal in wearying succession. Bergin (2), Plower (1), McEnerney (5), Hannan (2), Byrne (1) had goals, and the brothers Kavanagh led up to the points. O'Hara and Curley in Eoghan Rhuas back line worked hard, but were overwhelmed. The winners meet Young Ireland Assurance Co. in the final.

SATURDAY LEAGUE RESULT.

U.C.D., 5-1 (16); N. Ireland Assurance, 4-3 (15).

DUBLIN AND MEATH—REPLAY NATIONAL LEAGUE.

Much interest is centred in this game, which will be played at Croke Park on Sunday next. Both sides will be considerably strengthened in attack, and the final scores close. Dublin's advantage in the home pitch may enable them to win their group and qualify to meet Clare.

TIPPERARY HURLERS WIN.

TIPPERARY .... 4-3 LIMERICK 3-2

At Limerick yesterday, Tipperary's team of junior hurlers had a comfortable victory over Limerick, who were also below full strength. It was in the second half that the visitors got the better of their opponents; for at half-time Limerick held the good lead of 2 goals, 2 points to 2 points. Sean Mackey and his brother, A. Mackey, with O'Shaughnessy, were responsible for Limerick's score, while Furlong and Harrington got the Tipperary scores. In less than ten minutes after the resumption P. Furlong put on a goal for Tipperary, and this was quickly followed with a point by Wade; then Harty goaled, and another was obtained by Browne. Shaughnessy replied with a goal for Limerick, who finished strongly, and Mackey had the green flag again raised.

DRAW AT CARLOW.

KILKENNY .... 1-1 CARLOW 1-1

At the Nowlan Memorial Park, Kilkenny, yesterday, Carlow and Kilkenny played a drawn game in the final of Division II. of the National Football League, the final scores being 1 goal and 1 point each. Carlow declined to play extra time, and consequently the match will have to be replayed.

LOUTH AND MEATH DRAW.

The meeting of Louth and Meath at Ardee yesterday, when the new grounds were formally opened, attracted a large gathering. A strong westerly wind had the effect of spoiling the play to a large extent, and as a result it was more or less confined in the one direction. The ground was soft, and the conditions otherwise were favourable. The game was rather disappointing. Meath, having the advantage of the wind, kept play round the Louth goal territory, and at half-time they were leading by 2 goals, 4 points to a goal. On resuming Louth got going, and had the better of the play. The issue was doubtful till the closing minutes, when Louth, after an exciting tussle, drew level. The final scores were—Louth 15 points, Meath 15 points.

WATERFORD'S SUPERIORITY.

WATERFORD 3-6, TIPPERARY 1-2.

Waterford displayed an all-round superiority in their National League football tie against Tipperary at Clonmel yesterday, when they gained the points on the score 3 goals 6 points to 1 goal 2 points. During the first half, against a fairly strong wind, Tipperary were principally engaged in defending. In the first minute Waterford were a goal up when, from a high kick by Mahony, the wind carried the ball to the goalmouth, and the Tipperary custodian misjudged its flight, and it entered the net. Waterford had all the better of the half, and at the interval led by 2 goals 5 points to nil. Tipperary did better in the second half, but the Waterford defence was very sound.

The scorers for Waterford were Mahoney, Mulcahy, O'Donnell, and Furlong, and for Tipperary Arrigan and Lee.

CHAPELIZOD TOURNAMENT.

KICKHAMS 2-3, ROUND TOWERS 1-4.

Yesterday at Chapelizod Kickhams defeated Round Towers by 2 points (9 to 7) in the local Gold Medal Tournament. It was a good game, but a strong cross wind made it difficult for the players to control the ball. Kickhams were fully extended to secure the points. They, especially in the opening half, combined better, and by keeping the ball low counteracted, to a certain extent, the disadvantage which the breeze they were facing had on their quest for scores. Towers rearranged their side in the second half, and did better, the result being in doubt to the end.

ST. LAWRENCE 0-5, ERIN'S ISLE 0-1.

This game, also in the Chapelizod Gold Medal Tournament, was a poor exhibition, due to the fact that Erin's Isle travelled a very weak team. The substitutes which they were forced to call upon were easy prey for the Howth team, who could have scored a greater margin of points.

MONAGHAN OUTCLASSED.

ARMAGH .... 4-5 MONAGHAN 0-1

Monaghan had only three of their regular county players in the team that met Armagh at Monaghan yesterday in the National League, and the home county was completely outclassed, being defeated by 17 points to 1. McCusker opened the score with a point. McAvinchey some minutes later placed the ball in the net. Two more points followed in quick succession, and before half-time Armagh had another minor, while Monaghan only placed one point to their credit.

In the second half Hoolihan had not a shot to stop, while Bradley was kept busy all the time. Some fine hand passing and neat foot work was witnessed on the part of the Armagh players, while the Monaghan men lacked judgment. Harney put on three more goals for Armagh.

ULSTER COLLEGES' COMPETITION.

At Breffni Park, Cavan, on Saturday, St. Patrick's, Cavan, beat St. Colman's, Newry, by 6 goals 2 points to 1 goal 3 points.

HOCKEY.

CLOSE LEAGUE CONTESTS.

WANDERERS HOLD RAILWAY UNION.

CLONTARF'S GOOD BID AT NAAS.

All the matches played in the Senior League on Saturday resulted in close contests, Dublin University's 3-1 victory over Wicklow being the biggest margin. Monkstown, Naas and National Bank only secured their successes by a single goal, while Pembroke aWnderers drew with Railway Union. The positions of the three leading clubs in the Senior League are:—

	P.	W.	L.	D.	F.	A.	Pts.
Naas	4	4	0	0	16	2	8
Dublin University	4	3	0	1	11	4	7
Railway Union	4	2	0	2	17	8	6

RAILWAY'S WEAKNESS.

DEFENCE AGAIN AT FAULT AGAINST WANDERERS.

PEMBROKE W. ..... 2 RAILWAY U. 2

The Wanderers administered another setback to Railway's chances of League honours this season, and, on the whole, Railway was fortunate to secure a point, as their defence is by no means showing the steadiness of past seasons. Monkstown, Rovers, Grammar School and Wanderers were able to find weaknesses in it, and it cannot be said that their attack is quite up to standard at the moment.

In the first half of their game at Serpentine avenue on Saturday, Wanderers should have held the lead, but they failed to accept at least a couple of simple chances, on each occasion Fahy being at fault. Against the run of play, Railway secured the only point of the opening period, a penalty corner for "sticks" against Hertis giving N. Sully the opportunity to score with a great drive. Pembroke put in a sustained attack early in the closing period, but without result, and Browner got away to cross to O'Malley, whose shot, striking the inside of the post, beat McNeill, glancing to the other corner of the net. Wanderers then put on redoubled pressure, and twice O'Donoghue was caught up-field, and on each occasion Martin tricked him and secured two characteristic goals with fast-rising cross-shots. The second was only a minute from the end, and a game in which hard hitting predominated was left drawn.

Pembroke Wanderers—M. McNeill; R. E. Hertis, R. O'Donohue; S. J. Doyle, C. J. Little, E. D. Beadie; J. P. Lindsay, R. P. Martin, E Fahy, D. Allen, M. Gregan.

Railway Union—W. C. Leopold; K. N Browner, M. C. O'Donohue; J. J. Corscadden, W. Chiddick, H. W. Sully; T. C. Browner, T. O'Malley, V. G. Sully, H. Knight, W. E. Hennessy.

Umpires—Messrs. D. Robinson and L. Morrison.

STILL UNBEATEN

BUT NAAS HARD PRESSED BY CLONTARF.

NAAS .... 1 CLONTARF 0

Naas came near to dropping a point against Clontarf at Naas, but a goal scored by Jim Purcell, early in the first half, just enabled them to maintain their unbeaten record in the Senior League. Against the sound Clontarf defence, which included P Dolan (Midlands), Naas could make no progress, and but for slack shooting the visitors would have created a surprise.

The first half was rather slow, the rival half-back lines dominating the play. A. J. Keegan shot narrowly past for Clontarf, while Prowse left his goal to clear from Gibson, and Jim Purcell promptly netted. Midway in the concluding period Naas ahd an excellent chance of making the issue secure, for Prowse fell on the ball in attempting to clear, and had a penalty bully awarded against him. This was taken by Jim Purcell, but Prowse brought off a great clearance. Subsequently both teams forced penalty corners, but there was no further scoring. Near the finish Joe Tyndall was ordered off by one of the umpires for questioning his decision.

Naas—P. Leonard; J. J. Purcell, C. Tyndall; D. O'Rourke, Jack Tyndall, W. J. Flynn; J. M. Wheeler, D. M. Purcell, J. H. Purcell, D. H. Gibson, Joe Tyndall.

Clontarf—G. Prowse; H. V. Carroll, P. Dolan; D. O'Mahony, G. N. Coughlan, N. P. Healy; H. V. Keegan, S. E. Keegan, A. J. Keegan, C. S. Brislane, A. W. Palk.

Umpires—Messrs. W. F. McDonnell and G. Richardson.

A DESERVED VICTORY.

WICKLOW'S SECOND HALF RALLY OF NO AVAIL.

DUBLIN UNIVERSITY 3 WICKLOW 1

At Londonbridge road on Saturday Dublin University had a deserved win over Wicklow by 3 goals to 1. It was the visitors' first experience of the headquarters' ground, and they naturally took some time to adapt themselves to the fast pitch; but when they did settle down they held their own, and there was only a goal apiece scored in the second half.

By scoring two smart goals in the opening period Trinity had made matters fairly safe. Kenay saved soft shots from Carroll and Kerr, but otherwise he was not tested. The Trinity goals came from Lee and Darley, who scored from splendid centres by M'Veagh.

In the second half Wicklow tried a change in their attack, Orr and O'Reilly changing places. The visitors gave as much as they got in this period, and Trinity were often hard pressed. Darley, however, found the net again before C. Hopkins, following a penalty corner, scored from a mêlée in the circle.

Dublin University—G. T. Kenay; S. N. Varian, D. F. Williams; E. P. Griffith, C. G. Gregory, N. A. Kinnear; N. R. Fleming, H. W. Irwin, F. J. W. Darley, W. G. Lee, T. G. M'Veagh (capt.).

Wicklow—J. F. Paskins; R. Kent, E. J. Hopkins; C. D. Hopkins, N. M'Eachern, R. Roberts; J. M. Carroll, F. C. Gillette, J. S. D. Kerr, D. O'Reilly, Rev. A. W. F. Orr.

Umpires—Messrs. D. J. Colter and G. V. S. Ireland.

AN EVEN FIRST HALF.

MONKSTOWN PREVAIL BY ODD GOAL OF FIVE.

MONKSTOWN .... 3 THREE ROCK R. ... 2

The Excellent pitch at Londonbridge road enabled Three Rock Rovers and Monkstown to enjoy a pleasant game, which the latter deservedly won by the odd goal of five. Neither of the clubs was strongly represented, but Rovers were the greater sufferers, being without Brown, O'Reilly and Crawley.

Fast up and down play was the order in the first half, with honours even, and the score also even, Leonard having scored for Rovers and Legge for Monkstown. Monkstown did most of the attacking in the second half, when McElveen and J. Gray played well on the wings. The former got across numerous centres, but the insides were slow to turn them all to advantage. However, E. Gray and J. Gray had scored for Monkstown before Mahony got a good goal for Rovers from a penalty corner. Mahony was a dangerous home forward, but lacked support.

Three Rock Rovers—J. F. Eustace; R. Corbett, A. P. Kelly; A. P. Huet, G. V. Boyd, R. S. Wix; J. Johnston, R. Leonard, J. F. Mahony, R. S. Evans, S. Leonard.

Monkstown—N. Barton; A. Ormsby, G. Darcus; P. D. McWeeney, G. C. Tyndall, W. P. Delamere; J. McElveen, E. Gray, H. G. C. Legge, J. S. Brewster, J. Gray.

Umpires—Messrs. I. Howe and W. Mellon.

ONE GOAL DECIDES.

NARROW VICTORY FOR NATIONAL BANK.

NATIONAL BANK ... 1 DALKEY 0

In a good game at Kimmage road on Saturday, National Bank defeated Dalkey by a goal to nil. The Bank deserved their victory, as they had much the better of the second half, and but for the fine defence put up by Anderson (goal), Pender and Wilson, they must have scored a few more goals.

In the first half there was not much between them, although Anderson was lucky to get away a couple of shots. The Bank attacked a lot in the second half, but it was late in the game when they scored, Gill netting a high shot that gave Anderson no chance. The extreme wings of the Bank attack were good, and Gill was a hard-working inside forward. For Dalkey, the best of the forwards were Sarratt, Cobbe and O'Kelly.

Dalkey—Anderson; Pender, Wilson; Kenny, F. Regan, Keyms; Sarratt, Maloney, Sheehan, Cobbe, O'Kelly.

National Bank—Darcy; Hewitt, Joughin; Deignan, Foley, Felton; Dixon, Williams, Swain, Gill, Armstrong.

Umpires—Messrs. M'Donnell and Pike.

RESULTS SUMMARY.

LEINSTER SENIOR LEAGUE.—Pembroke Wanderers 2, Railway Union 2; Dublin University 3, Wicklow 1; Monkstown 3, Three Rock Rovers 2; National Bank 1, Dalkey 0; Naas 1, Clontarf 0.

MIDDLE LEAGUE A.—Clontarf 2nd 5, Y.M.C.A. 2; Civil Service 1st 2, National Bank 2nd 0; Railway Union 3rd 2, Three Rock Rovers 2nd 1.

MIDDLE LEAGUE B.—North Kildare 4, Dublin University 2nd 2; Avoca School 8, Portrane 1; Railway Union 2nd 8, Monkstown 2nd 0; Kingstown G.S. 2nd 4, Dalkey 2nd 2.

ULSTER SENIOR LEAGUE.—North Down 3, Antrim 3; South Antrim 1, Cliftonville 1; East Antrim 1, Lisnagarvey 0; Banbridge 2, Holywood 0.

NORTH-WEST TEAM V. BELFAST.

The following will represent the North-West district against the Belfast district at Antrim next Saturday:—Knowles (Raphoe); W. Wray (Y.M.C.A.), Perry (Raphoe); Herne (York and Lancs.), O'Flynn (Y.M.C.A.) (capt.), Tynan (Raphoe); Morritt (York and Lancs.), Whyte (Raphoe), Frew (Y.M.C.A.), Kennedy (Magee College), Guthrie (Magee College).

LADIES' HOCKEY.

SENIOR LEAGUE.

PEMBROKE W. .... 3 MAIDS 2

At Foxrock on Saturday, Wanderers opened the attack, but failed to score, Mrs. O'Reilly and Miss Mahony stopping them every time. After about fifteen minutes of swift up and down play Miss Moore broke away, and, from the edge of the circle, shot a beautifully placed goal, and from a corner she added a second. Wanderers now made a determined effort, and Miss Barry, receiving the ball from Miss Agnes Dowling, beat the Maids' "goalie" with a neat cross shot. At half-time Maids led by 2 goals to 1.

On resuming, almost from the bully Wanderers got away, and, from a melee in the goal-mouth, Miss Starkie scored. With about ten minutes to go, Wanderers were awarded a corner, and Miss Starkie made good use of it, scoring with a quick, hard shot.

MUCKROSS .... 3 OLD COLLEGE ... 1

At L.C.C., Rathmines, on Saturday, Muckross defeated Old College by 3-1. Muckross' forwards raced down from the opening bully, and Miss Harrington, getting possession, shot and followed in, to score off the rebound. College now rallied for a short period, and Miss Gray, after a good individual effort, equalised. In the second half Muckross proved too strong for the College side, who seldom left their own "25." However, it was not until the last ten minutes that Miss O'Rourke beat the defence, and Miss Harrington got the third.

OPTIMISTS .... 4 MONKSTOWN 0

Optimists fully deserved their victory over Monkstown, because their forwards took advantage of every opportunity that came their way, while the Monkstown forwards, on the few occasions that they got to the Optimists' circle, failed to make any impression on the defence offered by Misses Hanlon, Frith and Maxwell. Miss D. Mooney was deadly accurate in her shooting, getting all four goals for her side.

DUBLIN UNIVERSITY 4 OPTIMISTS 2nd 0

Dublin University had no difficulty in defeating Optimists 2nd at Gilford road. The home side gave their best display in the second half, and, with a little more judgment on the part of their forwards, might have scored on a couple of occasions. Dublin University forwards secured two goals in the first five minutes. They were well backed up by three very good halves, who were also masters over the opposing forwards. Miss McKay (2) and Miss Thompson (2) were the scorers for Dublin University.

RESULTS.

CHESS.

THE DUBLIN CHESS CLUB.

Our Chess Correspondent writes:—The annual general meeting of the Dublin Chess Club takes place next Wednesday at 5 p.m., but it is possible to give in advance the complete list of the prize-winners, among whom will be found several of the strongest players from other clubs which compete with Dublin for the Armstrong Cup.

For the Club Championship (eight competitors) the leading places fell to J. J. O'Hanlon, 1; T. G. Cranston, 2; P. Baker, 3. In the tourney Messrs. O'Hanlon and Cranston tied for first place, and Mr. O'Hanlon won the deciding match by 3½ to 1½. The unique position of this club in Irish chess may be gathered from the fact that these three players have held the championship of Ireland among themselves for over a quarter of a century.

For the Class I. Medal (ten entries) the result was—J. Reynolds. 1; R. T. Varian, 2; J. T. Gerrard, 3. Here again the two first-named tied, and Mr. Reynolds won the decider. Class II. Medal (ten entries) was won by H. T. Twomey, and Class III. Medal by P. McBrien, whose lamented death has taken place in the interval.

AN HISTORIC TROPHY.

The historic trophy associated with the Dublin Chess Club is the Hunt Challenge Gold Medal, presented by the late Mr. R. V. Hunt, the mainstay of the club for many years after its foundation in the sixties. It is not the matter of a yearly competition, for its holder may at any time be challenged. This was retained by Mr. W. Moffat Wilson, the President, in spite of two valiant attempts by Mr. Varian to gain possession of it.

In the ticket handicap tourneys 1,670 games were played, and in no less than 278 of these Mr. J. J. Morrissey took part, gaining a special prize with the high score of 53.6 per cent. In the three separate tourneys the prizes went as follows:—Winter—R. T. Varian, 1; A. F. Falkiner, 2; J. T. Gerrard, 3. Spring—Major J. P. M. Cotter, 1; J. T. Gerrard, 2; A. F. Falkiner, 3. Summer—L. Boyle, 1; T. G. Cranston, 2; J. McDonnell, 3.

LAWN TENNIS.

ARGENTINE CHAMPIONSHIPS.

BUENOS AIRES, Sunday.

The British players, Lee and Perry, were again successful in the National Championships here to-day, defeating the Argentine couple, Ollua and Bryans—7-5, 6-3, 6-4—in the men's doubles, while G. Lyttleton Rogers, the Irish player, and Gilbert Hall, U.S.A., won a hard-fought match against Hector Carrarruza and Lopez Pelliza, Argentina—3-6, 6-2, 7-5, 7-5.

In the ladies' singles Mrs. Holcroft Watson, Great Britain, scored an easy victory against Senorita Ricketts, Argentina—6-0, 6-2, and in the mixed doubles Miss Harvey and Eric Peters, Great Britain, beat Senora Rendtorff, Argentina, and L. Bonzi, Italy—6-0, 6-1.

HANS TIMMER ILL.

AMSTERDAM, Sunday.

M. Hans Timmer, the Dutch Davis Cup player, who frequently appeared at Wimbledon, is lying seriously ill from an attack of pleurisy in a nursing home at The Hague.

PERCY L.T.C.

There will be a meeting of the winter club to-night in the pavilion at 8.15.

Miss Blanche Sleap (74) was taken ill during the sermon at St. Andrew's Church, Worthing, yesterday, and was found to be dead when taken into the open air. Miss Sleap, who was formerly a nurse, had been staying for some time at the home of the Holyrood, Worthing.
